They Talk, the Wind Blows.
Only One Billion.
Shaw's Universe Builders.
Poison, 5 Cents a Drink.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HUNDREDS of candidates, winding up campaigns, tell the public how good they are and how bad their competitors are. The competitors do the same and the effect is no greater than that of a wind blowing over a frozen lake. Not a ripple appears.

The people know that something is the matter and know that those in charge of their government haven't the vaguest idea what the trouble is, what caused it, or how to cure it. They know, however, that it will be cured, and listen with indifference to promises and accusations that have little meaning.

FOUR BANKS are to combine in New York City, making a one billion dollar concern that will have more branches than any other bank in America. It will not have more dollars, one billion being "small change" among institutions like the Chase, Equitable, National City and others.

ALL THINGS, even staid finance, change. Once a great bank took pride in immobility, remaining on the same spot for a century or more. Now banks are in the chain store business, competing with drug stores, cigar stores and gas stations for the best corners. To hold your place in this day, as Mr. Murphy said, it is necessary to keep moving.

UNCLE SAM changes his view also. A few years ago he was chopping Standard Oil into little pieces because it threatened to become a billion dollar concern, which was more than he could stand.

Now, American Telephone and Telegraph alone owns five billion dollars worth of real assets, to say nothing of good will and franchise value, and Uncle Sam is calm. He has been in the billion dollar business himself since the big war.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW revealed a list of the "eight builders of universe" at a dinner in honor of Prof. Einstein. His list reads: Aristotle, Pythagoras, Copernicus, Ptolemy, Galileo, Kepler, Newton, Einstein.

It is a good list, although the future has still to pass on Einstein's right to a place in it.

Shaw might have crowded in Archimedes, who did so much physics that for one thousand years nothing of importance was added to his work. And he might well have included Descartes, one of the six greatest astronomers.

PROHIBITION AGENTS report a place in New York where something called whisky is sold for five cents a drink, 15 cents for a full pint.

The art of making spirits, which was unknown to the ancients, never produced anything more horrible than the vile concoction sold for five cents a drink. It is said to be worse even than the product of New York's Bowery "smoke houses," where men pay 10 cents a drink for denatured alcohol and water.

THE BRITISH Labor government is wise in one thing. MacDonald refuses to consider any tariff on wheat.

To tax bread in a country unable to support more than half of its population would seem the limit of foolishness.

France manages to help farmers without increasing the price of bread. Every barrel of flour used in France must contain a certain percentage of French-grown wheat. The percentage is adjusted according to the size of the French crop. By this arrangement the French farmer gets for his wheat in cash more than double the price paid to the American or Canadian farmer. And the French people buy good bread much more cheaply than we buy it in America. Wise Frenchmen.

A MEMBER of Congress says the bushel of wheat for which our farmer gets 60 cents, when made into bread, sells for $6. And a great baking concern says the price of bread has little to do with the price of wheat. It's a matter of wages.

One fact receives too little attention. It costs too much to distribute goods in the United States. Production is on an efficiency basis, distribution on an extravagant basis.

MUSSOLINI HAS definite ideas about supplying employment and giving a good celebration to the nation.

In honor of the eighth anniversary of his march on Rome with the Fascist army, 2,000 different public works are announced, representing a cost of $100,000,000.

Mussolini appeared on horseback before 10,000 mutilated war veterans and was wildly cheered, as well he might be. No matter what happens hereafter, nobody can take from him one of the greatest successes in the world's history.

BISHOP MATTHEWS, head of the Protestant Episcopal church in New Jersey, says:

"If the people are not temperate, no law will make them so.

"We find in nature the miracle of life, and no law ever gave or can give life. Law is the manifestation of life. Life is not the product of law."

The drys say:

"That has nothing to do with prohibition. Law cannot give life, but it can protect life, and make it better. If not, why have any law books? They all deal with life, and the effort to improve it."

QUAKE ROCKS TOWNS IN ITALY

27 Known Dead, 200 Hurt; Government Sends Speedy Relief for Sufferers

ANCONA, Italy, Oct. 30.—(A.P.)—Twenty-seven persons were known to be dead and at least 200 injured by an earthquake that shook the Adriatic coast this morning. It was believed that casualties in towns unheard from at midday would appreciably increase the totals.

There were 20 dead and more than 100 injured in the town of Senigallia, on the coast, and five dead and upwards of 50 injured in the Province of Marche, which includes the City of Ancona.

MANY HOMES DAMAGED

Villages in the western part of the province had not been heard from at noon. It was there that the authorities felt the toll might have been increased.

Practically every house in this city of more than 50,000 inhabitants was damaged to some extent. It was considered remarkable that there had been so comparatively few casualties.

The people of the city were panic-stricken and refused to work indoors today. The streets and public squares were thronged.

At least 25 were on the official list of dead, with two others in isolated sections.

RELIEF RUSHED

The ministry of the interior said every effort was being made to reach the isolated towns with relief.

The earthquake struck shortly after 8 o'clock this morning. The tremors lasted 20 minutes. Senigallia, like Ancona, suffered heavy damage to property. Hardly a house escaped.

The epicenter of the disturbance was in the Adriatic Sea near

HEIRESS' GEMS THOUGHT FOUND

A bracelet, which may be the $10,500 diamond-studed ornament lost yesterday by Mrs. Eleanor Post Hutton Sturges, heiress and wife of the noted playwright, was reported found today by H. G. Yetter, an employe of the American Bridge Company, Frick Building.

Yetter notified the management of the William Penn Hotel that he had picked up a bracelet in William Penn way yesterday.

Informed that the precious band presumably had been recovered, Sturges is reported to have said:

"Let the insurance company worry about that."

W. C. Eberle, local representative of the Insurance Company of North America, received description of the identification marks from his New York office. He will compare the bracelet with the description tomorrow.

Mrs. Sturges, who inherited the Battle Creek (Mich.) cereal millions, is here with her husband, whose latest play is being produced at the Nixon.

U. S. Judge Upholds Birth Control Books

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Federal Judge William H. Kirkpatrick today ruled that importation of three books by Dr. Marie Carmichael Stopes, London physician, on birth control, did not violate any tariff law.

The books, consigned to Philadelphia social workers, were seized by customs authorities several months ago. Judge Kirkpatrick refused to permit the case to go to the jury, saying he had read the books and had found "nothing in them which would deprave the morals of those who read them."

Forest Fires In West Kills 8

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30.—(INS.)—Eight men were reported killed and more than a score hurt in the million-dollar forest and brush fires raging today on two principal fronts along the Los Angeles-Ventura County border.

Five Filipino ranch hands were missing since they plunged into a flame-swept canyon to stop the fire. One man, employed by the Texas Oil Company, was reported killed in a boiler explosion in the Montebellow field. Two other men were reported burned to death in Santa Susanna pass, where 20 fire fighters were treated for burns.

The Montebello field was the first of four oil fields to be actually invaded by flames, according to report.

The boiler explosion was said to have resulted from the onrush of flames from the wooded and brushy environs of the field.

Billion Dollars For River Work Urged by Curley

By JOHN T. LAMBERT,
[illegible] Service.

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—A billion dollar project for development of the Mississippi River in order that business may be revived, unemployment relieved and the future greatness of America envisioned, has been submitted to President Hoover by Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston.

An announcement by President Hoover of an intention to go forward at once with this billion dollar development would electrify the country, Mayor Curley declared in a letter to him.

It would destroy the grim psychology of fear, he said, put America on the road to business recovery and dissipate unemployment almost overnight.

MEANS QUICK JOB AID

In addition to the armies of men required for the immediate construction in the Mississippi valley and its tributaries Mayor Curley said it would afford gainful occupation to many thousands in the manufacture of the basic construction materials, ranging from the brick kiln to the electrical equipment manufacturies.

Mayor Curley declared that the deepening and widening of the river, opening it fully to ocean borne traffic, would create an inland industrial empire more consequential than the Louisiana purchase, because no great manufacturers could afford to be without

REDS TO DEFY BAN HERE

The Communist party will stage a pre-election rally at noon Saturday on the steps of the City-County Building, Max Salzman, district organizer, informed Mayor Charles H. Kline in a letter made public today. The letter states that an application for a permit was refused by Police Supt. Walsh.

The Socialist party, at a meeting last night, took action to press an appeal against the arrest and fine of James H. Maurer, Socialist candidate for governor, who was taken in custody Tuesday when representatives of the party attempted to hold a mass meeting at the City-County Building after being refused a permit.

UNION JOINS PROTEST

The Civil Liberties Union joined in a protest over refusal of the permit and arrest of Maurer and others at the meeting which was broken up by police.

According to Attorney Morris Schneirov, representing Maurer, the Socialists last night decided

Bishop Cannon, Ill, Has Turn for Worse

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, who went to a hospital last week for treatment, today had taken a "slight change for the worse."

Maurer Asserts Jail Here 'Not Fit for Dog'

READING, Pa., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Councilman James H. Maurer, Socialist candidate for governor, back from Pittsburgh, in detailing his experiences there after his arrest for speaking withouta permit, said:

"They locked us up in a dirty, odorous cell until we got bail."

"How long were you locked up?"

"About four or five minutes. The place was lousy. I told them that in Reading we wouldn't even lock up a dog in such a place."

Clara Bow Admits Troth With Richman Is Broken

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 30.—(INS.)—Clara Bow, red-head film actress, was back home today, unpacking 18 trunks filled with new clothes brought from New York, and blithely announcing she was through forever with Harry Richman, New York night club owner.

Miss Bow was met at the train by Rex Bell, film player, and reputed "best boy friend."

"Harry Richman and I called off the engagement some time ago but I've never wanted to say anything about it until now," Miss Bow declared.

"His work keeps him in New York and mine keeps me here, so what was the use?

"I sent him back his ring."

The actress said she had learned to play checkers on the train and would confine herself to that game, as the result of her recent experience at the gaming tables at Calneva in which she was said to have lost $13,900 and then stopped payment on her checks.

'RADIO CURE' CASE NEAR CLOSE

Patients Testify to Aid By Accused; Physician Denies 'Reckless' Claims

Testimony in the trial of Dr. J. E. Johnston, East End "radio doctor," was concluded shortly before noon today, and Attorney W. H. Coleman, for the defense, began his address to the jury.

Johnston is charged with securing money by false pretense in treating patients with "radio waves." Several witnesses testified to the efficacy of Johnston's treatments at the morning session of Criminal Court. Judge Samuel H. Gardner is presiding.

DENIES "CURE" CLAIM

Johnston on cross-examination, denied that he ever promised a "cure," saying the word was taboo in his office.

Miss Margaret Johnston, of 816 Ross Avenue, Wilkinsburg, a retired school teacher of the Pittsburgh schools, testified she and several of her pupils had been treated by Dr. Johnston several years ago with good results.

Bert Sloss, 1205 Love street, related that his wife was treated by the defendant by electric waves and by telephone. He said:

"When my wife felt sick she would call Dr. Johnston by telephone. He would tune in and in a few hours she would feel

Berlin, Wife Clash; Ellen Sheds Tears

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(INS.)—Irving Berlin, song writer, and his wife, the former Ellen Mackay, staged a domestic tiff today when they passed through Chicago en route to French Lick, Ind.

When Berlin remonstrated against his wife's objection to being photographed, she burst into tears. Finally she consented to pose, and the couple hurried to their train.

Hoover's Sick Son Goes to White House

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Herbert Hoover, Jr., who has been convalescing at the presidential lodge in the Virginia Mountains from a tubercular infection, has been brought to the White House and will leave tomorrow for Asheville, N. C.

"Baering" Down On the News With Arthur "Bugs" Baer

The calamity howler is an all-male chorus.

You don't require a buy now campaign for the ladies. They'll buy now, then, and in between.

Get after the man who can tell how long he has been married by his wife's hat. He's the stymie who puts the dampers on new bundles and yells:

"Where do you think I get my money? Out of a pump?"

But if all our bootleggers, all our bookmakers and all our dice shooters were sent to China, he'd take the next boat.

Charity may start at home, but it won't run the house. If every husband turned over his entire pay to the wife this country would run out of wrapping paper and string for packages.

MUSIC, GIBBONS TO AID HEMPHILL

The thunder of political oratory will blend with the dulcet tones of a grand opera soprano, and the soothing harmony of orchestra strings and wood winds, when the Liberal party of Allegheny County makes its near-final plea for votes in Carnegie Music Hall, North Side, tonight.

The musical numbers will be given by Martha Atwood, Metropolitan Opera star; the Pittsburgh Male Chorus, and Nirella's orchestra.

Among the speakers listed are Samuel Harden Church, Francis H. Bohlen, Attorney J. I. Simon, Joseph A. Bowers, of Leechburg, Capt. Tim Haley and Capt. Arno S. McClellan, former sheriff of Greene County.

Floyd Gibbons, rapid fire radio artist, will appear at the Liberal rally in the same hall on Monday evening. He will broadcast announcements over KDKA between 10 and 10:30 o'clock.

A. M. THOMPSON FOR PINCHOT

A. M. Thompson, a leading Democrat and dean of the University of Pittsburgh Law School, today announced he would support Gifford Pinchot, the Republican nominee for governor. He formerly was a candidate on the Democratic ticket for secretary of internal affairs and also ran for judge in Allegheny county.

Thompson sent this telegram to Pinchot at his Philadelphia headquarters and a copy to County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, Pinchot manager in Western Pennsylvania. He said:

"Although I am a Democrat and as such stumped the state against you eight years ago, I now support your candidacy for governor of Pennsylvania, and I am glad to join with Vance McCormick, Wilson, McSparran and other Democrats in taking the same stand."

POSSE SEEKS OTHER PAIR IN FLIGHT

Suspects Captured in Gun Battle Followng Threat To Bomb Yocum Home

KEWANEE, Ill., Oct. 30.—(A.P.)—Two men were in custody today and vigilantes were closing in on two confederates alleged to have kidnaped Earl Y. Yocum, wealthy Galva (Ill.) banker, last Saturday and held him for ransom three days.

Orville Whiskers was held in the county jail at Cambridge, accused of plotting the extortion scheme with three other Henry County men. Verne Algreen, son-in-law of Whiskers and a mechanic at Galva, was captured while hiding in a farm house on Lone Tree road not far from the scene of a gun battle between the fugitives and a band of vigilantes early today.

Algreen was said to have been recognized by townsfolk as he leaped from the automobile and escaped into the open fields.

PLANE JOINS SEARCH

Two others were hunted by a hastily organized posse, while an airplane hovered overhead to spot them. These two, police said, also were known, implicated by the statement of Ed McKee, a farmer, that he was offered $100 a day by Algreen for the use of his farm as a hideout for Yocum's kidnapers. The suspects are Harry Whiskers, brother of the man held at Cam-

REALTOR URGES FIGHT ON TAX

The aid of Pittsburgh builders in a movement for tax reduction on real estate was asked by James W. Cree, Jr., president of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, speaking at the noon luncheon of the Builders' Exchange at the Keystone Athletic Club.

Real estate is bearing more of the burden than it should carry, he declared, pointing out that personal property, which forms more than half of the wealth of the country, pays comparatively little of the taxes.

The automobile, one of the heaviest sources of expense, pays nothing to defray the cost of local government, Mr. Cree said.

Tax exempt property also is a serious factor. In Pittsburgh 20 per cent of the real estate is exempt from local taxes. Mr. Cree declared local government is not managed as efficiently as it should be, calling attention to the waste exposed by the real estate board in the market houses and City-County Building. He pointed out that the value of all real estate is based on its earning capacity and that when this is reduced the entire community suffers.

Mr. Cree recently was elected president of the Pennsylvania Real Estate Association. His first object is to seek legislation which will make possible a complete survey of the real estate tax situation.

Walsh Allows Fun, Bans Rowdyism Halloween

"We want everyone to enjoy themselves and have a good time tomorrow night, but we want them to do so without becoming vulgar."

Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh today delivered orders to police inspectors throughout the city concerning their program in connection with Halloween festivities throughout the district.

The city's entire force of 1,300 men will be on duty tomorrow, according to Walsh. He has listed several bans which will be enforced tomorrow and which include use of confetti, "wife-beaters," talcum powder, ticklers and formation of flying wedges. Walsh has issued strict orders to arrest any violators of his rules.

SIXTH OF POPULATION WITHOUT JOBS, UNIONS WARN U. S.

HARMONY BIG NEED, LABOR URGES

Labor Statement Issued as Government Mobilizes Agencies of Country

By PIERCE MILLER.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—While the federal government continued today to mobilize all agencies throughout the country to prevent suffering this winter by providing jobs for the huge army of idle workers, the American Federation of Labor in a summary of the situation issued a statement declaring one-sixth of the population was th...atened with "acute need from unemployment."

CALL FOR CO-OPERATION

Although the federation's statement was far from painting a roseate picture, confidence was expressed that if all groups join wholeheartedly in the campaign for jobs and relief, unemployment may be largely conquered. The statement said, in part:

"The government officially estimates the unemployed at 2,500,000. An increase of usual proportions would bring the number well over 5,000,000. Including the families depending on these men and women, over 20,000,000 persons, or one-sixth of our entire population, are threatened with acute need from unemployment this winter."

The federation said employment had not improved since September, and that trade union reports from 24 cities showed 21 per cent still out of work. This, however, was not a cause for discouragement as to the general business situation, it merely indicating that industrial activity has not increased more than usual at this season.

WARNS OF INCREASE

Labor figures show that last winter unemployment increased 71 per cent from October to January, and the year before when conditions were "unusually favorable" there was an increase of 47 per cent in that period. The federation warned:

"Business men, welfare groups, government agencies, labor and all other groups, must concentrate on measures to provide against unemployment in the next few months if we wish to avoid a similar increase. Wage earners this year have no reserves to fall back on. Savings have been exhausted in the hard struggle of the past year."

In addition to those out of work, the statement declared millions more are employed on part time.

"Our figures for trade union members, who probably suffer less than others from 'unemployment,' show that 15 per cent were working part time in October."

In the metal trades 23 per cent and in other manufactures 29 per cent, and in clothing and textiles 41 per cent are working on a part time basis, it was estimated.

15 CTIES IMPROVE

While 15 cities reported conditions better in October than in September, these reported the situation worse, Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Paterson, N. J., and Seattle.

The federation gave this comparitive table for more than 800,000 union members:

	Per cent Unemployed Oct. 1930	Per cent Unemployed Sept. 1930	Per cent Working PT Oct. 1930	Per cent Working PT Oct. 1930

Coolidge to Give Campaign Speech

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—The high spot of the Republican campaign in Massachusetts was scheduled for tonight, when former President Calvin Coolidge will break his political silence with his only radio speech of the fall.

A nation-wide hookup was refused by the former President, who said that his speech was of interest chiefly to the Massachusetts voters. He will speak in the interests of William M. Butler, Republican senatorial candidate, who managed the Coolidge campaign of 1924, and Frank G. Allen, who seeks a second term as governor.

WIFE DIVORCES CITY DETECTIVE

Mrs. Maude Mallasee, of 75 Crafton avenue, Crafton, was granted a divorce by Judge Elder W. Marshall today from City Detective Elmer Mallasee, former police lieutenant of the West End, on the ground of cruelty.

The wife had testified at the hearing that her husband had been cruel to her since their marriage in 1911. She left him in 1927.

She testified:

"He brought another woman into my home and told me he did not love me any more, but loved her. I understand he is living at the present time with this woman, who is married and has two children."

Their married life ended, the wife testified when Mallasee came home one night "like a crazy man," and she hit him with a hammer.

Public Safety Director James M. Clark stated that if Mrs. Mallasee's testimony was substantiated by investigation, he would demand a report from Mallasee.

QUAKE ROCKS MANY TOWNS

Senigallia, which, so far as now known, was the hardest hit.

Military officials in neighboring provinces rushed troops in motor cars and trucks into the stricken area.

It was at first feared that the isloted villages, as during July's quake, would report the heaviest casualties but, as town after town was heard from, it began to appear that the total of dead might not reach more than two score.

Immediately after the quake terror swept over the area. Work was suspended and the population flocked into the streets, refusing to re-enter their homes in fear that the shocks would be repeated. In fact, two additional slight tremors were reported later at several points.

The major disturbance was felt in a wide area from Triest to Naples, but the death-dealing blow fell in the region of Ancona.

Airplanes were sent this afternoon over the outlying villages in order to determine if possible how badly they had been struck and whether they had been isolated.

Bathhouses at Senigallia, which is a popular summer resort, were turned into hospitals, the local hospital being filled to its capacity.

Soldiers supplied camp cots for the bathouses and aided in carrying the injured.

TWO ARRESTED IN KIDNAPING

The suspects eluded capture last night when they fled from what officers believed was the final pay-off tryst a mile west of here. Three highway policemen surprised the men, but they fled at the officers' approach.

WRECK AUTO

One shot was fired by the highway police to halt the extortionists' car, believed the same in which Yocum was carried off Saturday night. The kidnapers fired once in return and finally crashed their machine through a farm fence four miles from the start of the chase. They fled afoot.

Police and volunteers from all towns in this section of the state were called out to patrol roads.

Meanwhile 50 vigilantes with rifles and shotguns guarded the Yocum estate at Galava, with orders to shoot to kill anyone who tried to break through the lines and get to the house. This order followed a telephone call to the Yocum home last night in which the banker was reported to have been threatened with bombing unless an additional installment of $10,000 ransom was paid immediately.

To further guard against any attack on the house, large floodlights were installed, and the house and grounds were brilliantly illuminated all night.

CAR IDENTIFIED

The automobile which the three men abandoned was stolen in Kewanee last week. It belonged to Hulburtt Gale, who lives in Galva and works in Kewanee.

The abandoned car bore an Iowa license, and, according to a highway officer at Princeton, was seen early yesterday morning passing through that town, followed by the car of Andrew Anderson, cashier of Yocum's bank.

A tip from an undisclosed source to Sheriff Charles Nash, of Henry County, revealed that the final installment of the ransom, reported to total $50,000, was to have been paid last night. Officers said it was not handed over before the surprise and flight of the extortionists.

McGovern Summoned Over Vote Machines

A deputy sheriff today served a subpena on County Commissioner Charles McGovern for his appearance tomorrow morning at the hearing of Francis S. Guthrie's suit to prevent the county officials from carrying out the contract for $1,000,000 worth of voting machines awarded to Poole Engineering Company, of Baltimore. The deputy was also in possession of subpenas for Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock.

to allow the Civil Liberties Union to handle the appeal, with the proviso that the union must carry the case to the highest courts in case of an adverse decision in the county courts.

The basis of the Socialist protest is unjust discrimination in refusing that party a permit to meet, when permission was granted the Republicans for a like gathering last Saturday.

MAURER FINED

Maurer was fined $10 in Central Court on a charge of violating a city ordinance.

Allan G. Harper, state secretary of the Civil Liberties Union, today said:

"The union is determined to carry this case as far in the court as it is necessary to establish the illegality of the local ordinance. It is a clear cut case of discrimination and denial of equal rights. Every one admits the power of the police to protect the public from traffic congestion, but the local ordinance, as now framed, gives unreasonable discretion to the authorities and permits discrimination, as is shown in the case."

FINDS HUSBAND KILLED BY GAS

When Mrs. Ida Mauro, 1024 Warlo street, North Side, returned to her home this morning, after more than a week's absence, she found her husband, Samuel Mauro, 35, dead in bed. The windows were closed and a gas fire was burning in the room.

Woods Run police notified the coroner, who pronounced death due to carbon monoxide poisoning. The condition of the body indicated the man had been dead for several days.

Mrs. Mauro is a nurse and had been employed in McKeesport for the past several weeks.

HEARST TO GIVE NEW DRY PLAN OVER RADIO

KDKA to Pickup Editor's Talk Sunday Night; Will Be Collier Hour Guest

External Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Seventeen principal stations from coast to coast have been joined in the National Broadcasting Company's network over which William Randolph Hearst will address a nation-wide audience, Sunday evening, between 8:15 and 9:15 p. m. Eastern Standard time, on the subject "A Temperance Plan to Supplant Prohibition."

The stations which will be in the network, it was announced today by the National Broadcasting Company, are WJZ, New York; WBZ, Springfield, Mass.; WBZA, Boston; WHAM, Rochester; KDKA, Pittsburgh; WJR, Detroit; WLW, Cincinnati; KYW, Chicago; KWK, St. Louis; WREN, Kansas City; KOA, Denver; KSL, Salt Lake City; KHQ, Spokane; KOMO, Seattle; KFI, Los Angeles; KGW, Portland, Ore., and KPO, San Francisco.

COLLIER'S GUEST

Mr. Hearst will be heard as guest speaker on Collier's Radio Hour, a weekly feature. He will go on the air from Station KFI, the Earl C. Anthony station in Los Angeles. He will be meeting radio listeners for the second time since his recent trip abroad. As guest of Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, he spoke from New York several weeks ago.

The publisher will be introduced by John B. Kennedy, associate editor of Collier's Weekly, who serves as master of ceremonies for the weekly programs, which combine dramatic and musical presentations with addresses by distinguished guests. Another speaker on the program Sunday evening will be John J. Raskob, financier, and chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who will speak on "The Restoration of Prosperity."

TO SPEAK 12 MINUTES

Mr. Hearst's address will last approximately 12 minutes. Listeners in the central zone will hear him between 7:15 and 8:15 p. m., those in the Mountain Time zone between 6:15 and 7:15 p. m., and those on the Pacific Coast, between 5:15 and 6:15 p. m., the time the Collier's hour is on the air.

Weather Conditions.

Pressure is relatively low along the middle and north Atlantic coast, and a trough extends westward over the lower lakes and thence southward to the Ohio Valley. High pressure overlies the plains, the Rocky Mountains, and the plateau region, and a low appears in the far Northwest. Rain has fallen over the east Gulf states, along the Atlantic Coast, and in the northern lake region, while snow is falling today in Iowa and Minnesota. Further falls in temperature occurred east of the Mississippi, in the plains and northward into Manitoba, and over the central Rocky Mountains, while it is somewhat warmer in the Canadian Northwest.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary. Stake at Franklin is 0.1 foot; Lock No. 7, 4.4; Pittsburgh, 9.5; Dam No. 4, 9.1; Dam No. 6, 7.5; Dam No. 9, 8.1, and Dam No. 12, 4.0. The dams are up.

Wee Princess Christened By Water From Jordan

LONDON, Oct. 30. — (AP.) — With water brought from River Jordan, little Princess Margaret Rose, second daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, was christened in the private chapel of Buckingham Palace by the Archbishop of Canterbury today.

A boys' choir from the royal chapel sang hymns selected by the duchess.

The little princess, 10 weeks old today, wore a robe of cream satin and old Brussels lace which was made for Queen Victoria and has been used for nearly every royal christening since, including that of the baby's sister, Princess Elizabeth.

much better. She gained 20 pounds."

Henry G. Brown, caretaker at Woodlawn Cemetery, and Joseph A. Dickey, of East Pittsburgh, an accountant for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, added their indorsement of the doctor's methods.

CURES IN COURT

Johnston's testimony yesterday that his method of starting "waves" which became active when they clashed with waves emanated by the human body and cured ills was substantiated by Dr. H. Bennett, of Lima, O., a homeopathic physician and teacher of the science of "Aetheronics," after more than two hours on the stand.

CURES OFFER TESTIMONY

Among those who took the stand to offer testimony as to the efficacy of Dr. Johnston's course of treatment were Dr. Clara Williams, of Wilkinsburg; the Rev. Robert Bell, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, North Sewickley Township; his wife, Mrs. Ida Bell; Mrs. Lena Stoop, of Crafton; her daughter, Ellen Stoop, who said Dr. Johnston cured her of sleeping sickness after other methods failed; the Rev. W. H. Hammond, of 4255 Bryn Mawr road, connected with the Pittsburgh Bible Institute; Dr. D. E. Bryson, of New Kensington; Dr. Charles P. Gettings, and Elliot Kellar.

In the opinion of Dr. Bennett no one—unless in the best of health and who has smooth nerves—can hope to be an exponent of "Aetheronics."

Assistant District Attorney James Geltz then asked:

"Can this apparatus be purchased by anyone?"

Dr. Bennett answered:

"No. We sell the apparatus only to those who are fit to handle it—that is, real people."

Whale Skeletons Found in Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Prof. Russell C. Hussey, University of Michigan geologist, announced that the skeletons of two whales have been found in Michigan.

One is in a swamp 10 miles south of Ann Arbor and another in the northern part of the state near Alpena. Dr. Hussey estimated the age of the specimens at 20,000 to 30,000 years. He believes that the whales reached this region through the valleys of the St. Lawrence or Hudson rivers at a time when a sea covered the region of the present Great Lakes.

DEMOCRATS AIM AT TAX PROBE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(INS.)—Investigation of tax refunds made under Secretary Mellon will be one of the first undertakings of the Democrats should they win control of the House in next week's election, Representative John N. Garner, (Dem.), of Texas, minority leader, declared here last night.

The Texan charged the Treasury has been too liberal in making adjustments to taxpayers in refunds, rebates and credits. He said:

"The recent report of the Treasury on another refund to the Aluminum Company of America of $246,917 on 1918 taxes should impress upon the American public the necessity that exists for calling a halt in this lavish refunding of taxes, except upon a court decision covering each case."

DO-X TO BRAVE OCEAN SUNDAY

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 30.—(INS.)—The start of the trans-Atlantic flight of the DO-X has been tentatively set for Sunday morning, it was announced here today.

Capt. J. Errol Boyd and Lieut. Harry P. Connor, who flew the ship from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to the Scilly Islands and thence to Croydon, announced their intention of flying to Germany to view the giant flying boat DO-X.

ELECT G. O. P. CONGRESS--MELLON

Control by Party Necessary To Hasten Prosperity, He Declares Over Radio

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The closing days of the campaign have developed a new Republican battlecry. It is this:

"Elect a Republican Congress in order to quicken the country's recovery from business depression."

Facing certain losses in Senate and House in next Tuesday's balloting, the Republican high command has decided to again rest its case on an appeal to the business interests of the country, as it has done many times before.

SIX MEMBERS SPEAK

During the past week six members of President Hoover's cabinet have delivered national addresses emphasizing the thought that if the country returns a Democratic Congress next week it will severely retard the country's recovery from depression.

It was the point most heavily stressed last night by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon in his first and only oratorical contribution to the campaign.

While ex-Gov. Al Smith was lambasting the Republicans in a speech in New York, for "failing to meet the crisis in business," and for "broken prosperity pledges," the soft-voiced secretary of the treasury, addressing the country from Washington, was assuring the voters that the Republicans were not to blame for hard times, and that anything but a Republican Congress at this time would only further complicate matters.

LAUDS HOOVER

Secretary Mellon said:

"President Hoover has shown himself a man capable of dealing with great emergencies. I am confident he will lead the country out of its present difficulties, but if he is to do so with a minimum of friction and loss of time his hands should not be tied by a Congress controlled by his political opponents.

"It is not a time for divided authority. It is rather a time for strong and united action and in asking support for the President and the administration I do so in the belief that in this way we will attain most quickly that full measure of economic recovery which is inevitable in a nation so self-reliant and so justifiably confident of the future."

ECONOMIC CAUSE

The administration, Mellon said, is not responsible for the depression, which is world-wide and due to economic rather than political causes. The chief cause of it, he asserted, was lack of balance between production and consumption. The enormously stimulated processes of production, nurtured by war time needs, have simply outstripped the world's consumption power, he said. Time will be necessary to adjust it. He concluded:

"The most that any administration can do is to keep the boat steady and headed in the right direction until the storm blows over, and that the President has shown he is well able to do."

Hoover to Remain Out of Campaign

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. — (INS.) — President Hoover will take no further part in the political campaign which ends next Tuesday, it was announced at the White House today.

The announcement was made to quiet rumors that Mr. Hoover was going to make an eleventh-hour appeal to the country for the election of a Republican Congress. It was said he plans no such move.

Diamond Still Held At Island Hospital

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(INS.)—Jack (Legs) Diamond was still a patient at Metropolitan Hospital on Welfare Island today.

Although he obtained $10,000 bail in which he is held as a material witness in his shooting in the Hotel Monticello, physicians declined to sign papers for his transfer to another hospital. It was said Diamond would probably be permitted to leave the hospital and go to another institution or to his country home at the end of the week.

Fox Chapel District Puts Ban on Hunting

The Fox Chapel district, embracing more than half of O'Hara Township and the southern half of Indiana Township, will be closed to outside hunters this season by edict of property-holders.

More than 500 signs, specially prepared by the Fox Chapel District Association, have been placed on properties warning hunters that trespassers will be prosecuted.

The object of the closure, according to a member of the association, largely is for protection of small game. Many property owners have foresworn hunting on their own preserves, while others will shoot sparingly so that birds and rabbits will not be exterminated.

Bulgarian Capital Awaits Royal Newlyweds

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 30.—(INS.)—This ancient city was in a flurry of excitement and feverish preparation today over the impending arrival of King Boris and his bride, the former Princess Giovanna, of Italy.

With the royal couple due at Bourgas, Southeastern Bulgaria, aboard the yacht Czar Ferdinand, some time tonight, Sofia prepared to extend a fitting welcome to the King and his new Queen when they reach their capital tomorrow.

Bulgarian and Italian flags flew from homes and buildings throughout the city, while the streets were gaily decorated with wreaths and bunting in which the national colors of the two countries were intertwined. The couple will travel from Bourgas to Sofia by train, an official reception being accorded them at the Sofia station.

Soon after their arrival, a second marriage according to the Bulgarian orthodox rites will be performed.

JEFFERSON COUNTY SCHOOL HEAD HEARS MOTHER'S CHARGE

BABY BARRED FROM COURT BY JUDGE

Woman Assistant Weeps As She Accuses Educator; Wife of Accused Attends

By WILLIAM PFARR,
Staff Correspondent.

BROOKVILLE, Pa., Oct. 30. — An eight-months-old baby boy who has blue eyes and thin blonde hair gurgled in this small town's courthouse yesterday. He gurgled once, and when he gurgled again he looked back at his mother, but her face was buried in her hands.

Judge Samuel Lemmon Reed, an elderly and not unsympathetic jurist, then ordered the baby's nurse to take him from the courtroom. He was making too much noise for the court.

The mother looked up as the baby was carried out. She was Miss Anna Kyle, a sedate woman of 41 years, born and reared in this territory.

ACCUSES SCHOOL HEAD

Then Miss Kyle looked over a few tables of lawyers and saw the man she has brought into court—Prof. Charles A. Anderson, superintendent of Jefferson County's schools.

Prof. Anderson, the defendant, is a Sunday school teacher in Brookville. He is still teaching his class.

Until last May, a month after her baby was born, Miss Kyle was assistant to Prof. Anderson, who is a married man, the father of two children.

Robert Kyle, invalid father of the plaintiff, testified he had gone to Prof. Anderson and told him he had been named father of the child. He said they discussed provision for care of the baby.

GIVES MOTHER $100

Mrs. Kyle said Anderson had given her $100 after the baby was born and that Anderson had not denied its parenthood. The mother also said:

"My daughter never kept company with a man in her life. When Prof. Anderson was told he was named as father of my daughter's baby, he remarked, 'It is a very unfortunate circumstance.'"

The prosecution rested its case at noon.

Mrs. A. C. McKinley, president of the Brookville W. C. T. U., was the first witness this morning. She said she had written Prof. Anderson a letter last September, saying:

"Unless you give me assurance that you will entirely efface yourself from your present position, I will notify the proper authorities of your relations with Miss Kyle, which make you unfit to hold your office."

SUIT THREATENED

Mrs. McKinley said Anderson answered the letter threatening to sue her for damages, and later did file suit for slander against her, her husband and Miss Kyle.

Dr. S. B. Shoemaker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here, testified Anderson had sent for him and denied relations with Miss Kyle.

Miss Kyle was on the witness stand four hours yesterday. Her neighbors crowded the courtroom. Most of the time she was an assured, contained witness. Once or twice she wept. She testified Prof. Anderson was the father.

She told a jury of two young women, one middle-aged woman and nine youngish men that because her elderly mother and her invalid father were ill, she kept secret the news of the baby's birth. The child was named Keith William—"I call it Bill," she said.

The facts may indicate that this was a startling trial, but it wasn't. Respectability was written all over it—in the serious faces of the townspeople who crowded the seats and in the faces of the jurors themselves. There were no smiles except those of "Bill."

Within a few chairs of Prof Anderson was his wife, and two seats from her were the parents of Miss Kyle.

Appearing as special prosecutor in the case is Attorney Charles Margiotti, who prosecuted Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague in New Castle for the slaying of a state highway patrolman.

WAIT TO QUIZ SURVIVORS OF WRECK

Question Reason Woman Was Not First in Lifeboat; Liner Effects Rescue

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Harrowing details of a tale of shipwreck with doom descending on a water-logged ship off the Delaware Breakwater were awaited today by steamship inspectors who said they would question the six survivors of the disaster as soon as they had recovered from exposure.

The six, who sailed from New York last Friday night on the Barbodos, a ship of only 93 gross tons, first revealed the story when brought to New York on the H. R. Mallory of the Clyde Line, which picked them up at sea Tuesday night after hearing their calls for help. The boat, equipped as a pleasure craft, was en route to the West Indies.

DISCREPANCIES HINTED

Inspectors said they wished to obtain more details of the disaster in which eight lives were lost when the Barbodos went down Sunday. They said the stories told by the survivors did not check and they wished to clear up discrepancies.

Describing how they were caught in a fierce storm, the captain, Louis Hough, of Long Beach, Cal., one of the survivors, said that he stood in water to his waist and then ordered everybody to jump. He shouted his order to the owner of the ship, E. G. Valverde, his wife, Hattie, and their chauffeur, known only as "Willie."

BOAT CIRCLES SPOT

The captain jumped. He was picked up by a lifeboat and saved. But Valverde, his wife, and the others clung to iron stanchions of the ship and went down with the ship a moment later. Lost with the owner and his wife were J. F. Walker, assistant engineer, of Seattle, Wash. Captain Hough said the lifeboat circled the spot of sinking many times, but that none of those aboard reappeared.

The waters were icy and three men who climbed into the lifeboat after a long time in the water, died.

QUIZ ABOUT LIFEBELTS

Because of the master's exhausted condition, he was not pressed to clear up numerous points as to whether the last persons on the Barbodos had donned lifebelts, and as to why the woman passenger was not placed in the boat first.

75 YEARS BRING TRIP CHANGES

By AL GOUGH,
Aviation Editor.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 30.—Seventy-two years ago when the first trancontinental mail and passenger service was inaugurated, the traveler was advised to equip himself for the journey as follows:

One Sharp's rifle and 100 cartridges; a Colt navy revolver and two pounds of balls; a knife and sheath; a pair of thick boots and woolen pants, a half dozen pairs of thick woolen socks; six undershirts; three woolen overshirts; a wide-awake brim hat; a cheap sack coat; a soldier's overcoat; a pair of blankets in summer and two pairs in winter; a pair of heavy gloves; a small bag of needles, pins, sponge, hair brush, comb, soap; two pairs of thick drawers and three or four towels.

It took 24 days by overland coach from the Pacific Coast to St. Louis. Yesterday, the writer came over practically the same route in 10 hours equipped as follows:

One tooth brush, one comb, razor, clean shirt and a typewriter.

Day and night flying over the present airways, which are being lighted and equipped with radio beacons, will make 24-hour time possible.

SNOW HALTS FLIGHT

ROBERTSON, Mo., Oct. 30.—A blizzard blocked the eastbound Trans-continental and Western Air Transport here today. Low clouds and snow greeted the ship coming into St. Louis from Kansas City on the first leg of this morning's flight after an overnight stop en route from Los Angeles.

Reports from the East indicated a clearing after an hour's delay at Lambert Field, and Chief Pilot Clifford Abbott thought it safe to attempt the flight through. Fifteen miles east of the airport snow forced Abbott to return to the field.

CONSERVATIVES KEEP BALDWIN

LONDON, Oct. 30.—(INS.)—The Conservative party voted to retain ex-Premier Stanley Baldwin as leader of their party today by a count of 466 to 116. The vote was taken at a special party conference at Caxton Hall after Baldwin had outlined his program for carrying on the work of the party.

ARRESTED, GIRL TRIES SUICIDE

Accused of the theft of a $300 diamond ring from the home of Sol Shussett, 2210 Center avenue, where she is employed as a chambermaid, Mary Skebo, 17, made two suicide attempts, an officer testified in Morals Court today.

Arraigned with the maid was Abe Schulman, 24, of 2041 Center avenue, arrested, police testified, after the girl said she took the ring for her "boy friend." The case was held for further investigation.

Patrolman Sol Mosuck testified the Skebo girl attempted to cut her throat with a butcher knife when he attempted to arrest her early this morning. She also tried to swallow poison as he took her from the Shussett home, he testified.

'CHUTE SNARLS, PILOT KILLED

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—C. O. McGuire, of Cincinnati, O., a mail pilot for the Embry Riddle Company, of Cincinnati, was killed when his plane crashed six miles west of Brookston early today.

McGuire, 20, had attempted a parachute leap, but the parachute caught on the plane and he was dragged to the earth with it. The body was found about 20 feet from the wreckage.

The plane is believed to have developed motor trouble. McGuire was flying a mail plane from Cincinnati to Chicago through a dense fog and darkness.

DIVORCED, MAN FILES APPEAL

John E. Mason, of Hawthorne road, Millvale, filed an appeal in Superior Court from the decree in divorce granted Mrs. Etta L. Mason, of Hawthorne road, Millvale, September 12, on the grounds of indignities, by Judge Elder W. Marshall in Common Pleas Court. They were married November 9, 1909 and have two children.

Judge Marshall in an opinion said the wife charged her husband "falsely and maliciously" accused her of infidenity and threatened to take her life.

The court said:

"We are satisfied he accused his wife of infidelity when he had no reasonable grounds for making such accusation and, in fact, she was guilty of no wrongdoing."

The court found nothing wrong in a trip to Texas from January to May, 1929, by Mrs. Mason and her two children, with James A. Ketler, 22, a friend of the family, accompanying them as chauffeur.

Girl Switches Love To Man Who Shot Her

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Ralph Ferrara loved Rose Provengano but, she said, she didn't realize how deep his affection was until October 16 when he fired a shot into her shoulder and then wounded himself in the temple.

Now she refused to sign a complaint against him and announced she had broken her engagement with the man to whom she was pledged on October 16. Next week she and Ferrara will be married.

Mellon Removes Ban on Parrots

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. —(INS.)—At the recommendation of the U. S. Public Health Service Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon today lifted the ban on the importation of parrots under certain conditions. The birds were put on the taboo list January 24 in an executive order by President Hoover when the prevalence of parrot fever, or psittacosis, menaced public health.

$35,000 Painting Stolen in New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Theft of a small $35,000 painting, the work of the French artist, Honore Daumier, from the Museum of Modern Art in Fifth avenue, has been revealed.

It was stolen about October 21. The stolen picture is the property of Josef Stransky, of New York.

PITCAIRN SHOPS GET BIG ORDER

Five hundred of the 1,500 new steel freight cars to be built by the Pennsylvania Railroad at a cost of $5,000,000, will be constructed in the Pitcairn shops, officials announced. Others will be built at the Enola shops, near Harrisburg, and at Altoona.

Work on the new cars will be begun in about two weeks, when 600 workmen, now on furlough, will be called back into service. The cars will be 65½ feet in length, with a carrying capacity of 74 tons. Ninety-three million pounds of steel will be used in their construction.

Man, 72, Returns To 'Pen' After 50 Years

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—It was a long time between visits for Van A. Spence, who is back in Ohio Penitentiary.

Starting a three-year sentence for cutting to wound, Spence expressed hope he would be assigned to the prison barbershop, as he was when he served a 28 months' sentence which ended with his parole 50 years ago.

"That is the best break possible."

FIRE IMPERILS 4,000 INSANE

MORRIS PLAINS, N. J., Oct. 30.—(INS.)—Four thousand insane patients in New Jersey State Hospital here were endangered today by fire which broke out on an upper floor of the main building.

Flames were discovered leaping from the cupola on the side of the building occupied by men. A thousand patients housed in the main building were marched to other sections which were not in immediate danger.

Doctors and attendants supervised the removal of the patients to other buildings, which was accomplished without disorder or injury to any. State troopers from Morristown were on the scene but were not needed for rescue work.

Blackmail Charged, Woman Fined $25

Anna McHugh, 24, of 617 Buhl way, was fined $25 or 30 days in the workhouse by Magistrate Ray Schneider today after Ivan Resch, 26, employed at St. Francis Hospital, testified she had tried to blackmail him in an automobile last night by pretending he had taken her purse containing $8. Police said both were searched and the purse was not found.

Golden-Rule Plan May Reopen Bank

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—A plan whereby 30,000 depositors of the closed Lake View Bank would reorganize the instituaion on the principle of the "Golden Rule" and elect their own officers, may be given a test here. The plan, believed to be without precedent in the history of Chicago finance, was decided upon at a mass meeting. It contemplates the dissolution of a receivership.

George J. Kappes, a leader in the movement, said lawyers had informed him the plan was within the law.

Ambulance Speeds To Rescue, Kills Boy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—While voluntary firemen were rescuing a 19-year-old youth from imprisonment beneath tons of rock in a 35-foot well near here an ambulance rushing to the scene to take him to a hospital struck and killed a five-year-old boy. Louis Barrett, son of a farmer at Glenmont, Md., was removed after being imprisoned more than four hours from a cave-in while he was cleaning the well. The boy killed was William Nichols, Jr.

Coolidge Urges Youth To Vote Its Idealism

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Oct. 30.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

It is often said that the world belongs to youth. They may not hold legal title to it at the moment, but what the world will be in the future depends on what they do today. They are the heirs apparent with power.

Calvin Coolidge

The influence they wield is because they are naturally idealists. The disappointments and failures of life have not come into their experience. They are moved more by faith than by caution. It is for that reason that they hold the keys to future progress.

Next Tuesday about a million of our youth will have the opportunity to cast their first vote. There are enough of them to decide the election in nearly every political unit. It is necessary for our political and social progress that they should run true to form and vote their ideals.

If we are to have any improvement, if public office is to be any more mindful of public welfare, if our national life is to be any purer, if our standards are to be any higher, it will be because the youth of the country makes them so. The progress we can make has no limit if our youth will vote their faith.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Search World for Sunday Magazine Section Stories

In no other newspaper in the world is there a more complete magazine than the American Weekly section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. It is designed and edited specially for Sunday home reading and includes not only the best of fiction, but also startling disclosures in the fields of science, art, adventure and discovery.

Next Sunday's American Weekly section—in colors—of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph is a classic in magazine makeup. The front page carries an illustration in color and the introduction to "The Reluctant Dawn," a new serial by Hazel Christie Macdonald, which gives promise of being one of the outstanding stories of the year. And it isn't too late to start reading "Red Hate," the thrilling story of "Red Russia," the dread Cheka and Scotland Yard. "Red Hate" started two weeks ago, but next Sunday's installment will be preceded by a synopsis that gives the reader a comprehensive start to an exciting romance.

So, with next Sunday's Sun-Telegraph the reader will get two outstanding fiction stories to follow every Sunday for several weeks.

Every nook and corner of the world is searched to get strange, unusual and interesting stories for the American Weekly Magazine. For instance, next Sunday there will be two full pages, illustrated, on the weird story, "Haunted by the Spell of African Witchcraft," by Lady Dorothy Mills, famous British trapper and explorer.

Yes, you get a big, complete magazine with your Sunday Sun-Telegraph every Sunday.

Cornelia Skinner, Mother, Better Actress She Says

Cornelia Otis Skinner, daughter of Otis Skinner, the actor, is in Pittsburgh today. Since her last appearance here Miss Skinner, who is Mrs. Blodget in private life, has become the mother of a son. He is 9 weeks old. Cornelia judged her own ability as a home type of mother with the following comment.

"Since I know more about acting than being a mother I feel that I make a better actress than a nurse. I feel that the baby, of course, was named Otis Skinner Blodget, after his grandfather, is receiving the best of care, and I am happier going on with my work."

Miss Skinner, as she is known professionally, will present a series of character sketches at Carnegie Music Hall tonight for the benefit of the University Maternity Dispensary. Asked about her performance this evening, Miss Skinner said:

"It has always been a pleasure for me to appear for a benefit of this sort and it is doubly so now that I have a son of my own. The sketches which I will give tonight are typical of the work I have always done. Since I travel alone it is a bit inconvenient for me to bother with any stage properties, so I merely add a scarf or hat to my regular clothes to make the particular imitation seem more typical of the character."

MINERS' CHIEFS FOR PINCHOT

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Gifford Pinchot swung southward today in his campaign for the governorship to the lower edge of the anthracite regions with the indorsements behind him of two district presidents of the United Mine Workers of America and of Richard Mitchell, of Wilkes-Barre, the son of the late John Mitchell, the hero of the miners.

Pinchot left Shenandoah visibly pleased at his prospects in Schuylkill County on election day, and with assurances of support gained also from leaders of the county's two Republican factions. Both Charles A. Snyder, district attorney and a former state treasurer and auditor general, and his political rival in the county, Paul W. Houck, chairman of the state workmen's compensation board, were found in the Pinchot column.

Snyder presided at a mass meeting held in Pottsville, and Houck at Shenandoah. Martin Brennan, president of District 9, United Mine Workers, introduced Pinchot as a "friend of the miners" at a Mitchell day meeting here late yesterday. Michael W. Hartneady, president of District 7, toured the county with the Pinchot party.

'Monitor' Engineer Dies at Age of 85

ARLINGTON, Mass., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—William Taylor Lougee, third assistant engineer on the U. S. S. Monitor in the Civil War, died here at the age of 85.

Final G. O. P. Rally Saturday

Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for Governor, and his running mates are expected to be indorsed at the Republican County Committee's final rally of the campaign at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, in North Side Carnegie Music Hall.

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong has sent invitations to Mayor Charles H. Kline and members of the Mayor's cabinet, county officials and to all Allegheny County nominees for Congress, the State Senate and the State House of Representatives.

DAVIS EXPECTED

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, nominee for United States Senator, was expected to attend the meeting.

Pinchot and the entire Republican ticket were indorsed in a resolution adopted at a meeting last night of workers of the Fourth ward in the Bellefield school, Fifth avenue. Miss Della Conwell, of the city bureau of recreation, presided in the absence of Chairman Howard Neely.

The workers were warned not to be deceived by the opposition that was trying to make prohibition repeal a smoke screen to becloud the real issues of correction of public utility abuses and social welfare proposals as enunciated in the Pinchot platform.

Speakers included State Senator James J. Coyne, Councilman M. J. Muldowney, Alderman Louis C. Wicks, Sheriff's Solicitor B. Robert Averbach and Attorney Benjamin Lenchner, former assistant district attorney.

Workers of the Twenty-third ward indorsed the entire Republican ticket at a meeting in Druiden Hall. Chairman Robert Murray presided.

Speakers included Mrs. Mary Flynn Lawrence, Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley, District Attorney Andrew T. Park, Mrs. Laura Minnau, vice chairman of the Republican County Committee; Mrs. Henry Chalfant Miller, State Senator Herman P. Brandt, and L. A. Hagmaier and T. W. Neely, nominees for the Legislature.

Lon Macintosh, Republican chairman of the Thirtieth Ward, is scheduled to preside at a meeting of workers tonight in Knoxville Junior High School. Judges James B. Drew, nominee for judge of Superior Court; George Von B. Moore, Sylvester J. Snee and Sara M. Soffel are expected to speak.

Waters Predicts G. O. P. Surprises In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Auditor General Charles A. Waters, campaign manager for the Republican State Committee in Philadelphia, today said he is "more than gratified with the splendid reaction of practical workers of the Republican forces in Philadelphia, adding:

"By the time we go to the polls on Tuesday next there will be many surprises in the ranks of the regular Republicans of this city. These practical men and women have not been fooled by the camouflaging which we have witnessed in this campaign.

"They have not been fooled by the statements of the Democratic candidate for governor that he will keep Republicans in office, and that there is no deal with the deserting Republicans of Philadelphia."

TUCKER FIRST ON BALLOT

Walter E. Tucker, Negro, named Republican nominee for the First Legislative District to take the place of Joseph C. Marcus, who died last Saturday, will be No. 1 on the list of candidates on the ballot next Tuesday.

Certification of Tucker's nomination was received today by the County Commissioners from Harrisburg. The early return from Harrisburg will permit the reprinting of the ballots to be used throughout the First Legislative District. The candidates are Tucker and Joseph R. Lynch, Republican; Peter J. Donohue and Charles J. McCall, Democrat; Parthenia Hills and Fred Kearns, Communist.

HUMPHREY HITS PINCHOT CLAIM

A. L. Humphrey, president of Westinghouse Air Brake Company, one of the Republican backers of John M. Hemphill, Democratic nominee for governor, last night replied to a challenge from Gifford Pinchot, Republican gubernatorial nominee, defying citation of a single act or pledge of Pinchot's that would injure any business satisfied with a square deal from public officials.

Humphrey omitted mention of a specific indictment, as requested by Pinchot, but declared business men were opposing the forester because he was a "mischief-maker, a fomenter of suspicions and group jealousies and a politically unscrupulous demagogue."

REFERS TO 'MUCKRAKING'

Humphrey said of Pinchot:

"His economic prejudices were fixed 30 years ago when it was the style to 'muckrake' everything, especially business. Times have changed, and so has business. But Pinchot hasn't changed nor has he learned anything or observed anything in the passing years. He seemingly supposes that the evils of 30 years ago still exist."

Continuing, Mr. Humphrey said:

"That, Mr. Pinchot, is why hundreds of thousands of Republicans, regardless of party, will renounce you next Tuesday as the minority usurper of the Republican nomination. They will vote, instead, for John M. Hemphill, who has enough sense to know that a governor can't promote prosperity in times like this by fomenting suspicion, discord and discontent and laying the rod of misrepresentation and demagogy on the back of business.

LOOK TO BUSINESS MEN

"Employes and all citizens will look now to business leaders to show the way out of the present economic difficulty. They will not look to the political demagogue who promises the greatest number of things impossible of fulfillment."

Arthur M. Scully, county chairman of the Liberal party, stated last night he has heard reports of fraudulent registration in the county coupled with rumors that attempts will be made to commit other election frauds. He said:

"Due precaution will be taken by the Liberal party to prevent any frauds in the coming election. The prosecution of election."

LUZERNE GIVES HEMPHILL HOPE

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—John M. Hemphill, Democratic and Liberal candidate for governor, today declared himself to be tremendously heartened in his campaign as a result of the welcome extended to him in Luzerne County.

The candidate and his party left for Stroudsburg where he was to discuss stream pollution, and from there he planned to motor to Scranton for a night meeting.

Before a crowd that jammed the South Main street armory to capacity, Hemphill last night pledged himself to the cause of municipal ownership of water supply and distribution systems, declaring that whatever difference of opinion may exist on the general principle of municipal ownership, there could be no dispute over the proposition that water should be controlled absolutely by the people. He said:

"The use and service of other public utilities, such as electricity, gas and railroad service is optional with the user and therefore fundamentally different from water supply and water service."

Democratic Rally In Westmoreland

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 30.—Westmoreland County Democrats have scheduled a rally and mass meeting in New Stanton tonight, in charge of County Chairman J. Hilary Keenan. Several county candidates are on the speakers' list.

Shannon's Condition Continues Improving

COLUMBIA, Pa., Oct. 30.—(INS.)—Condition of Gen. E. C. Shannon, Republican nominee for lieutenant governor, who has been ill at his home here from an infection of the hand, continued to improve slightly today.

Hempfield to Pass On Vote Machines

MERCER Pa., Oct. 30.—Voters of Hempfield Township, near here, will vote on the question of adopting voting machines at the coming township in Mercer County to submit the voting-machine proposition to the voters.

Clock of Coal Given by Vets To Hemphill

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. —(AP.)—A clock, fashioned from a lump of anthracite, was presented to John M. Hemphill, World War veteran and Democratic-Liberal candidate for governor, at a dinner tendered him by former service men of Luzerne County, last night.

The former soldiers cheered the candidate as he attacked prohibition and pledged himself to work in the interests of the veterans.

Text of Mayor Curley's Billion Dollar Plan to Bring Prosperity to U. S.

International News Service.

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—Mayor James M. Curley's letter to President Hoover, Secretary of War Hurley and other cabinet members in which he comprehensively sets forth a billion dollar project for development of the Mississippi River in order that business may be revived, employment restored and confidence substituted for "the psychology of fear" is in full as follows:

I am taking the liberty of forwarding to you a brief outline with reference to a subject with which you are familiar and the possibilities of which as a means of relieving industrial depression and adding to the present and future wealth of America must impress you once they are called to your attention.

ONE BILLION DOLLARS

The project for an expenditure of $1,000,000,000 in the Mississippi River Valley for the promotion of electrical energy at a minimum of the present cost for the development of the cheapest character of water freight transportation, absolute flood control and an industrial development unprecedented in the history of any portion of the world has an appeal that fires the imagination.

The development of an industrial empire in the Mississippi Valley and the enlargement of the agricultural and commercial opportunities for the people now residing there, who would benefit through a project of this character, are impossible of realization through a lesser expenditure.

The matter of flood control is possible of solution through the development of a system of water basins located along the course of the Mississippi, the Missouri, the Ohio, the Red, the Arkansas, and other tributary rivers where in time of flood, water may be stored, to be released in time of drought.

CHEAP POWER POSSIBLE

At the entrance of these water basins, hydro-electric installation would permit of the development and storage and of the distribution of power at a fraction of a cent a kilowatt, while the deepening of the channel of the Mississippi River would permit of freight transportation at a minimum of cost as compared with the expensive rail system at present in vogue, which requires the delay of from two to three handlings and is responsible for the disappearance of profits that should accrue to the agriculturists located in the region.

It should be possible, in consequence of flood control and the deepening of the channel, to accelerate the flow of the Mississippi River to at least seven miles an hour and to provide direct contact by way of the Mississippi, the Gulf and the Panama Canal with the Orient, for cotton, cereals, minerals, coal and other products developed in the Mississippi Valley area, and it would expedite and facilitate the penetration of the industrial products of American labor into the Latin-American markets adjacent to us in which European competitors are striving to regain their pre-war advantage.

LOOK TO NEW MARKETS

It is generally accepted that the struggle for existence in Europe marks an end for at least a quarter of a century for American goods for export. Consequently the future commercially of America would appear to lie in trade between the people of North America and South America and the Orient, and through the use of cheap water transportation it would be possible for America even to offset the advantages of cheaper labor costs which today make possible the invasion of the markets of the world by European nations.

The investment by the federal government of one billion dollars for the promotion of navigation, of commerce, of flood control and the development of hydro-electric energy would make this territory so inviting to capable business interests in America and in the world that no major concern could afford to be without a manufacturing plant located in this vicinity because of the tremendous saving possible through a lower cost for electrical energy and a minimum charge for transportation of goods by water.

The proposition to stagger any experiment that may be made in this region over a period of years is indefensible for the reason that every student of economics is in agreement that the mere announcement that the government proposes a major expenditure of this character would inspire confidence and faith so necessary at this time.

In the event that the government expended one billion dollars upon this Mississippi river project it is not unreasonable to assume that within a period of five years an amount equally as great would be expended by these business concerns now located throughout the world. The expenditure of one billion dollars by the federal government would not only provide relief for those in the Mississippi river area whose services would be required in connection with the development work but to the basic industries of the United States it would prove invaluable at the present time.

EMPLOYMENT RELIEF

Vast quantities of steel and iron, of cement, and lumber, would be necessary, in addition to electrical equipment, and all these requirements would provide employment to many thousands of persons throughout America employed in these basic industries and in the major electrical plants such as the Westinghouse, General electric Company and similar establishments.

The railroads, which during the past five years have reduced the number of their employes by nearly one million, and the steamship lines, would undoubtedly be required to adopt a 24-hour schedule in order to transport the necessary materials to the region where the contemplated work is to be conducted.

The War Department unquestionably has given considerable study at some time to a similar project and it is just possible that they may have in their files plans for the development that could be utilized at once in connection with a project of this larger scope.

The people of America look to the President of the nation for leadership and relief and have little sympathy with a staggered program that contemplates even three years. Action upon this project at the present time would destroy the psychology of fear and give confidence to every citizen and employer in America, while the consummation of the project would unquestionably add more to the value of America in the next quarter of a century than did the Louisiana purchase in a similar period of time.

OFFERS PROSPERITY

It cannot be assumed that the American public will permit a project of such vast possibilities to be either retarded or destroyed by the same character of selfish opposition as was manifested against the Panama Canal and the Boulder Canyon Dam.

The American public recognize that the conduct of governmental activities is rapidly becoming a purely business proposition with a reasonable amount of humanitarianism mixed. They recognize, in addition that in President Hoover they have as executive head of the nation one of the leading engineering minds of the world and, recognizing these facts, I have no hesitancy in forwarding this suggestion believing that its fruition means for America commercial and industrial liberation, with prosperity for all the people.

Respectfully,

(Signed) JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

He appealed to President Hoover as an engineer to visualize some of the outstanding benefits that would ensue from this vast project which could be undertaken at a time of emergency and suffering when the country has the right to expect constructive leadership.

VISIONS FARM RELIEF

It would open the river to ocean borne traffic, he said, and stimulate development of the American merchant marine.

By the building of storage basins, he said, the people of the Mississippi valley would be saved from the flood cotastrophes, such as devastated their country in recent memory and they would be guaranteed a steady supply of water in the periods of drought.

The farmers of the west, now languishing in a period of agricultural depression of 10 years duration with wheat at its lowest level would derive the immense advantage of cheap water transportation and a more convenient outlet for their products, he said. Without their prosperity the country as a whole can not attain its fullest prosperity.

It would facilitate the industrial and agricultural commerce of inland America to the trade markets of Latin America and the Orient, he said. He reminded President Hoover that because of the tariff and because of anti-American hostility in Europe, the future foreign trade of the United States must be largely with the countries of Latin America to the south.

WARNS OF OPPOSITION

European competition is again piercing those markets, he said, attempting to regain their pre-war advantage. The United States has the advantage of contiguity, he said, but it cannot be utilized fully until the American industrialist and exporter are given the benefit of cheap water transportation rates.

Mayor Curley also declared to President Hoover that the American people would not countenance the blocking of this magnificent project by powerful railroads as they "selfishly opposed" the Panama Canal or by the electric power interests which for years stood in the path of Boulder Canyon Dam.

Cheaper water power energy would be one of the major results from the construction of the storage basins, he said, and these with cheaper transportation and the increment of increased prosperity values would alone put the entire cost of the project within this generation.

REVEALS PLAN AT MEETING

Mayor Curley first proposed this project to President Hoover in Washington last week, when they discussed unemployment and the business crisis at length. He is understood to have found the President wedded to a program of river development in which only $125,000,000 a year would be spent.

Piecemeal development of America's great natural resources is wasteful and ineffective, Mayor Curley said, nor does it contain the hope for relief that the people must have. Mayor Curley sent his comprehensive outline of the benefits that would flow from the project to President Hoover, Secretary of War Hurley, Secretary of Commerce Lamont and Secretary of Labor Davis.

ANNUAL ROTARY MEET IN APRIL

Annual conference of the Rotary Clubs of the thirty-third district will be held in Pittsburgh April 28 and 29, Governor Bert Smyers, of Pittsburgh, announced today, with Wister Lynch as chairman of the convention committee.

More than 50 farmers were guests of the Pittsburgh club at its weekly luncheon yesterday in the Port Pitt Hotel, when H. G. Niesley, agricultural extension director of State College, spoke on the status of farming. Citing that agriculture buys $6,000,000,000 worth of manufactured products a year, Director Niesley declared it pays one-fifth of the national tax bill, produces nearly one-half of the value in exports and supplies materials to industries that give employment to nearly one-half the manufacturing plants.

With 50 per cent more consumption of salads and vegetables than 100 years ago, he said the change in food demands likewise showed a decrease in wheat use.

Allegheny May Decide Election

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service.

Gifford Pinchot, who expects to be the next Republican governor of Pennsylvania, will carry the extreme western tier of counties and come eastward out of Pittsburgh next Tuesday with a decided plurality over his Democratic foe, John M. Hemphill, an independent survey indicated today.

Both Pinchot and Hemphill view Pittsburgh, Allegheny and the adjoining counties as a real battleground.

There was no question apparently of Pinchot winning a plurality in the Ohio borderline counties, which range from Lake Erie to West Virginia. The only dispute involved the totals of his anticipated pluralities. Where Pinchot leaders claimed he would leave Pittsburgh and Allegheny County with a plurality of from 85,000 to 135,000, the Hemphill spokesmen insisted it would range only from 5,000 to 20,000. If either of the Hemphill predictions is correct, Pinchot would face an almost impossible task to overcome the expected vote against him in Philadelphia.

CONCEDE ERIE

In this belt, consisting of Erie, Crawford, Mercer, Lawrence, Beaver, Washington and Greene counties—in addition to Allegheny—the Pinchot leaders claimed victory in all except Erie. The Hemphill directors claimed Erie, naturally, but insisted that Greene County, too, would be found in the Democratic-Liberal column.

A survey, conducted among newspaper editors, politicians, opposing leaders and some independents, revealed the following conditions in the tier of counties:

Allegheny (Pittsburgh) — Pinchot leaders claim the county by from 50,000 to 75,000; Hemphill leaders insist the Pinchot plurality will be held below 30,000 and possibly even down to 20,000. James F. Malone, a Pinchot spokesman, says his victory will be better than 50,000, because he carried the county by 12,000 in the primary against organization opposition and now has the indorsement and help of the organization. Arthur M. Scully, Liberal county chairman, says the sentiment is changing every day in Hemphill's favor. The report that W. L. Mellon, nephew of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is aiding Pinchot's campaign may help to bring out organization votes for Pinchot.

DISPUTE CLAIMS

Erie County—Hemphill's managers claim the county by from 15,000 to 30,000; declaring it a wet stronghold. Pinchot's leaders concede Hemphill will likely carry the county, but limit his plurality to 2,000. The city of Erie is overwhelmingly wet, but the county is dry and pro-Pinchot.

Crawford County — Pinchot probably will carry this county on the wet and dry issue. He lost it in 1922 by 251 votes to the dry Democrat, McSparran, but President Hoover carried it against Alfred E. Smith by 10,354 in 1928. Pinchot leaders claim it by 2,500 to 4,000 and Hemphill spokesmen merely limit the plurality to "less than 1,000." It would be safe to say Pinchot's plurality will be about 2,000.

Mercer County — Pinchot is looked upon as a favorite to carry this county, in which Secretary of Labor James J. Davis has his home. Pinchot's leaders claim it by 5,000 to 6,000, but Hemphill's managers limit this plurality to "less than 1,500." Unless there is an upset, Pinchot should win it by around 2,000 plurality. The city of Sharon, Davis' home town, will give a good wet vote to Hemphill, as will Farrell, and the Liberal-Democrat has a chance of carrying both.

LAWRENCE FOR PINCHOT

Lawrence County—This dry Republican county is claimed by Pinchot leaders who say his plurality will be from 5,000 to 7,000. Hemphill may cut down Pinchot's vote in New Castle to a bare 1,000 plurality, but the county is dry and Republican. The shrewd Bart Richards, Republican candidate for the State Assembly, thinks Pinchot will win the county by about 6,000.

Beaver County—Pinchot managers claim this county by 6,000 to 8,000 but Hemphill leaders place the Pinchot plurality at 3,069. A neutral observer believes it will run between 3,500 and 4,000. The Democrats are badly split. Col. James P. Leaf, former Democratic county commissioner, and E. J. Schleiter, once in the Legislature, both have announced for Pinchot.

Washington County—There was a great dispute on here over the size of Pinchot's plurality. Pinchot leaders claim it by 15,000 to 20,000, since it is the home of Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman. The opposition concedes it to Pinchot but says the margin will be "small." A neutral observer places the Pinchot plurality at about 3,500.

Greene County—This Democratic county is a battleground, since the Pinchot people claim it by from 300 to 500 and Hemphill's managers predict it will go wet by 2,000. A neutral observer says the result is "in doubt." Pinchot lost it in 1922 by a two to one vote against him and while he carried it in the recent primary over both opponents, the Hemphill Democratic vote was larger than that cast for any of the Republican nominees.

Pinchot should come out of these seven counties ahead of his opponent, because all save Erie and Greene are looked upon as his strongholds in this campaign. In 1922, while he lost Crawford and Greene, he came out of the sector 35,834 votes ahead of his opponent. He must do better this November if he hopes to overcome the huge Hemphill vote in Philadelphia.

Lifer's Flight Spoils Chance for Liberty

ADELAIDE, Australia, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—John Entwistle, gunman, is sorry he tried to escape from Yatala Stockade, South Australia's penitentiary. A "telegram" was too late. Another prisoner who knew that John, a lifer, intended to scale the walls, learned that he was to be liberated. The news was tapped from cell to cell in jail code, but John's was empty. He was caught. The commutation was rescinded.

Radio star enthusiastic about new shave

of "Real Folks"

EVERY Monday night at 9:30 when you listen to the "Real Folks" program over WJZ or KDKA, you hear the voice of Edwin Whitney, one of the stars in the radio world. Would you ever guess that Judge Whipple, Bill Perkins and Grandpa Overbrook are one and the same Whitney? They are. Mr. Whitney has a pet enthusiasm and he wants to tell you more about it. It's a new shaving method—the best and easiest he's ever found.

The important part comes first—a film of "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly spread over the beard. Next the lather and then he follows his regular shaving routine. But with what a difference! No razor pull, and the "Vaseline" Jelly prevents all soreness and leaves the skin soft and smooth. Better-looking, too.

If you want a real comfort shave, follow Whitney's suggestion. Buy a tube or jar of "Vaseline" Jelly at the drug store today and try it tomorrow morning. You'll like it, too!

HOW CAN PINCHOT BE A FRIEND OF LABOR?

Pinchot is being supported by "Uncle Joe" Grundy and Grundy's lieutenants. Grundy and Pinchot are working together to obtain their respective goals: Pinchot wants to step from the Governorship to the Presidency, and Grundy's ambition is to be boss of Pennsylvania.

Pinchot poses as a friend of labor. Would Grundy's record of the past qualify him to act as Pinchot's adviser in behalf of labor? Grundy's views and Pinchot's sympathetic pretensions toward labor have always been diametrically opposite.

If Pinchot is elected, Grundy will be in the saddle and Labor on the outside looking in. Labor wants, and is entitled to, a square deal and can get it only by voting for

APPLE SHOW DRAWS CROWD

Feature events of the annual Tristate Apple and Potato Show, sponsored by the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce in its auditorium, today were attracting what was anticipated as the largest crowds of spectators of the three-day exhibit, which closes tomorrow night.

Farm tours, junior judging of potatoes, personal appearance of "Stockman Sam," who broadcasts market reports over Station KDKA and in private life is R. P. Griffith, apple naming contest for visitors and other features are scheduled throughout the day.

The exhibit, which represents more than 500 farmers from 66 counties, is open to the public each day until 10 p. m. Many school classes have planned to attend in groups.

MILLIONS PAID FOR CAR TESTS

Automobile owners in Pennsylvania are paying approximately $2,250,000 for the annual compulsory motor vehicle inspection which ends at midnight tomorrow, George G. Semans, chairman of the highway committee of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, announced. It is estimated the average sum of $1.50 is charged for each car inspected. Although there are slightly more than 1,640,000 motor vehicles registered in the state, Semans counted only 1,500,000 because of a small percentage of machines junked during the year.

Automobile owners in the state paid an average of $12.20 in gasoline tax and used an average of 320 gallons of fuel during the first eight months of this year, the monthly report of the club said.

RULES

Proper nouns, slang and words that offend good taste cannot be used. SCORING: The first and last letters of each word do not count as strokes. A longer or shorter word can be substituted, but at a penalty. If a longer word is used, each letter above par counts as a stroke; if a shorter word is used, each letter below par counts as a stroke. If player cannot insert a suitable word, add 3 strokes to par for hole and proceed to next hole.

CHECK CABARET CLOSING HOURS

County detectives, detailed by Chief George W. Murrva, will check on the closing hours of Ross Township roadhouses tonight. District Attorney A. T. Park announced that the 1 a. m. closing regulation would be enforced. The Ross Township Board of Commissioners defeated an ordinance compelling all cabarets and night clubs to close at midnight after complaints of residents had been considered.

BLIZZARD DUE IN MID-WEST

CHICAGO, Oct. 30. — (INS.) — A light blizzard accompanied by sub-freezing temperatures was expected in the Middle West today, following predictions of W. P. Day, government forecaster.

Rain which fell during the night may change to snow today, it was said. The cold, coming from the Northwest, would endure for at least three days, Day predicted.

Johnsonburg Fights Gas Company Rate

Commissioner Samuel Walker of the Public Service Commission yesterday reheard the complaint of the Borough of Johnsonburg to the effect that the 65 cents net per 1,000 cubic feet gas rate charged by the Consumers Gas Company is excessive.

This case was fought through to the Supreme Court, which referred it back to the commission for further consideration. The hearing was continued to a later date.

TROOPS ATTACK HEAD HUNTERS

TOKIO, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—An augmented force of Japanese troops today was sent against the uprising of head hunting savages in Central Formosa.

Two additional infantry companies were ordered to the village of Musha, center of the disturbances in which the savage tribesmen killed at least 86 Japanese and then scattered into the surrounding area, spreading terror among the population of the district.

The Japanese force now operating against the tribesmen totals 1,300 men.

The bodies of 36 children and many women were among those found in the ruins of Musha. Only 57 Japanese residents of Musha escaped the massacre, some fleeing, others hiding.

M'MANUS' WIFE KILLED BY AUTO

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(INS.)—Facing a technical charge of homicide, Melvin Levy, garage worker, was held today as the driver of the automobile which struck and killed Mrs. George McManus, wife of the Broadway gambler, as she was crossing a street. McManus was tried and acquitted of the murder of Arnold Rothstein, gambling king.

McManus, who rushed from his sick bed to the side of his wife after he learned of the accident, collapsed when he was told Mrs. McManus was dead.

Levy told police the car skidded.

BLAZE AROUSES HOTEL GUESTS

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Guests of the Belvedere Hotel were aroused shortly before 2 o'clock this morning by fire in the hotel laundry, an adjoining building.

Smoke seeped into the hotel rooms, and flames shooting high above the three-story laundry hugged the hotel wall so threateningly that the fire department officers sent in three alarms to summon forces large enough to cope with any spread of the blaze. It was under control within less than half an hour.

4 HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Four persons were injured, two seriously, in automobile accidents in Penn Township, McKeesport and the Banksville road, last night.

Mrs. Margaret White, 26, and Elisabeth McFetridge, 17, both of 725 Mellon street, were injured when an automobile in which they were riding, and driven by Mrs. White's husband, John, 28, was struck by another car. The accident occurred on the Frankstown road, near Sandy Creek road, Penn Township, when a machine driven by Harry E. Rinnie, 24, of 1418½ Lincoln avenue, crashed into White's automobile. Rinnie was pronounced under the influence of liquor by a physician, Bickerstaff reported.

John Benner, 25, of 2915 Jersey street, McKeesport, suffered a probable skull fracture when he stepped into the path of a machine, driven, police said, by Charles Brown, of 2608 Highland avenue, McKeesport, at Fifth avenue, near White street, last night. Benner is in McKeesport Hospital.

Struck by an automobile in Banksville road, George Schentich, 45, address unknown, was in the South Side Hospital in a serious condition. Norman Elliott, of Mt. Lebanon, alleged driver, was released on bond.

ROSS BUILDINGS COST $72,100

Erection of dwellings and garages continues in Ross Township, despite advent of the fall season, according to George G. Antill, township building inspector. Permits were issued in October for new building estimated to cost $72,100, he reported.

Dwelling permits were issued to the following: William Carson, two-story frame, Ninth street, Laurel Gardens, $5,000; G. B. Dickenson, two-story brick veneer, Harden drive, $7,000; Richard Stierheim, two-story brick veneer, and garage, East Forest avenue, $11,000; H. W. Stierheim, two-story brick veneer, 21 Reel avenue, $10,000; F. W. Helt, two-story brick veneer, $7,000; Harry C. Peoples, two-story frame, Homer street, $4,500; Frank J. Heintz, two two-story brick veneer dwellings, Grove avenue, $10,000; Peter Miller, Watson and Casper streets, frame, $4,800; P. C. Edwards, one-story cottage, Perry lane, $4,500; William Mensel, two-story brick veneer, 35 Renton avenue, $5,000; C. W. Longmore, two-story brick veneer, 74 Harden drive, $10,000.

Chicago Resents Stock Farm on 125-Foot Lot

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Residents of Chicago have gone into court to check a new phase of the farm to city movement.

They charged that John Illamich, not content with his urban surroundings, had brought his farm with him. On his 25x125-foot lot, they declared, he had assembled eight hogs, two cows, 80 chickens, 15 geese, three dogs, two cats and a horse.

HALT WEDDING TO HUNT RING

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Miss Bradley King, scenario writer, and George Boyd, contractor, were married at Miss King's home.

The Rev. Ernest Holmes had reached that part of the ceremony where the bridegroom was supposed to bring forth the ring. He paused expectantly.

The spectators waited.

So did the bride.

"I've lost it."

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

21,000 HUNTERS GET LICENSES

Nimrods, 21,000 of them, up to last night had procured at the treasurer's office the license plates that give them the legal right to roam the countryside taking pot shots at anything from sparrows to grizzly bears.

During the last three days a long queue extending from the window in the treasurer's office where it says "Hunting and Fishing and Dog Licenses" out into the court house hallway, has been slowly filing by, exchanging the required fee for the permits to hunt.

The hunting season opens November 1. From the number of applications already made and the undiminishing throng daily at the treasurer's office, a record will be set by the number of hunters enlisting in this year's quest for game.

Court Names Two Polls Inspectors

Miss Eunice Broughton, 27 Aylesworth avenue, has been appointed majority inspector of elections for the Sixth district of Collier Township by Judge George V. Moore, in Quarter Sessions court. She takes the place of Estella Nunheimer, who left the district.

W. P. Bishop, Sr., 715 Fawcett avenue, McKeesport, was appointed inspector for the Fourth precinct of the Eighth ward, McKeesport, replacing F. W. Brady, who has moved.

Settlement Adds 2 Boys' Features

Two new features have been arranged at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement. A new game room equipped with tables for ping-pong, checkers and chess has been arranged for intermediate boys between 16 and 18 years. Mysteries of chemicals are explained in demonstrations Sunday afternoon for children 11 to 14 years by Bernard Marcus, chemical engineering student at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

PROLONGS LIFE OF SILK HOSE

All women will be interested in the recent discovery of a leading New York fashion expert. She learned that besides perspiration, all next-to-skin garments absorb an oily secretion from the sebaceous glands that causes silks to rot.

Soap and water cannot dissolve this destructive oil film—it requires a solvent like Energine. So when next washing silk hose or lingerie, add a tablespoonful of Energine to a quart of lukewarm, soapy water. Wash thoroughly—rinse well—and note the new fresh cleanliness—see how magically the original color is revived and with far less rubbing. You can't appreciate how much soap and water fail short till you make this Energine test. More wear, too, from every pair of hose. And don't forget that millions use Energine daily for quick removal of dirt and grease spots from suits, hats, dresses, gloves, shoes, etc. Large can 25c. Get Energine today.

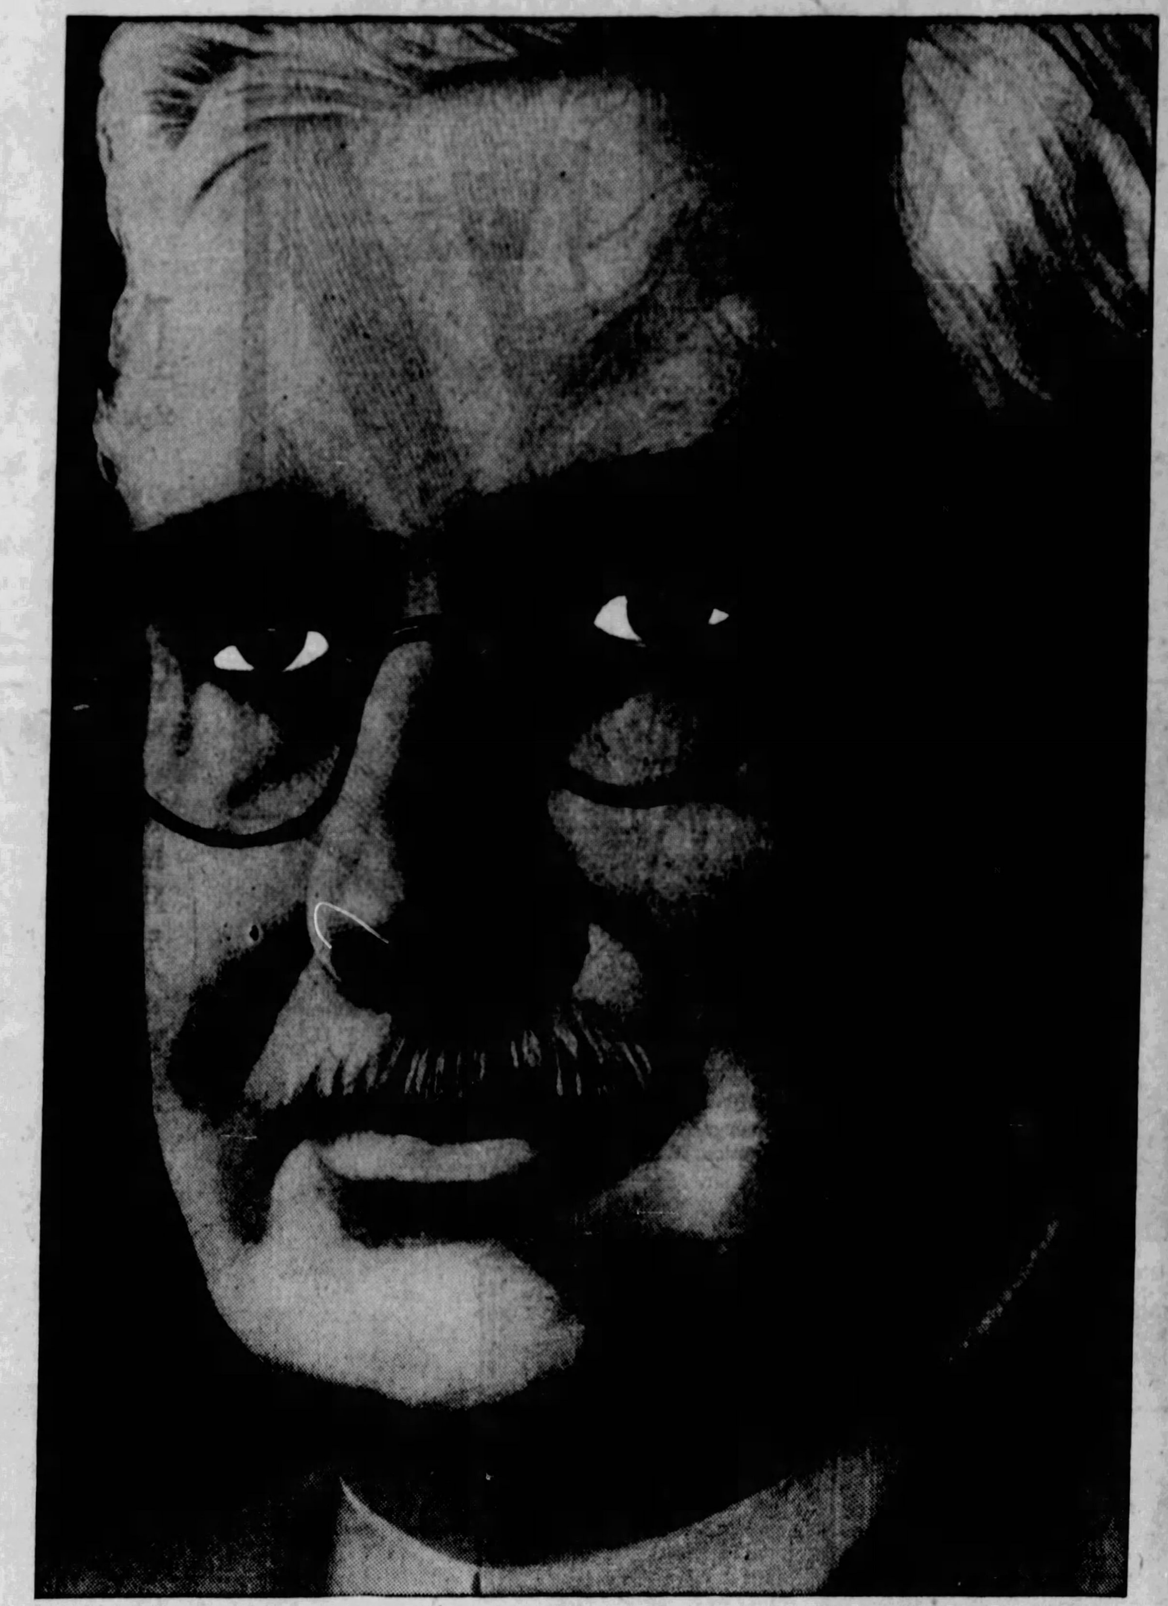
About

LUCKY STRIKE'S

Famous Toasting Process which includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray

"People are eager for products of fine quality—and to satisfy this need every business leader must devote all his time and resourcefulness to developing an even finer quality in his product. You have recognized this great demand by your use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of the LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos—it is a stroke of modern business genius."

Geo S Parker



Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited Mr. George S. Parker to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of Mr. Parker appears on this page.

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray. LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating!

MERGER TERMS DEFENDED

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Frederick H. Wood, Bethlehem counsel ended the first of the defense arguments in Judge David Jenkins' court today with a statement that the plaintiff's attack on the validity of the merger contract between Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Bethlehem Steel Corporation is not borne out in law.

The attorneys representing the Cyrus S. Eaton interests who sued to enjoin the merger charged that the contract contained three provisions which rendered it void. Wood challenged the claim on each provision separately.

One was the section which exempts from taxation in Ohio for three years all Bethlehem stock issuable to Sheet and Tube shareholders, who would receive four Bethlehem shares for three of their own. The other provisions of the contract which Wood defended were those giving Bethlehem the option of canceling it if more than 2 per cent of the Youngstown shareholdersa demanded the fair cash value of their holdings, and that stating that Bethlehem should concur in the cash value offered by the Youngstown company.

RETIRED POLICE VETS HONORED

Watches were presented seven retired policemen at a reception held in their honor in the East End Police Station last night. The presentations were made by Police Superintendent Peter P. OFFICER IN CAR SHOT BY GANG

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(INS.)—Two gangsters in an automobile today slipped alongside a street car, and one of them, wielding a machine gun, fired through a window of the car, seriously injuring Police Sergt. James McBride, of Bellwood.

Authorities believed the shooting was done by friends of "Three-fingered" Jack White, labor racketeer and "public enemy," to prevent McBride from testifying against White at his third trial on a charge of murdering Policeman Edward Pflaume.

As the street car stopped at an intersection there was a sudden, deafening report, the sound of tinkling glass, and McBride slumped in his seat, his jaw shattered. The automobile sped out of sight.

Alimony Threat Of Jail Stirs His Memory

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Everything may turn out quite all right for Anton Brunke, a restaurateur, unless his memory plays him falsely again.

"I'm broke," he told Judge Thomas J. Lynch, in explaining why he couldn't pay temporary alimony.

"I understand you had $15,000 cash two weeks ago," said Judge Lynch.

"I lost it on the races."

"Name a horse you bet on."

"I forget."

"Jail for you," said the judge.

Whereupon Brunke suddenly recalled that the money and securities were in a vault in a bank. He was released, pending an inquiry.

MARRIED MEN GET P. O. JOBS

Two thousand unemployed married men in Pittsburgh will be given from one to ten days' work at the postoffice and branches during the Christmas holidays, Acting Postmaster William Kenyon announced.

In allotting the extra work to married men, postoffice officials sidestep a custom of many years—that of hiring college and high school students.

The first group of workers will be added December 15, Kenyon said. Applications will be received at the downtown and all branch offices in the Pittsburgh district.

FIND 30 BODIES IN MINE

McALESTER, Okla., Oct. 30.—(INS.)—All the bodies in the Wheatley No. 4 mine disaster had been accounted for today and but two remain to be brought to the surface. One body is unidentified.

Funerals of the dead miners will be conducted today and tomorrow. The American Red Cross is in charge of the funeral arrangements.

The cause of the blast which Monday night rocked the McAlester coal district remained a mystery today as authorities prepared to conduct an investigation.

Police Arrest 22 In Dice Game Raid

ALL-DAY-LONG RELIEF FOR COLDS

At the office—use VAPEX on your handkerchief, at home—use it on your pillow

THE START of a cold can very often be its finish, too, if you use Vapex—the original inhalant.

Swiftly, the delightful Vapex vapor fights a cold. A drop on the handkerchief or a drop at each end of the pillow brings relief all day long or all night long. The fragrance penetrates deep into the recesses of the head—drying secretions, clearing up the breathing passages, and removing the miserable distress a cold gives you.

Vapex is very inexpensive. The $1 bottle contains fifty applications—an average of only 2¢ apiece. Millions of bottles are sold yearly. It is the only inhalant for colds approved by Good Housekeeping because it is safe for every one—even little children.

For safety's sake, always ask for V-A-P-E-X—the original inhalant—and do not accept an inferior product that claims to be "just as good."

FOUR great scientists take the stand to talk about toothpastes! And all four publicly approve Colgate's!

Dr. Hardee Chambliss, world-famous scientist; Dr. Allen Rogers, research scientist of renown; Dr. H. H. Bunzell, analyst of modern dentifrices; Jerome Alexander, consultant. These and other outstanding American scientists have recently performed an unique experiment.

They have examined, tested, analyzed a series of modern toothpastes. And they have come to the unanimous conclusion that Colgate's is superior.

Let them say why. "Colgate's," says Dr. Hardee Chambliss, "has greater cleansing ability than other dentifrices."

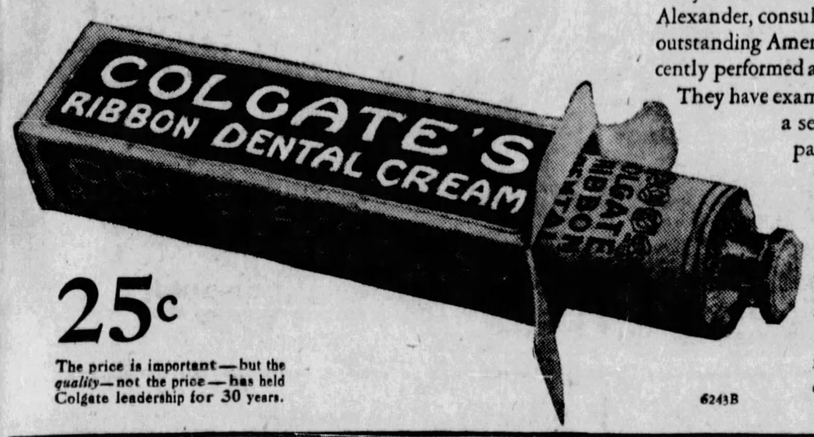
"It has no equal as a cleansing dentifrice," Dr. Rogers announces after tests, "because it has the ability to get into crevices between the teeth and remove decaying food."

Dr. Bunzell finds that because it is made of "the most effective cleansing agents," Colgate's is to be preferred.

And Jerome Alexander speaks for his colleagues when he attributes this special ability to "low surface tension" ...which causes that penetrating power for which Colgate's is justly famed.

During its 30 years, Colgate's has been more universally recommended than any other dentifrice. More people use it than any other.

Scientific approval is reason enough for you to use Colgate's. The price is another reason—since this superior toothpaste sells for only 25c the tube.



25c

The price is important—but the quality—not the price—has held Colgate leadership for 30 years.

HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM LIFE; LOCAL THEATRICAL HAPPENINGS

Memories of Mansfield Wake London Echo From His Widow

By GEORGE SEIBEL

WHENEVER Richard Mansfield used to come to Pittsburgh—and no doubt it was the same in other cities—a man preceded him who arranged his rooms at the hotel. A piano was always provided in the sitting room, and it had to be in tune. But the one thing that must not be forgotten was the picture of Mrs. Mansfield, his wife, and their son, George Gibbs. That picture occupied a prominent place on the wall, and Richard Mansfield was very fond of showing it to his callers—telling stories about the cleverness of his boy just like any other proud parent.

George Seibel

That boy, who afterward called himself Richard Mansfield, Jr., when he came here to study at the Tech School of Drama, might have become a great actor like his father. He played the Bishop of Carlisle at a performance of "Richard II" given in the Tech Little Theater, and played him very well. But he died in a Texas military camp, having enlisted in the aviation corps, the first year America was in the war.

I asked him why he was choosing the aviation branch of the service, and his reply was typically Mansfieldian:

"Because it is daring and dangerous!"

That boy's mother was Beatrice Cameron, the actress who used to play leading parts in Mansfield's company till she played the leading part in his home as Mrs. Richard Mansfield.

HER HUSBAND'S MEMORY

These are things I did not put into an article on "Memories of Richard Mansfield" which appeared in the Theater Guild Magazine this month. They were called to mind by a letter from Mrs. Mansfield, who is at present in London. Her letter is another commentary on the character of the real Mansfield. She writes:

"My Dear Mr. Seibel:

"The Theater Guild Magazine for October has just reached me here—

"And I send you my most grateful thanks for your understanding article. Your remembrance of all his beloved (to me) idiosyncrasies and mannerisms is remarkable. You have seen the greatness, the sweetness, beneath it all. I shall treasure your article as from one who remembers—and, alas, they are few!

"I love your last words—'We shall not soon look upon his like again.'

"Again thank you for remembrance—but be sure 'the flower that once has blown, can never die.' Forgive my altering Omar.

"Sincerely and gratefully,

"Beatrice Mansfield."

FIRST DISCIPLE OF SHAW

It was no doubt due to Mrs. Mansfield's influence that he first undertook to produce plays by an unknown young Irish author named G. B. Shaw, who had sent him a copy of "Arms and the Man." Shaw was a very small speck on the horizon, in Paul Wilstach's phrase. This play was a dangerous satire on sacred conventions and holy emotions. But Mrs. Mansfield had bathed her perceptions in the refreshing waters of Ibsen, and she was fascinated with the new comedy.

So it came to pass that "Arms and the Man" was produced in September of 1894, with Mansfield as Captain Bluntschli and Miss Cameron as Raina.

They suffered the fate of all pioneers, and the comedy was withdrawn after three weeks. But a few years later Mansfield again put on a Shaw play, "The Devil's Disciple," and helped to bring Shaw the great fame he now enjoys.

As for "Arms and the Man," it is history that it made an enormous fortune when it was turned into the operetta of "The Chocolate Soldier."

As for Mrs. Mansfield, once Beatrice Cameron, now in England, she lives most of the time in New London, Conn., with her memories. But such memories—!

Woods Company Marks Anniversary

Open house was being observed today in the offices of the Edward A. Woods Company in the Frick building, in connection with the golden anniversary of the local agency of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. The celebration also observes the attainment of the $100,000,000 quota of new life insurance for the local office. A banquet tonight in the William Penn Hotel will close the day's celebration.

STAGE, SCREEN HERE GET STARS FROM HOLLYWOOD

Eduardo Ciannelli, the Waffles in the Jed Harris production of "Uncle Vanya" in the Shubert Alvin next week, was born in Naples and studied medicine before he switched to an operatic career. His last vocal role in New York was in "Rose Marie." The cast of "Uncle Vanya" is headed by Lillian Gish.

Today the seat sale opens at the box office of the Nixon for the Pittsburgh premiere of the new comedy drama, "Cherries Are Ripe," starring Vilma Banky and Rod La Rocque, who will appear in person.

"Meet the Wife," to be presented in the Pitt next week by the George Sharp Players, is the play in which Mary Boland scored a hit a few seasons ago.

PICTURE OPENS TODAY

"The Life of the Party," the latest screen comedy of Winnie Lightner, comes to the Stanley today, with a supporting cast including Charles Butterworth, Jack Whiting and Irene Delroy. "Black and Silver Revue" is Ed Lowry's stage offering.

"Widow from Chicago" comprises the screen part of the bill coming tomorrow to the Enright. On the stage, Dick Powell will present Olive Borden in person in the revue, "Cheer Up."

Gary Cooper is starred in the first all-talking version of Rex Beach's drama of the North, "The Spoilers," which will open tomorrow in the Sheridan Square and in the Fulton Saturday. Kay Johnson, Betty Compson and William Boyd are in the cast.

EDDIE CANTOR FILM

"Whoopee," the first Eddie Cantor screen comedy and the inaugural effort of the new Samuel Goldwyn-Florenz Ziegfeld combine, is based on the famous New Amsterdam Theater stage success. It ran for almost two years in New York and on tour. "Whoopee," produced entirely in Technicolor, comes to the Aldine tomorrow.

"Soldiers and Women," starring Grant Withers, and "Men Without Law," featuring Buck Jones, both come to the Harris screen Saturday.

"Canned fog" was used almost continuously in the filming of "Way For a Sailor, the newest John Gilbert feature, opening tomorrow in the Penn, with Wallace Beery in a featured character role. The fog was made of a vaporized solution of oil and glycerine. Sam Wood directed the filming of the picture.

FINAL RIVER DRAMA

Capt. Menke's Mississippi River showboat, the Golden Rod, will close its local season at Montrose, just above Aspinwall, Saturday night after a successful run of 15 weeks. The farewell week's presentation is the old classic melodrama, "St. Elmo."

George M. Cohan's Comedy 'A Tailor Made Man,' For Bill Haines

By HARRISON CARROLL,

(Copyright, 1930, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.

George M. Cohan's comedy, "A Tailor Made Man," will be resurrected from the vale of pleasant memories to become a talkie.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is negotiating for the rights to the play, and, barring a hitch, will use it as a starring vehicle for William Haines.

William Haines

Back in 1922, United Artists prepared to film the stage hit as a silent picture, but gave up the idea. Jack Pickford was slated to be the star.

HOLLYWOOD CELEBRITIES

There's the efficiency expert who plans to save the studio $10,000 a year by omitting the word "regards" from all telegrams.

MARION STARTS SOON

Marion Davies and her supporting company in "The Bachelor Father" held a complete rehearsal this week in preparation for the starting of camera work on the comedy.

Marion Davies

The sets for the production are ready, and Director Robert Leonard is well pleased with his company.

Besides Miss Davies, the cast includes such prominent players as C. Aubrey Smith, who came from London to play his original role; Ralph Forbes and Doris Lloyd, who also are English; David Torrence, Guinn Williams, Nina Quartero and Raymond Milland.

"The Bachelor Father" is one of the brightest comedies of several seasons. It promises to be an ideal vehicle for the star.

HOLD FAMILY REUNION

John Ford directs and Eddie O'Fearna fulfills his usual post as assistant.

Francis has been signed to play a trawler captain.

Who remembers the thrilling episodes of "The Broken Coin," in which this actor brought the hearts of all the kids in our town into their throats?

I NOTE THAT—

Universal bought the story, "Man, Woman and Sin" from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for the use of several sequences in Monta Bell's picture, "Fires of Youth." Jack Gilbert and the late Jeanne Eagels appeared in the silent version, which was an outstanding picture . . . Walter Huston has finished "The Criminal Code" and will leave for Europe in two weeks . . . Jack Gilbert is under way to the same destination—unless he has changed his mind . . . Leslie Fenton will receive screen credit for a week's work in "The Man Who Came Back," although you never see him in the picture . . . He lies in a bunk in a dive and you hear him speaking.

Walter Winchell on Broadway

(Copyright, 1930, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

Broadwaycasting

Being part of program over WABC.

Ladies and gentlemen and those who keep saying to themselves every time I take "the air"—"And they shot Diamond!"—This evening's guestar is my old side-kick on the Western Vaudeville Association Circuit (last half Evansville and maybe Quincy or the Kedzie in Chicago), Joe Cook, who was just as marvelous a "one-man show" ten years ago. Today the sweetest of the Cookies is starring at the Erlanger in another smash wallop show called "Fine and Dandy" which it certainly is! He is anxious to get in your hair (Cook's Tour here). Thanks very much Joe . . . Among other comical things you hear when you stay up all night collecting news is that Mrs. John Patrick (Mildred LeGue) is finally telling a judge about it, and that her next husband was the one who served Mr. Patrick with the papers!

The Thomas P. Leamans (she was Julita Hoyt, of 41 E. 60th), are as loosely tied as a 10-cent store bundle . . . She will have the seal melted in Havana . . . Walter O'Keefe, whose nimble mind is delighting the patrons at La Gallant's in the Village, says he just found out that Judge Crater's disappearance is merely another publicity stunt . . .

"He will stay away for another two months," says Walter, "and then publish his book, 'Crater Hora.'"

Katherine Hamilton, one of the gels in the recently storehoused "Second Little Show," has a sense of humor. She ankled into the theater the other matinee and saw the closing notice on the bulletin board.

"Golly," she golly'd, "I'll have to get Fred Allen to write me four minutes of talk for my landlord."

Mark Hellinger has just purchased a new apartment near the office—so his wife, Gladys Glad, can walk to work."

The woman who owns that newsstand at Madison and Forty-second street, which I reported was formerly a subway kiosk that had been removed because it caused so many accidents, etcetra, came into my office with two guns and threatened to murder me. Fortunately for me, I do not get up that early . . Herbert Bayard Swope's name is used by one of his so-called cousins in night clubs when the relative is just about to be hit on the conk with a bottle after he has sassed other drunks . . . The best simile I've heard all week is Bill Cunningham's:

"As careless as the gal who didn't know whether her lips were chapped or calloused."

Gordon Morris suggests that the Hardened Artery be rechristened the Jocular Vein, but much better is Walter Buckley's suggestion that the Main Stem be renamed the Mean Stem . . . Prohbition, too, is getting more amusing . . . There is a new hush-a-buy on Wet Forty-fifth street, where the new bar is 16 cuspidors long . . . Pat Rooney, on the current Palace bill, sums up the Hard Times aitch-ee-ay-shun in these few words:

"People who used to Doonk—now dip!"

Lou Holtz, the star of the swelegant show, avers that he was approached by a mendicant on Broadway who told him a sad story. So touched was Holtz, who is an hoptown boy, that he gave the beggar a dollar . . . The panhandler was so grateful he reached into his pockets and gave Lou 100 shares of stock.

There is a former Ziegfeld Follies femme who has the most beautiful leg in town . . . It is made of wood, but you wouldn't suspect . . . The Army and Navy attaches at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue (Washington)—that's the White House—must be bachelors . . . Tha's to give the girls a chance.

Mrs. John Held was smashed up in an airplane landing at Westport the other week-end . . . Adolph Menjou is being sued by a feller who claims he made Adolph what he is today. He argues that he introduced Menjou to someone who knew someone who knew someone else who knew a movie man . . d that's why he should get a huge hunk of his salaries . . . The suit comes after 10 years, a little tardy, but times are tough, you know.

I used to think, along with F. P. A., that Broadway was the only place where fame is as fleeting as a ferryboat shine, but I just learned that in Detroit the little house where Lindbergh was born—is for sale—with no takers. And that at Rome, Ga., the Chamber of Commerce has appealed to municipal authorities to tidy up the grave of the first Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

The papers, I see, are announcing a probable divorce between the Eddie Buzzels; she is One Munson of the musical shows. They are a lovely couple, but when I announced that fact months and months ago they both gave me a piece of their minds . . The Big Idea on how to make reporting pay you good money, to hear some people tell it, is to write pretty things about your alleged friends—who would be the only ones to read it and believe it—the others would say:

"Yeah? How much did they pay him to write that?"

Which reminds me of that swelegant proverb in the New York American recently:

"The man who has no friends may be envied by the man who has too many!"

May I remind you that another crack show will be sponsored by Heywood Broun this Sabbath night at the Jolson? Such stars as Ruth Etting, Joe Cook, Fred Allen and Libby Holman, Clifton Webb and many others will appear and one columnist has bravely agreed to be confronted by another New York audience who may heckel him or toss tomatoes so long as it aids the Broun cause and those charities which will get most of the coin.

Michael Gold, who authored that book hit: "Jews Without Money," is one of the town's better known radicals who has been writing pieces condemning capitalists and others who worked hard to accumulate the stuff that keeps the Broadway wolves from the door . . . Well, Mr. Gold, it hasn't been announced yet in any radical journal, sailed for Yurrup the other day on the extravagent liner the Europa—traveling, Foist Class!

And now it is almost time to remind you that next week's guester will be Jean Aubert, the French importation in "Princess Charming," who ran away with the honors at the premiere. Until then, I remain That Winchell person, who can remember all the way back to when a girl had to have a lot of clothes loosened when she fainted.

Bus Wrecks Grocery Store, Driver Held

Ralph P. Terry, 25, of 1585 Monastery place, was arrested on a reckless driving charge by Woods Run police today after a Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company bus he was driving crashed into the D. A. Chaikin grocery store at 1240 California avenue. The damage was estimated at $400.

Duquesne Property Damage Plea Heard

Joseph Burick, Duquesne, seeking damages by reason of a 21-foot fill made on his property by the construction of the Union Railroad Company Bridge at Thompson's Run, above grade, presented his claims before Examiner W. E. Best, of the Public Service Commission. The case was the last of a number heard by the commission regarding property damage due to the improvement.

Travel Cost Cut to All Points

Travel by bus costs one-fourth to one-half. And you go in solid comfort, riding in hot water heated coaches with individual, air-cushioned, reclining seats. Safety first drivers, most frequent departures.

Cuticura Healed Terrible Itching Burning Scalp. Almost Bald.

"My trouble started with a terrible itching and burning of the scalp. Later it broke out with a lot of little pimples, and when I rubbed and scratched them it caused a great deal of inflammation. I could not sleep and the trouble made me very miserable. My hair fell out so that my scalp was bald in some places.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I purchased more, and after using two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, with the Cuticura Soap, I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. H. C. Smith, 2130 Manton St., Phila., Pa., March 19, 1930.

To avoid that spotty skin

HERE'S A POWDER THAT BECOMES PART OF THE SKIN

Smart women have learned one of the most important lessons in make-up—that a natural skin only comes when the powder actually blends with the natural skin tone. The new Beige powder from Primrose House is the favorite this fall because it brings out all the lights and color of the skin without that horrid spotty appearance everyone wants to avoid. So fine in texture that it never clogs or cakes, yet it clings like the stone in a peach. Really a $3 powder, it may now be had in dollar portions. One-third the amount for one-third the cost.

At all better class drug and department stores, in boxes, $1 and $3. Primrose House, 595 Fifth Avenue, New York.

Doctors and Druggists Join the General Public in Telling the Great Good Flaxolyn is Doing

"25 years as a physician here, has convinced me that Flaxolyn is a most remarkable preparation." This is the whole-hearted statement of Dr. William F. Benecke, (M. D.) of Braddock, Pa. "Flaxolyn has rich natural qualities that make it particularly forceful as a stomachic, and in aiding the eliminating processes of the bowels. Flaxolyn is positively harmless."

Dr. William F. Benecke

Dr. Wm. F. Benecke Braddock, Pa.

"Dr. Benecke is one of a number of physicians, retained to give their sincere opinions concerning the merits of Flaxolyn, and who have been outspoken in their praise of this formula. Among the many physicians who speak enthusiastically of Flaxolyn are Docteur Lucien Fenouil, winner First Prize in Medicine, University of Marseilles; Dr. Albert Nussbaum, noted Austrian physician, and others.

Young and Old Praise This Wonderful Preparation

Wherever you go, from one end of this wonderful country to the other, you will find men and women, old and young, telling what great good they have obtained from Flaxolyn.

Mrs. Anna Long of Philadelphia, can state what a fine help Flaxolyn has been to her in her advancing years.

Miss May Hanson of Pittsburgh, on the other hand, is one of the thousands of younger women benefitted by Flaxolyn.

"I Could Get You Dozens of Testimonials For Flaxolyn," says Druggist of Camden, N. J.

Owner, Weiser's Drug Store, Camden, N. J.

"I see in the papers," says Mr. S. Rappaport of Weiser's Pharmacy, "that you are publishing pictures and testimonials of a number of local people who have used Flaxolyn with outstanding success. I want to tell you that my experiences with Flaxolyn have been even more remarkable than some of those published in the papers. Any number of our customers have shown most unusual improvement from the use of Flaxolyn, and would gladly give you a testimonial.

"In all my years in the drug business I know of no more successful preparation of its kind than Flaxolyn."

Dietician Finds People "Boosting FLAXOLYN to the Skies"

Adah Alberty, discoverer of Alberty's Food, on her return from a trip across the continent, says:

"I have interviewed and advised thousands of people in the matter of diet and correct living. Hundreds of these are boosting Flaxolyn to the skies—even in the most stubborn cases, folks have told me Flaxolyn proved a blessing."

MANY ENTERING PHOTO CONTEST

Amateur photographers are taking a keen interest in the "snapshot" contest announced by the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, not so much for the amount of cash offered in the prizes as for the possibility of seeing their efforts reproduced in the rotogravure section of this newspaper.

The prizes, however, are attractive. Five dollar will be paid each week for the "snapshots" selected as the best for publication; $3 for the second best, and $2 for the third best.

On top of the cash prizes, Managing Director H. M. Addison, of Loew's Penn Theater, offers a pair of tickets for each of the 10 next best pictures. He will also display the original "snapshots" of the winners in a frame in the lobby of Loew's Penn. All of the above prizes will be weekly.

The first set of prize winning pictures will be reproduced in the rotogravure section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, November 16. The entries for the first week must be in the office of the Sun-Telegraph before midnight Saturday night of this week addressed to the "Snapshot" Editor.

Woman Gets Year For Slaying Man

In the midst of her murder trial for the slaying of her common-law husband, Georgia Ann Madison, 30, Negro, of Foreside street, changed her plea to voluntary manslaughter, and was sentenced from one to two years' imprisonment. She testified she shot and killed Andrew Bettis, 27, Negro, in her home as he was drawing a weapon from his pocket.

Man, Wife Held Up, Robbed in Own Home

Two armed robbers late last night held up Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lipsitz in their living rooms adjoining the Lipsitz furnishing store at 2701 Jane street, South Side.

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young, yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unsightly pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy. Its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanished and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets will help save you in the dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and gently. No dangerous griping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c. All druggists.

OBITUARY

John Rauch.

John Rauch, 78, a resident of Pittsburgh since he came to this country 58 years ago, died at his home, 5637 Rippey street, yesterday. He was born in Gisenfeld, Bavaria. He was engaged here in the grocery and butcher business, retiring in 1920. Besides his widow, Mrs. Mary R. Fritz Rauch, he leaves one daughter, Mrs. Thomas M. Blatchley. Requiem high mass will be held in SS. Peter and Paul Church, Larimer avenue, tomorrow at 9 a. m. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Flaccus Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Fleming Flaccus, who died yesterday, will be held tomorrow at her home, 319 Dickson street, Ben Avon. She was a member of the Ben Avon Presbyterian Church, the Women's Club of Ben Avon, and the Ben Avon Y. W. C. A. Besides her husband, Attorney George E. Flaccus, she leaves two children, George and Caroline Flaccus, at home; her mother, Mrs. James M. Fleming, of Ben Avon; a sister, Mrs. Andrew B. Berger, of Pittsburgh, and a brother, James Fleming, of Chicago.

HEARING ASKED ON RE-ZONING

A general hearing on the rezoning of Ridge avenue has been proposed by the City Planning Commission. A number of ordinances changing the intersection of Ridge and Galveston from residence to commercial led to the suggestion.

Peter Cooper, attorney, represented a number of residents who protested against a change from residence to commercial at Ellsworth avenue and Summerlea streets. H. F. Kelly urged passage of the ordinance at a hearing before Council yesterday.

HARTLEP ASKS NEW TRIAL IN KILLING

SIDEWALKS —of— PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

William Pfarr

One of our most gallant bows to Mrs. J. H. Mull, of Ligonier, Pa. Immediately outside a second-floor window of the Mull home there stands a tall tree in which the robins make their home in the spring. During the hatching season the sensitive Mrs. Mull ties the bottom of her window's lace curtain to the tree so that it forms a net for the young robins. Frequently the newcomers, lacking the strength of their elders, topple out of their nests and, thanks to Mrs. Mull, right into the net. Mrs. Mull sees to it that they are returned to their parents, unharmed.

"Dear Mister Pfarr:

"I read the other day that Gifford Pinchot, the former governor, who the wise money says, is in the bag, wears athletic underwear.

"Maybe he does in the summer, which is the time to wear athletic underwear, but the impression that I got was that he was collegiate and wore it all the year round.

"Now I wouldn't start an argument for the world, but I know that he does not wear the shirts and shorts that look so good in the ads but feel so cold in the winter. I interviewed Pinchot yesterday morning before he was out of bed. He was waiting for a bellhop to deliver some underwear that he had ordered, having run short on his week's campaign in the hinterlands. When the bellhop arrived and he prepared to get up and into the underwear, I started to leave. He said: 'Stay right here. I am used to dressing semi-publicly.'

"He took the underwear out of the package. It was the same kind that my dear old granddad used to wear. You know the kind that you stuff your shirt down into, with long legs and sleeves and so much room around the waist that you have to use a safety pin to take up the slack. Then in addition he wears two pairs of 50 cent socks in cold weather. I saw him put them on. He told me that he buys all his haberdashery in a little country store in Milford where his family have been living for generations. I told him that due to the overcoat situation I was wearing part wool underwear and it has me almost tickled to death. He said he always wears all cotton and it doesn't tickle a bit. Now I hope that this does not start any controversy but if it does I will stand back of every line of this contribution.

"E. P. O'B."

Chicken fights are not so popular as once they were, and we suppose the thing to do is to blame or credit this on the automobile. We don't know why this should be blamed on the automobile, especially a good auto, but the automobile and the war have taken the blame for everything. We ourself have blamed three things on the war and only two on the automobile, so that we are really entitled to one more automobile blame. Of course we could be as conventional as everybody else these days and blame the falling-off of chicken fights on prohibition, but this time at least we are going to be different. We sincerely believe that prohibition has had NOTHING to do with the decline in chicken fights. Where, incidentally, does Pittsburgh's Senator Reed stand on chicken fights? Where do you stand, Senator?

You can quote Dave McMasters, the city detective, on this. It doesn't pay to be gallant. McMasters was standing near Peabody High School a few days ago when a girl student, passing, fell. McMasters stooped to gather up her books. As he did, another Peabody student, nearby, jerked back his slingshot and unloosed a well-aimed shot at McMasters. Comic page stuff, perhaps, but, according to the detective, very effective.

DRYS SEIZE BIG STOCK OF RUM

Rented Room Hiding Place Yields Large Assortment; 3 Held in Other Raids

Arrested in connection with the seizure of whisky valued at several thousand dollars, Minnie Markowitz, 34, of 328 East Third avenue, Homestead, was given a partial hearing today before the United States Commissioner.

A continuance was asked pending the securing of testimony from a prohibition agent who is said to have purchased liquor in the Markowitz place on October 3. Bail was fixed at $2,000.

In a garage in the rear of her home, the agents said they found 75 gallons of moonshine.

Inquiry of the occupant of the house, Mrs. Martha Brown, revealed that the room had been rented by Mrs. Markowitz, it was reported. With Mrs. Brown's permission, the raiders said, they entered the room and found 36 cases and three barrels of whisky, a barrel of wine, five cases of gin and 20 gallons of alcohol. Mrs. Markowitz denied the liquor belonged to her.

OTHER RAIDS

For the fifth time in the last two years, a still was seized in a house at 5 Graphic street, according to the agents. Yesterday's raid yielded a 250-gallon still and 27 barrels of mash, raiders said. Nobody was in the house at the time.

Raids on two barrooms, one at 915 Spring Garden avenue and the other at 900 Chestnut street, netted the raiders whisky and home brew, they declared. John Miller, 36, arrested in the former place, and Joe Fisher, 53, and Anthony Marusich, 35, taken at the latter, were held in bond, the dry officers reported.

BAT SLAYER TO APPEAL VERDICT

Wife and Children Weep At Manslaughter Verdict In Slaying of Youth

William Hartlep, North Side park supervisor, found guilty of voluntary manslaughter in Criminal Court, is secluded in his home at 500 Sterling street today while his attorney, Edward G. Coll, is preparing to file a motion for a new trial before Visiting Judge William A. McConnell, of Beaver County, for killing a boy with a baseball bat.

The jury of five women and seven men deliberated for five and a quarter hours yesterday, returning a verdict at 3:50 p. m. They had listened for more than an hour to Judge McConnell's charge, and for two days prior had heard the evidence on the fatal injury of the boy, struck by Hartlep June 27, in a dispute over the breaking up of a baseball game by the supervisor.

WIFE WEEPS AT VERDICT

When the verdict was returned the large crowd of spectators in the courtroom stood spellbound. Mrs. Hartlep, wife of the defendant, began to cry audibly and their four children, sitting with her, put handkerchiefs to their eyes.

J. C. Nieberling and his divorced wife, now Mrs. A. Linsmaier, of Alliance, O., parents of George Joseph Nieberling, 16, of 616 Sherman avenue, who was killed by Hartlep, sat with fixed countenances when the verdict was pronounced. Then the divorced wife reached over and took the hand of her former husband. The couple had been drawn together by their common grief.

BAIL EXTENDED

Attorney Coll asked for a poll of the jury, and each of the 12 was required to stand and confirm the verdict. Then Coll signified he would file a motion for a new trial. Court rules allow him four days in which to do this. Hartlep's $5,000 bail was extended.

The maximum penalty under the sentence would be six to 12 years in the penitentiary.

'TALKIEGRAMS' INTRIGUE MANY

"Talkiegrams," the Sun-Telegraph's fascinating new game, bid fair to be a popular indoor sport throughout Pittsburgh for a long time.

The game is simple, yet intricate enough to match your wits. And now that Sun-Telegraph readers are getting their prize money and theater tickets every day for writing these nifty little paragraphs about the current shows at the leading motion picture theaters, the interest in "Talkiegrams" is getting greater and greater every day.

Olive Borden, favorite in talking pictures, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday and she went "Talkiegram" before she was in town an hour. Here is Miss Borden's first spasm:

CHECK AND DOUBLE CHECK for me as I appear in person at the Enright with THE WIDOW FROM CHICAGO and you're all invited to go WHOOPEE and get in THE LIFE OF THE PARTY—you know THE "TALKIGRAM!"

WAY FOR A SAILOR.

You'll find the "Talkiegram" blank on another page in today's Sun-Telegraph. Clip it out and fill it in with your "Talkiegram" They're easy to write and you have a chance to win your share of $25 in daily cash prizes or a pair of the 100 theater tickets given away every day for the best "Talkiegram".

$1,000,000 Church Addition Opposed

A proposal for an addition to the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church, Sixth avenue, to cost approximately $1,000,000, plans for which were ordered prepared by the church trustees, is said to be meeting opposition.

If erected, the addition would be built on the Oliver avenue end of the church, the building extending to the line of the Trinity Episcopal Church property. The Rev. Dr. Charles E. Macartney, pastor of the church, is in favor of the proposed addition.

Tentative plans call for four floors below the level of the present basement of the church. There would be elevators in the new structure, which would rise several stories higher than the present one. The plans also call for a swimming pool, three gymnasiums, showers, a cafeteria, two private dining rooms, an auditorium seating 304 persons, a Sunday school room seating 414, 14 smaller class rooms, 13 offices and a lobby.

As far as could be learned, the opposition to the erection of the proposed addition is due mainly to the cost. The church owns the land on which the building of McCreery & Co. stands, the congregation receiving a ground rental of $40,000 a year.

Girl Hurt in Fall, Suit Asks $25,000

Marcella McAdams, a minor, through her mother, Mrs. Margaret McAdams, of the West End, asked $25,000 damages from the City of Pittsburgh for injuries to the girl through a fall on the sidewalk, in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. A hole in the pavement in front of the Langley High School, Chartiers avenue, caused her to trip and fall May 20 last, the suit averred.

Eavesdropping Gangster Punished by Gorio

CHAPTER XIX.

Weems looked at the money that Goldie gave him, folded it in his pocketbook and rubbed his bald head in surprise.

"It's a shame to throw away 50 grand when you won't even know it," Weems sighed. "Humph—10,000 bucks for flowers you can't even smell."

"Don't forget, old boy, for your own health," Goldie warned, "there'll be friends of mine who'll smell 'em."

"I never forget," Weems said quickly. "If that's all, I'll be beating it back to town. But listen," he said, turning, "as man to man, what put all this in your head, Goldie?"

"Oh, I had a dream, that's all, I just got an idea."

"Well, on the level, Goldie, I'm sorry you feel that way," Weems declared, gripping the other man's hand.

"Okay," Goldie said. "We all get it sooner or later. I got one thing left I want to do. When it's done, I'm set. So long."

The attorney muttered to himself all the way back to his office. Goldie Gorio still sat and drummed with his fingers on the gold-inlaid arm of his chair.

Puzzled

Mentions Death of the Edgewater Kid

Peters looked surprised.

"Well, he's always treated me square."

"We've been chewing it over down in the hut," the one-eyed one went on. "There's a lot of angles that can stand a lot of explaining."

"For instance?" suggested Peters.

"Well, to go back, there's a lot of queer work about the way the Edgewater Kid was put on the spot."

"Yeah?"

"And it's no laugh the way Goldie's took up with Edgewater's broad, putting practically the whole mob on the hot squat if anything went wrong."

The footman, shaking his head worriedly, walked out of the kitchen, through the dining room. Passing the door of the music room, with its gilded grand piano, he looked in.

Goldie was leaning on the edge of the piano, his hands locked together, staring at her with a breathless intensity.

"Goldie," she said softly, looking with eyes that were tear-filled into his gleaming black ones, "you've been mighty good to me."

Goldie started.

"Annie," he said, "I've got something to say to you—something mighty important."

"What is it, Goldie?" she asked.

The pupils of his eyes narrowed slightly.

"Annie," he began, falteringly—and his eyes left hers, roamed to a mirror and saw the reflection of Peters unmistakably listening.

"Annie," he went on smoothly, "anything I did, you had comin'."

"Thank you," she said, with a faintly quizzical expression in her eyes.

"I want you to do me a favor, Annie," he said.

"Certainly," she replied, "what is it?"

He held out his hand and she took it, slipping her arm through his as he led her, unexpectedly, through the service pantry and into the kitchen, on the heels of Peters.

"Just came up to borrow some — some — some pepper, Boss," he stammered.

"Oh, yeah?" Goldie taunted, with an icy grin, "and why didn't you give it to him, Peters?"

Punishment

Goldie Throws Pepper In Man's Eye

Peters tried unsuccessfully to explain. Goldie stalked to a cupboard, fumbled about, took something down, wrenched at it with another hand, jerked his arm, and the one-eyed man was suddenly coughing and dancing in a cloud of pepper and holding his eye.

"When you get down to the hut, send Monk up," Goldie called after the retreating figure. Peters started apologizing and explaining volubly, but Goldie cut him off, and with Annie he walked back to the library.

"It's the funniest thing," Annie said, "it seems to me every time I turn around in the last day or so I see one of your friends borrowing pepper, or borrowing a book, or some spoons, or even soap—"

"Or just trouble. I'll stop that," Goldie promised grimly. He was twisting his steel-muscled fingers back and forth over a twenty-dollar gold piece as though he would break it.

Monk followed Peters into the room a few minutes later.

"What's the word, Goldie?" he asked.

"Somethin' up, Monk," he said. "Don't want to spill it

ACTRESS FINDS BENEFACTOR

Laine Blaire, of "The Well of Romance" cast, playing this week at the Nixon Theater, has found her policeman. He is the officer, according to Miss Blaire, who did her a good turn three years ago when she was a stock ingenue playing in Pittsburgh. The policeman is Eddie Graney, of 96 Eureka street.

Miss Blaire thus explains the good turn:

"The night we opened in 'Irene' three years ago at Duquesne Garden, I was late. As I rushed down the street I slipped and wrenched my ankle. A cop on the corner ran over to me and picked me up.

"I started to cry, from fear that I'd be late for the show. The policeman hailed a passing motorist, asking him to drive me to the show. He drove me there on time and I made my first big hit, singing 'Alice Blue Gown.'"

Nobody could hear what the little singer said to Officer Graney when they met yesterday at Sixth avenue and William Penn way, but Graney was smiling when they parted, she going to sing and he—maybe to watch out for some other ingenue who might turn an ankle.

Baltimore Theft Suspect Held Here

Hazel Harvey, 32, a Negro, of Baltimore, was held in the Central Police Station today for Baltimore authorities, who are said to want her in connection with the theft of $850.

The money, detectives reported, was stolen from Elmer Hathaway, an alleged race track man, of Baltimore, yesterday morning. Baltimore police, learning that the Harvey woman took a train for Chicago, wired local detectives, who arrested her when the train pulled into the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Station last night.

Mother, Son Held On Liquor Charge

A mother and son were held for court trial by the U. S. Commissioner yesterday on a charge of violating the national prohibition law.

Mrs. Rose Meyers, alias Mrs. Rose Shermer, 45, and her son, Milton Meyers, alias Shermer, 26, of 616 Market street, McKeesport, were charged with liquor law violations after a raid on their home on October 14. The mother was held in $2,000 bail, and the son in $500.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 30.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

This must have happened to thousands of school children all over our country. My three come dragging in from three different schools, and I immediately asked 'em if they had heard Bernard Shaw's great speech over the radio that afternoon. They all said, "No, their teachers had 'em listening to them."

Will Rogers.

Now here was perhaps the most brilliant and wittiest speech of our times, brought right to us by this great invention, yet teachers gave their own lectures instead of Shaw's. Even the newspapers only published extracts of it, but they published all their own editorials. They were improving on Shaw too, so what good does it do to have a brilliant man tell you something?

Yours,
WILL.

Bride Who Helped to Pay For Honeymoon Divorced

Mrs Emma May Rowswell, of 4109 Winterburn street, who declared she was compelled to pay one-half the honeymoon expense, was granted a divorce from William H. Rowswell, Jr., of Washington road, Mt. Lebanon, in a decree handed down in Common Pleas Court by Judge Elder W. Marshall. They were married March 1 and lived at her mother's Winterburn street home until June 11, when Mrs. Rowswell, according to her testimony, put her husband out. She testified:

"The day we were married we went to the George Washington Hotel in Washington, Pa. He asked me to draw a check for my expenses of the honeymoon, which I thought was rather peculiar. I drew the check. Then when we came home he refused to support me and insisted that I keep on working, which I did until the first of June. He was afraid I would lose my job."

Mrs. Rowswell testified her husband had a habit of locking doors. Once he locked her in the living room, she said. On another occasion, she testified:

"He locked the bath room door and turned on the gas and I must have fainted, for the next thing I knew I was lying on the bed and he was throwing water on my face. He said he could not live with me any more and would not let me live with anybodyy else. He threatened me and called me names. So I finally put him out."

Roosevelt Namesake Held For Crime on Birthday

Theodore Roosevelt Clark, 28, Negro, born on a birthday of former President Roosevelt, was held for court by the United States commissioner on a charge of breaking into and robbing the McKeesport postoffice Monday morning. A coincidence was that the alleged offense occurred on the birthday of the late President, as well as Clark's own.

A memorandum containing clearing house lottery numbers, left behind by the burglar in his exit from the postoffice, led to the apprehension of Clark, who, according to postoffice inspectors, admitted entering the building.

The intruder had left his vest behind, and in the garment was found a lottery agent's slip with "numbers." The agent, when located, said the "numbers" had been sold to William Perkins, a relative of Clark. Perkins declared he had loaned the vest to Clark.

McKeesport police turned the case over to the postal authorities, whose investigation led to Clark being arraigned before the commissioner and committed to jail in default of $2,000 bond. It was testified a woman's sweater and a mackintosh had been stolen from parcel post packages, and a wire screen torn from the money order section.

SQUIRREL HILL CITIZENS WIN FIGHT AGAINST DUMP

BAN MAY BRING NEW DISPOSAL SYSTEM

Mayor and Councilmen Join In Action After Hearing On Forward Ave. Protest

A new method of disposing of street refuse may result from the continued protests against dumps in the city limits.

The entire problem will be discussed at a conference to be held by Mayor Charles H. Kline, members of Council, Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang and officials of the Bureau of Highways and Sewers.

Decision to hold the conference was made late yesterday after scores of Squirrel Hill residents made a successful protest against the new dump on the Born property on Forward avenue.

DUMPING STOPPED

Dumping at that site was ordered discontinued and the Bureau was instructed to cover the materials already thrown into the ravine. According to an employe of the bureau, the dumping had been stopped before the hearing.

The site, offered to the city for $10,000, had been selected by the Public Works Department after a survey had indicated it was the best available.

Speakers protesting against the dump charged that, in addition to the street sweepings, garbage and decaying food products had been thrown in, attracting rats and creating a situation that was ruining a high class residence district. One witness, H. W. Connell, offered to produce a box of evidence. His description of the noisome conditions, however, led Council to decline a close inspection of his exhibit.

AGAINST ALL DUMPS

Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, one of the leaders in the successful fight of the Garden Club of Allegheny County to close the Highland Park dump, insisted that Council reach a general decision instead of having the dumps moved from one place to another as residents of various sections staged protests. She said:

"We are against dumps anywhere in the city."

Mrs. Lawrence reminded Council of the decision at the Highland Park dump hearing to have the refuse moved to a ravine near the city home and hospital at Mayview. City officials insisted that was not feasible because of the 34-mile round trip.

Mrs. William MacClay Hall, also a leader in the fight against the Highland Park dump, insisted that the first step is to attack the problem at its source, by preventing anyone from throwing garbage or food products in the streets where it had to be removed by the city.

URGES LAW ENFORCING

Referring to statements that the Department of Public Works has plans for a boulevard to cross the Foward avenue dump site and that a fill of more than 100 feet is needed there to carry the roadway, Mrs. Hall said:

"We are practical enough to know that some fill is needed there. The question is what is to be dumped there. When we fought to have the dumping

PRIDE STREET ROUTING PLAN DEBATED

McIntyre Urges Change Because of Accidents; Postalman Heads Protest

After successfully contesting a proposal to ban all left turns on the Boulevard of the Allies between downtown and Oakland, opponents of the plan yesterday succeeded in delaying action on a modified proposal that would permit such a turn at Pride street.

David Wilson, superintendent of motor service of the Pittsburgh Postoffice, led those who protested at a hearing yesterday. The ruling would work a hardship on the postoffice, he said, by preventing turns to its garage at Magee and Locust streets.

Prof. L. W. McIntyre, traffic engineer, testified that 20 per cent of the accidents on the boulevard are caused by left turns. He upheld the Pride street proposal as the best solution, suggesting the widening of the boulevard at that point to provide a new traffic lane to be used by cars desiring to make a turn.

The Camera Question Box

Mr Warde.

PAUL WARDE, New York, guest: I believe that the modern woman is interested in the election, as she is very progressive. The average woman takes interest in present day politics.

Mr. Martinek.

ALBERT MARTINEK, New York, guest: The average woman of today is interested in the coming election, and, I would say, is capable of casting an intelligent vote. Her mental faculties exceed those she is given credit of possessing.

Mr. Kinlin.

EDWARD KINLIN, North Side, clerk: I don't believe she does take much interest in the election. She has too many other things that seem to her of much greater importance, such as dances and parties.

Mr. Wilson.

CHARLES WILSON, Davenport, Iowa: I really don't know whether she is interested or not, but she should be. I think that the amount of interest taken in such a matter depends, largely, on the individual woman.

Miss Smith.

MISS MARIE SMITH, Lawrenceville, waitress: I think that the average woman takes an interest in politics. Why shouldn't she? It means as much to a woman as to a man who wins the election.

Miss Nitress.

MISS PAULINE NITRESS, Lawrenceville, maid: Some women take a greater interest in the election than others, perhaps, because they know more about what it means. If all women had a knowledge of politics that some have, there would be a more general interest showp among them.

BLIND MAY GET DOG GUIDES

Plans for raising funds for the purchase of trained dogs to act as guides for Pittsburgh's blind were discussed at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, of 5365 Darlington road, last night. Speakers were the Rev. R. A. Blair, of Parnassus, who for nearly two of his five years of blindness has been guided about by his "Seeing Eye" German shepherd dog; Mrs. Patterson and Henry R. Latimer, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind.

It is planned to bring eight dogs and a trainer to Pittsburgh in December. They will be given eight blind persons selected by the blind association.

Three months are required to train dogs to lead the blind, it was said, the total cost being about $350 per dog. There are about 40 of them in the United States.

BLAZE PERILS FIREMEN

Firemen battling a fire in a 10-room frame house at 43 Mainsgate street, Ingram, early today, had narrow escapes when the roof caved in and showered them with burning timbers. The building, separated into apartments, was vacant with the exception of two rooms, occupied by Otto Miner, owner.

Several nearby houses were endangered by the flames which had enveloped the Miner home before firemen arrived. Loss was estimated at $8,000 to $10,000.

FARES CUT TO FIGHT AUTOS

Residents of Allegheny Valley are to be given a five-cent zone street car fare startin, Sunday, in order to encourage automobile riders to use street cars, J. L. Fritsch, vice president of the West Penn Railways System, said today.

As to whether the five-cent rate, which is to be a zone rate, is to be continued, depends on the response of the traveling public, Fritsch said:

"We figured that the automobile traffic injured the street car service. With that end in view, we bought 12 new cars of the deluxe type at a cost of $200,000 to give the public an attractive service at the minimum of price. It is our intention to try out the plan from Sunday next until December 31 inclusive. The response on the part of the public will decide whether we can continue to maintain a five-cent zone fare."

GRID GAME AIDS POLICE; 2 HURT

Two men, one a plainclothesman and the other a fireman, were in McKeesport Hospital today with injuries suffered in the annual football game between the police and firemen of McKeesport at the field of the McKeesport High School last night.

The injured were Plainclothesman Joseph Conley, 38, of Locust street, and Fireman Alfred Marsden, 27, of 507 Soles street. Conley's right ankle was fractured and Marsden sustained an injury to the knee.

The game, staged for the benefit of the police pension fund, was won by the police team by a 6 to 2 score. Police estimated the attendance at 10,000.

BANDITS STAGE TWO HOLDUPS

Search was instituted by police today for four bandits, two of whom held up a South Side clothing store. The others robbed a pedestrian on the North Side last night.

Two armed men walked into the rear room of the clothing store of Harry Lipsitz, at 2701 Jane street, and ordered Lipsitz and his wife to throw up their hands. One of the thugs, after taking $10 and a watch valued at $40 from Lipsitz, went to the cash till where he got $2. They fled in an automobile.

M. E. Stroup, of 803 Marshall avenue, was robbed of $12 by two armed Negroes who confronted him near his home. Stroup notified police at the Woods Run station.

"Nonsense," Goldie retorted fervently. "Who the hell knows the location except our own bunch?"

"Nobody," Monk reluctantly admitted, then added:

"But how about Chimp?"

Goldie laughed heartily.

"Chimp squeal?" he roared. "Be yourself, Monk, be yourself. Goldie's gang don't give in."

When Monk told the news down in the main "hut," he thought for a few minutes he would have open rebellion on his hands. The iron discipline of the mob told in the end, however, and even those who had complained most bitterly against the foolhardiness that had characterized Goldie's recent acts took their places readily enough in the motor cars.

One by one, four cars purred by the house, down the winding drive and out through the iron gates.

The last car picked up Peters and another servant but deposited Goldie's driver.

"But Goldie," protested his driver. "It ain't right for you to go nowheres alone."

"You'd think I was a queen bee or somep'n," Goldie exploded. "You get the hell out o' here, will you? I'll take care of myself and all o' you, too! I know what I'm doin'. Scram!"

PLEADS FOR JOB TO SAVE HOME

Food for six children and their mother, money to pay interest on the home that he is in danger of losing, and the handicap of having but one arm in his search for work are the problems that today forced Joseph Suers, of Bateman alley, Millvale, to make a public appeal for employment or aid.

With Mrs. Suers in need of medical attention and no aid available to help him over his difficulties, the father said:

"All I want is a chance to earn an honest living for my family."

Suers' difficulties started with the loss of his position. He lost an arm in an automobile accident. To help him keep a roof over the family, a clergyman promised to assist him to purchase a home. The latter died while abroad and the payments fell upon Suers. He declares there are many occupations in which the loss of an arm will not handicap him.

DIRECTOR JAMES M. CLARK

BISHOP SEEKS $19,000 CUT IN SUM DUE

Church Leader Tells Council He Purchased Site for Orphanage at Court Sale

An offer of $37,750 for full payment of all delinquent taxes and penalties on a piece of property in Mt. Washington owned by Bishop John Torak, of the Hungarian Greek Catholic Church has been referred by Council to City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt for an opinion.

The payment would mean a $19,000 exoneration in taxes and penalties. Testifying before Council yesterday Bishop Torak said he had purchased the property with the intention of building an orphanage.

ACTION WITHDRAWN

The necessary legislation had passed Council last week, but was withdrawn from the Mayor's office when Council was informed protests had been received against the action.

L. W. Monteverde, whose name was mentioned at the hearing both by Bishop Torak and H. D. Hirsh, the latter's attorney, protested against the exoneration. He said:

"I cannot see why the city should exonerate any taxes and put the burden on others who pay taxes. If the owner of this property is entitled to exoneration he should get it only from 1929 when he purchased it. The rest should go to his predecessor."

BOUGHT AT COURT SALE

Monteverde said that $55,000 paid by the Bishop for street liens had been deducted from his purchase price. The property was bought at an Orphans' Court sale after an agreement had been entered into between the Bishop and the owners that preceded him.

Councilman James S. Herron brought out that the delinquent penalties and interest amounted to about $9,500, while the ordinance called for $19,000 exoneration.

Bishop Torak, replying to a charge he had made an effort to sell the property to an out-of-town firm, said the only talk of a sale had been with Monteverde.

OLIVE BORDEN GIVEN BADGE

Public Safety Director James M. Clark is a nice man; in fact, he is a real nice man.

So said the petite Hollywood cinema star, Olive Borden, upon whose bosom the safety head pinned a shiny police badge yesterday.

Wearing a carefully pressed light gray suit, the director looked quite as chic as the chic Miss Borden, and for his kindness he received a great big smile—and Mr. Clark was amply reimbursed.

For the moment Miss Borden was a full-fledged policewoman, and as she returned the badge to Sergt. Russell Smithe, with another Hollywood smile for that individual, she said very demurely:

"I always have to give the badges back immediately after receiving them; they did the same thing in Los Angeles."

McKeesport Man Held in Liquor Case

stopped in Highland Park we did not think to have it done where it will injure a residential section of our city. We tried to save a ravine of natural beauty used for recreation in our park. If a fill is needed in Forward avenue it should be clean material. There are laws against throwing refuse in the streets. They should be enforced."

Mrs. H. W. Connell, a resident of the section, suggested that the $10,000 purchase price be used as part payment for an incinerator.

The presence of garbage on the dump was stressed by J. M. Lambing, John J. Lawler, Mrs. Lillie Dewar and other residents. Bureau employs said that orders had been issued against the dumping of such refuse and that a watchman was on guard to prevent it.

SEE $50 FINE

Councilman Robert Garland insisted that efforts be made by the police to stop the practice, suggesting that if necessary the fine be made $50 for each offense. City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt, who was acting mayor during the Highland Park dump case, declared he had asked both Director of Public Safety James M. Clark and Supt. of Police Walsh to stop the practice. This problem is to be discussed at the conference.

Attorney John F. Gloeckner represented residents of the district, and Attorneys Jacob Shulgold and Benjamin Lencher appeared for the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade.

INVALID VOTER REGISTERS

David Gibbon, 63, of 2011 Sarah street, chairman of the First District, Seventeenth Ward, was carried into the court house yesterday, where he registered for the coming election. Today is the last registration day.

Mr. Gibbon, who is also assistant superintendent of county bridges, is ill from a stroke suffered three months ago. He is paralyzed on the left side of the body.

With the permission of Dr. Paul Murray, chief surgeon of Mercy Hospital, Mr. Gibbon's physician, the man was taken from his home to the courthouse in a machine driven by Patrolman William Fallert, who reports at the Carrick Police Station. Fallert lives in Gibbon's district.

Gibbon was sworn by Mrs. Emma McCabe, clerk in the personal registration office. He filed a petition two weeks ago.

Mrs. Clemson Names Aides For Lunch Honoring Bride of June

A few days ago we were chatting about the many attractive entertainments being given for brides of June, now home from their wedding trips. And I mentioned that among them a notable event would be the luncheon Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson, of "Highmont," Fifth avenue, will give in her home on Wednesday.

The guests will meet Mrs. Richard Ernst Clemson, who was Elizabeth Harding Christie, daughter of the Lindsay Robert Christies, of Dennistoun, avenue before her marriage June 19.

Now I've just learned who Mrs. Clemson's aides will be. They are Mrs. E. V. Babcock, Mrs. A. P. Burchfield, Mrs. Samuel Harden Church, Mrs. Lindsay Christie, Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl, Mrs. James H. Hammond, Mrs. Norwood Johnston, Mrs. John B. Luckie, Mrs. Howard H. McClintic, Mrs. Birney K. McMechen, Mrs. William Watson Smith, and Mrs. Benjamin R. B. Townsend.

And I want to add another event to the growing list of parties planned for the school set during the merry Yuletide season. The T. Raymond Evanses will give a party in the Twentieth Century Club on December 21, in honor of their children.

Weddings For Fall

Weddings always dot the fall calendar, and take first place in the interests of everyone in spite of the many and varied interests that the autumn always brings.

A Pittsburgh girl will be a bridesmaid at a New York wedding on Saturday, November 15, and she is Jean Henninger, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Henninger, of Aiken avenue.

The bride-elect is Emily Lefferts Cornell, daughter of the Irwin Hewlett Cornells, of Park avenue, New York, and she will marry Harold McIntyre Grout, Jr., son of the H. M. Grouts, of Troy, N. Y. The ceremony will take place that day in the Madison avenue Presbyterian Church.

Officiating will be the Rev. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, president of Union Theological Seminary, assisted by the Rev. Dr. George A. Buttrick, pastor of the church.

Ruth Keen Cornell will be her sister's maid of honor. In addition to Jean Henninger, the bridesmaids will include Mrs. Charles Sumner Stedman, Jr., another sister of Miss Cornell; Mrs. William Lawrence McLane, Gladys Colhoun Marshall, Margaret Spence, all of New York; Lydia Louise Allen, of Woodbury, N. J.; Jean Markley, of Chicago, and Sara Jeannette Reynolds, of Mountain Lake, N. J.

Dr. Byard Williams, also of New York, will be the best man, and the ushers will include James Pine, E. Scranton Platt, Jr., Obert Gurley Betts, George B. Cluett II, and John Girvin Cluett, all of Troy, N. Y.; Charles Sumner Stedman, Jr., of New York; Walter Stuft Stedman, of Albany, and Edgar William Brodie, of Montreal, Canada.

There will be a reception after the ceremony in the Junior League clubhouse. Emily's engagement was announced last April.

Young Set Sees Show

Last night when I dropped into the Nixon to see the scintillating costumes and dancing in "The Well of Romance," I saw quite a group of the younger set, and concluded that the tradition of Wednesday "date" night is still observed by youthful iconoclasts.

In one party were three of the buds of the past winter, Mary Franklin Robinson, Emily Frew and Helen Pendleton. Mary wore a dinner gown of American beauty velvet with a cape collar of heavy cream lace; Emily chose a copperglo lace frock, and Helen wore a smart blue crepe gown.

The young Alexander Robinsons were there, with Mrs. Robinson wearing an informal gown of black crepe, and Anne Douglas Stewart I saw, too. Mrs. J. Henry O'Neill wore a smart jade green crepe gown with an interesting lattice motif of the same material adding distinction to the decolletage in back. Others of the younger set there were Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ricketson, III. Mrs. Ricketson, the former Anne King Scott, wore black chiffon. During the intermission Virginia Goldsbury was chatting with the group.

Sunday Is Film Night

More and more folks are becoming interested in the Cinema Guild, which will present a Russian film Sunday night in the Hotel Schenley ballroom for members.

And, by the way, two of the buds of the season, Elizabeth McKay and Frances Kier, will be aides. Among the patronesses of the event are Mrs. William A. Duckham, Mrs. Ferdinand T. Weil, Mrs. Ernest Tener Weir, Mrs. J. Harton Singer, Mrs. Alexander Blair, Mrs. Raymond Willey, Mrs. Joseph M. Scribner, Mrs. Harry Christian May, Jr., and Mrs. George Terrell Bailey.

Afternoon Ceremony

A wedding of much interest here is taking place today in Philadelphia. Alice Welsh Sailer, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Sailer, is marrying Lawrence Litchfield, Jr., son of Mrs. Lawrence Litchfield, of New York, and the late Dr. Litchfield, of Pittsburgh, at 4 o'clock this afternoon in old St. Peter's Church. The ceremony is to be a quiet affair, due to mourning in the family.

The bride, who is being taken to the altar by her brother, John Sailer, is wearing a gown of white velvet embroidered with pearls, and having long, tight sleeves. A long train of the velvet extends from the waistline, edged with rose point lace. Her tulle veil is banded with pearls and rose point. She is carrying orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mary L. Sailer, her sister's maid of honor, is wearing delphinium blue crepe with a matching felt hat. Her bouquet is of pink roses and delphinium. David Alexander Willock is his cousin's best man and the ushers include John Wintersteen, Louis H. Bieler, William O. Cramp, Ira Williams, Jr., cousin of the bridegroom, all of Philadelphia; Thomas Denton and Kay Denton, of New York.

There will be a small reception in the home of the bride's mother, after which Mr. Litchfield and his bride will leave to make their home in New York.

A luncheon is being given today by Mrs. John S. McCormick in her home in Darlington road, in honor of her daughter, Cecelia McCormick.

The annual Sewickley hunt breakfast this year is being given by the John O. Burgwins, joint masters of the Sewickley fox hounds, following the Armistice Day hunt, November 11, at Paddock Farm, their estate on the heights. The event is for the landowners whose property the Sewickley Hunt uses during the hunting season.

Mrs. Eleanor Scott Walker and young sons, Hepburn, Jr., and William III, left two weeks ago for Bermuda, where she has taken a winter home. Her sons will attend school there and will return in the spring.

Cathedral Ceremony

St. Paul's Cathedral was the scene of the wedding of Miss Helen Kloos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Kloos, of Fifth avenue, and George M. Wilson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Wilson, of Malvern street, this morning at 11 o'clock with the Rt. Rev. William J. Mullen officiating. Ferns, bamboo and ascension lilies decorated the altar, lighted by tall Cathedral candles.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a silhouette gown. The skirt, formed of two tiers, ended in a train. Her ivory tulle veil was held by a cap of lace, and was bordered with a band of lace. She carried ascension lilies.

First Steps to Organize City Parent-Teacher Council Taken

After having been under consideration for two years, the first steps toward organizing a city Parent-Teacher Council were taken yesterday at the annual meeting of the Allegheny County organization in the Congress of Clubs. A committee composed of Mrs. C. A. Rehtmeyer, Mrs. H. C. Courtwright, Mrs. H. S. Daley, Walter Haller and Mrs. F. R. Cunliffe was appointed to go forward with the organization plans.

Aside from this the most important business at yesterday's session was the election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Robert E. Seldon; vice presidents, Mrs. J. Thomas Menk, Mrs. John E. Winner, Mrs. C. S. Cuden, Miss Lucy A. Both, J. Foster Gehrett, Mrs. R. T. Forsberg, Dr. W. H. Goodpaster; corresponding and recording secretaries, Mrs. William L. Fluke and Mrs. Herman L. Grote; treasurer, Albert Hirsch.

Mrs. O. B. Hughes presided. The sessions were unusually well attended, the audience including a greater number of teachers and principals than had ever before been present.

Honor guests were Dr. R. M. Sherrard and Mrs. Mary J. Cowley, of the Board of Education. The luncheon speaker, Dr. Max Schoen, of Carnegie Institute of Technology, stressed the need of training for parents in his talk on "Moral Training for Children."

The afternoon was given over to round table discussions. Mrs. Saul Lavine led a discussion of the study class, Mrs. Daley of programs and Mrs. Monk of publicity. Reports on various phases of the recent state convention were presented by Mrs. J. Frederick Virgin, Mrs. Courtwright, Mrs. Rehtmeyer and Mrs. Walter Toerge.

In charge of its ways and means committee of which Mrs. C. M. Wellons is chairman, the Bellevue Home and Hospital Club will have a benefit card party Monday evening in the Borough Hall.

Mrs. M. R. Moxley, of Glenshaw, is taking reservations for the dinner which the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club will give on Wednesday evening in the Congress of Clubs.

North Boroughs Post No. 116, of the American Legion, will hold its annual benefit dance Friday evening, November 14, in the Bellevue Borough Hall.

Social Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Siegal, of Craft avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Bernice Bess Siegal, to Jack I. Domb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Zachariah Domb, of Pittsburgh, which took place in the Poale Zedeck Synagogue on Sunday morning, October 19, at 11:30 o'clock. Officiating was Rabbi S. B. Friedman.

Married Sunday

The bride wore a gown of cinnabar transparent velvet, and carried wine-colored chrysanthemums. Miss Ruth Berman, of Cleveland, was the bride's only attendant, and wore a honey-beige gown with a black hat, and carried bronze chrysanthemums. David Siegal, brother of the bride, was the best man.

The first social affair of the season of the Dilworth Hall Alumnae Association will be a bridge-luncheon in the Arlington Hotel on Monday. Later the association is planning a theater benefit for the Janet L. Brownlee Scholarship Fund, to be given the Pennsylvania College for Women in honor of Miss Brownlee, who was principal of Dilworth Hall, the preparatory school once connected with the college, for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Beane, of Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, were recent visitors at the Hotel Montclair in New York.

BERTHAS, PEPLUMS AND BELTS CONFER DIGNITY TO FROCKS

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 30.—The call of youth is for berthas, deep and wide, for peplums and for narrow belts with long ends. And so most of the leading houses have created models embodying all these demands and very youthful and fresh such dress are. They confer a demure distinction and delightful dignity and since both of these attributes are most becoming to youth, we find girls and young women once again dressing their type and not wearing clothes that are entirely out of keeping with their own youthful radiance that cannot be counterfeited or conferred by any beauty specialist or gymnasium on earth. The youthful frock can commit the crime of being very insipid, but handled correctly this type of frock should not be guilty of this sartorial offense.

LUCIEN LELONG is an adept at creating frocks that beautify every type of woman and his youthful models are intended to enhance youth not to overwhelm it by too much elaboration and magnificence. The frock sketched for today is one of those youthful models that are good for formal afternoon affairs as well as for quite informal dinners. It is of light green georgette with eyelet embroidery done in soft silver thread. The deep bertha and the crisp little peplum are circular in cut. A narrow belt of the material ties in a small bow at the back with long ends reaching quite to the edge of the skirt.

THE TAILORED FROCK that attains a definite amount of dressiness without losing any of its essential simplicity is not so easily to be found. But once discovered it becomes easily the pet of the wardrobe for it fills the bill for so many functions and duties throughout the day and is in keeping everywhere.

* * *

THE LELONG MODEL sketched for today fulfills every demand for the perfectly tailored, smart frock. It is of black broadcloth and is formed of interesting empiecements cleverly united for the important purpose of creating a smart silhouette. The collar and cuffs of lingerie are pleated and finished with a small lingerie bow. The belt is not exaggeratedly high, being placed just above the hips. This line is much more becoming to the average woman than is a higher placed beltline, and the tailored frock should anyhow be careful to show no evidence of any extreme mode.

CURTAIN FALLS ON 'SETH'

The Loudspeaker

Five Years Away.
Christmas Cheer.
Man, Wife Team.
Band of Pilots.

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Notwithstanding the success of television experiments, the crystal-gazers of American radio still insist practical television is five years away.

The Army will have met the Navy, Bobby Jones will have met his conqueror, Carnera will have met Dempsey, and Morrow will have met Franklin D. Roosevelt in the national arenas before television lures us to the armchairs.

Louis Reid.

The radio rulers, a spy reports, are already looking ahead to another international exchange of Christmas programs. We hope they are concentrating more this year on the characteristic folk music of the nations linked in the broadcast. Last year, you'll remember, the ear-cuppers of the nation lolled back to hear not only Yuletide music from Germany and caught, to their astonishment, the strains of our own "Swanee River," but awaited the transmission of our folk tunes to Germany only to catch the current themes of Hollywood and Harlem.

Alabama's Haunting Cry Remembered

Were all the programs now sponsored by cigar and cigaret makers assembled for one broadcast, it would not only last all day, but far, far into the night.

The talks that penetrate the parlors from London are still happily free of hands-across-the-sea allusions.

Though the broadcasters continue to record great achievements, we doubt if they will ever be able to duplicate the haunting persistence of the balloting in the Democratic National shindig in Madison Square Garden in 1924. You remember—"Alabama casts 24 votes for Underwood."

The cry went on for days. Wherever people congregated, at home, in stores, in streets, in restaurants and hotels, it assailed the ears—an incomparably dramatic monotone, like the defiant beat of the drum in "The Emperor Jones."

Of all singers on the radio who dust off forgotten music shelves, Frank Crumit is the most industrious. His researches have taken him to songs that have been dead and buried for generations, such as "Down Went McGinty to the Bottom of the Sea," "She May Have Seen Better Days," "Chinatown," "A Parlor Is a Pleasant Place to Sit in." He seems, too, to have special fondness for the old Negro chant, "Kingdom Come," that forecast of emancipation, about which Will Rogers talks.

Crumit-Sanderson Live Simple Life

Since Crumit and his wife, Julia Sanderson, left the stage their entertainment activities have been centered upon the microphone. They make a weekly trip—four hours by motor—from their Massachusetts country home, Dunrovin', a memorial to the end of their tours of the theatrical byways, to rehearse and present their broadcast and warble of a few songs for the recording companies. Then back for five days of rustic life.

Away from radio, Crumit is a bond salesman, a successful one, they say, while La Sanderson, almost as youthful of face and figure as when she appeared in the distant days of "Fantana," busies herself with neighborhood activities.

"In listening in on those crooners we hear on the air I am reminded of old grandmothers rocking their grandchildren to sleep. They have lost all the resonance from their voices and sound like hoot owls. Now it seems all right for the old grandmothers to croon, but, when big six-foot men start crooning something is wrong."

There ought to be a law—

Radio has brought a new success to Charles K. Harris, sometimes referred to as the dean of Tin Pan Alley. His famous tear-jerkers of the nineties are found more and more regularly on the music racks of the broadcasters. Harris has always been his own publisher and he never kept trace of how much money rolled in from his songs, but he will tell you the majority of them sold more than 1,000,000 copies. I can believe it.

In the days before sophistication set her sharp-edged heel upon us no home was complete without its copy of "Hello Central, Give Me Heaven," "I'm Wearing My Heart Away for You" and "After the Ball."

His career encompasses the modern musical history of America. He has seen the song cycle swing from home-and-mother ballads to dance-little-lady jazz. With the sentimentalists and sophisticates of the radio in mind, he now tries to combine the best features of each.

New Dance Band Has Airplane Pilots

There is always room for a new dance orchestra. Comes now to the Park Central, a band that is composed, believe it or not, of licensed airplane pilots. Why not, too, an orchestra of the more successful racketeers? Here would be something novel on Broadway. Camden, N. J., we have a feeling, will be the first city to boast a statue to Marconi.

Tetley music with Tetley Tea

Set your mind at rest after the trials of a busy day with the Tetley tea-time program tomorrow and every Friday, five to five-thirty, from Station KDKA. The music is soft and friendly — something to soothe wrought-up nerves back into place again.

YOU'LL like also the variety added to this program by an interesting traveler who tells you of the charm and intrigue of continents wrapped up in the ancient custom of tea-drinking. You'll like his friendly voice and first-hand stories of many races of people.

It's up to you to complete the pleasure of the Tetley program by choosing this half-hour for tea-time in your own home and serving Tetley Tea brewed according to the English recipe on the package. Then, and only then, will you get the full fragrance and aroma from the fine old tea-gardens of India and Ceylon. Get your full measure of pleasure. Drink Tetley Tea — morning, noon and night.

TETLEY TEA

SEALED Thermo-fresh...
TO INSURE THIS PRECIOUS COFFEE FLAVOR-against loss

THE most rapid loss of coffee flavor occurs in the first nine days after roasting. During that time, coffee loses 60% of its original flavor, and develops a stale taste.*

This happens to any coffee that isn't sealed the Thermo-fresh way . . . That is why White House is now sealed in Thermo-fresh tins a few minutes after it leaves the roaster. You'll always find all its richly-blended goodness there when you unlock the tin. You'll make better coffee, because of that 60% more flavor.

White House Coffee has long been famous for its flavor . . . perhaps you've used it and liked it, too. But wait until you've tried it packed the Thermo-fresh way. It's wonderful.

Good grocers—everywhere—now have White House Thermo-fresh Coffee. You'll find they charge a bit more for it than for ordinary coffees, but any one of them will tell you that 60% more flavor is more than worth the difference.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN
Radio Editor.

When Seth Parker signs off from Jonesport, Maine, in the WCAE singing school tonight at 7:30 he will bring to a climax a 52 week run of this down-east feature. "Seth Parker" has made friends in Pittsburgh in the person of Dave Olson, talented Knoxville boy, and the superb characters who have assisted him. This weekly gathering in the WCAE studios has become a part of the life of Dave, Helen Douglass, Russell Mitchell and the balance of the cast. They will actually feel lost next week because their little meetings have always been homey and friendlike in the studio as well as on the air. "Beautiful Blue Danube," "Toreador Song" and "Micaela Duet" are booked for WCAE at 9. Frank Parker sings "Down the River of Golden Dreams" and Annette Hanshaw presents "Body and Soul" for 9 o'clock devotees of WJAS.

Two bits of comedy on the Beck Brevities, WJAS at 7, deserve mention. They are Halloween Howls" and an election burlesque, "Happy Returns"—both done by those fine comedians, Willie and Eugene Howard.

Fred Webber, the WCAE announcer with the Milton Cross smiles, handled his first program outside the studio the other night.

It was at a dance hall and he was a little nervous, of course. Ray Kyser noticed this and played a practical joke by allowing Fred to announce for his first two numbers, "I'm Out of Breath and Scared to Death," and "I'm Only Human After All."

* * *

We'd like to see Webber describe a parade or banquet some time. His voice has punch.

QUESTION A DAY:

The other day I received an advertisement of correspondence lessons on radio announcing. I should like to become an announcer, but could I learn the business that way?—J. P. A., Butler, Pa.

Answer—I doubt if announcing could be taught by mail. If you have personality, a resonant voice, good sense and an education of music and languages, why not try the test at one of our local stations? Not one in a thousand makes good, but you may be that one.

We sat in a downtown studio for 30 minutes last night. There were 17 telephone calls, better than one every two minutes. Five persons were girls who wanted to talk with announcers just to say "Hello," two congratulated the station on the excellence of its programs and 10 wanted to know when "Mystery House" would be on.

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER LVIII.

"No luck," Gordon said. "They've never even heard of him at the Six Companies. We'll try the Four Families over on Grant avenue."

"All right." Cathie smiled her old, gorgeous, gallant smile that lit her face like a light from within. It didn't matter where they went, so long as Gordon was back safe. And now that he was back, sitting beside her in the roadster, she grinned at her own fears, of a moment ago . . . Here she'd been imagining him shanghaied, kidnaped, robbed, murdered and hidden in a cellar . . . all because he was gone 10 minutes!

But at Four Families she insisted on going up with him. He'd be all right, of course . . . but just the same, if anything was going to happen to him she'd just as soon that it would happen to her, too.

Up the stairs they went, to the top floor. Rich Chinese carpets, softly blue, were under their feet. On the wall portraits of the four founders, the heads of the families of Lau, Kwan, Jung and Chew.

The dignified, elderly Chinese gentleman in American clothes was polite, but firm. No, he had never heard of Cheong. There was another name, surely?

Not Successful

Cathie looked at Gordon and Gordon looked at Cathie. If there was one, they had never heard it.

"Then I'm afraid I cannot help you."

"But he was so well known," Cathie said. "He used to come to Chinatown every afternoon of his life."

"He conducted a sort of employment agency for men of his tong, in the basement of the Farnsworth home in Presidio terrace," Gordon put in. "You must at least have heard of him. There must be some way of finding him."

The Chinese gentleman smiled. "Cheong, my dear sir, is Cantonese for ginger—not a family name at all. I have no idea who this person could have been."

"But isn't there some way I could trace him?" Gordon persisted. "He has done this lady, my fiancee, and myself a very great favor. We must find him to show our appreciation."

"What were the names of some of the other servants? Perhaps through them——"

"Charley," Cathie said. "He called them all Charley. He said that would do as well as

The elderly Chinese spread his hands with an eloquent gesture. "Perhaps he had his reasons for hiding his identity."

"But why? And if he has been so kind to us, don't you think he would want us to know what happened to him?"

Their host considered. "If, as you think, he was a power here in Chinatown, he must have stayed with the late Mr. Farnsworth for some purely personal reason. Loyalty. A great service rendered, perhaps, in the past. And that discharged, and Mr. Farnsworth dead, what would keep him here now? A man like that would be on his way to China, even now. Going back to—shall we say to an old age of meditation and peace? To a garden, perhaps—a pear garden—they are famous in China. Surrounded by old friends, servants, by people of his family. A well deserved rest, would it not be?"

Gift From Cheong

"That's about what happened," Gordon said thoughtfully, going down the stairs again with Cathie. "Whatever his reason for keeping out of China, Cheong must have outlived it long ago, and that's about what he's done—gone back."

"Well, I still think he'd have said goodby!"

"Wait! He did—in his own way. I meant to tell you, and forgot it. I got a present from him this morning. I'll bet anything that the mate to it is waiting for you at your mother's house right this minute. A jade tree—good luck to the newly engaged couple, do you see? A lovely one, jade and turquoise and coral, in a white jade bowl, a beautiful thing . . . That was his way of saying goodby and wishing us good luck."

"Maybe," Cathie said. She snuggled down in the seat of the roadster, leaned for a moment against Gordon's shoulder. For the first time she realized she was tired.

"Lord! Four o'clock, and I promised your mother I'd get you home early!"

Cathie smiled. She didn't mind being late. Nothing mattered. She had Gordon, and some day, not too far away, they'd be married. A real marriage. What every girl dreams of. What she had dreamed of an April day hardly more than a year ago.

Through the streets Gordon guided the car, past the shops of Chinatown, showing mangosteen, mango and lichi. Past window displays of snuff bottles and pearls. Past shops displaying kimonos and cheap Japanese toys. Past old St. Mary's Church. Past the busy shopping section. Out the long, tree-lined drive through the Panhandle toward the park and home . . . to the high shouldered old cottage that used to be home, and was again.

"I've got to leave you for a while," Gordon said. "It's about that Russian project I told you of, Cathie. Looks as though it were coming true. We'll be going—together."

Cathie thought of Russia. The Russia of Easter lilies and black forests, and black and red cross-stitch embroidery . . . And suddenly it seemed near, and real. They'd go . . . she was sure of it . . .

"I'll be back in time to take you out to dinner at 7 . . . Cathie . . ." Gordon looked hastily up and down the street. "Cathie, kiss me?"

"To say goodby until 7 o'clock?"

"Maybe you don't think that's a long time without seeing you!"

Wedding Dresses

"Not very!" She laughed, but she only pretended to dodge the kiss. What did she care for Mrs. Hennessy peeking through the lace curtains next door? "Oh, Gordon, it IS a long time—kiss me again!"

So he did.

And after he was gone Cathie stood on the porch, waving, while he drove away. She was thinking about that other time, a year ago, when he drove away and didn't intend to come back any more . . . well, that was all over now . . .

Rat, tat, tat . . . It was Mrs. Hennessy knocking with her gnarled fingers on the window next door. Waving a bent old hand. "Hello, Cathie, Hello!"

But Cathie didn't see.

She was going inside to Ma. To wait until 7 o'clock, when Gordon would come back . . .

And after that? Cathie's mind went racing ahead . . . Ruth's wedding . . . business of the estate to clear up . . . She was going to turn all her share to charity, she'd had all the money she wanted, besides Gordon had enough . . . Very special charity . . . things she'd always wanted to do for people . . . and after that . . . and after that . . .

"Cathie, just put on the kettle, will you, darlin', and we'll have a bit of tea!" Ma called from the bedroom. "That is, if you aren't too tired. If you are, I'll just drop Ruth's wedding dress and come fix it myself. It won't be the least bit of trouble."

"I'm not too tired. I'll do it," Cathie answered.

And then she stood, tea kettle in hand, in the kitchen, while Ma stitched on in the bedroom, and she dreamed of 7 o'clock, and Gordon, and the kind of wedding dress she'd have for herself.

"Ma," she called, above the noise of the sewing machine, and the sound of the water she was remembering to run into the kettle at last. "Ma, if I select an easy pattern, and I don't want it in too much of a hurry, would you make my wedding dress, too?"

Fay King Thinks Being Wife of a Celebrity Is a Losing Game

By FAY KING.

I certainly do not envy any woman who is married to a celebrity—especially in this day when woman's new freedom seems mostly to consist of man-snatching.

To be the wife of a celebrity is very nice while it lasts. It means going about a lot. Meeting every one.

But it is only his current wife who enjoys this privilege, and, alas, celebrities seem to change wives quite often.

I often wonder just what are the thoughts of a first or second wife who reads of the current wife.

Some wives have, of course, managed to hold on to their celebrated husbands. They have to keep them pretty well caged and be on hand every minute.

Even then he sometimes gets away.

Marion Realizes Mother Might Not Approve of Owen's Proposed Party

I had no opportunity for several seconds to voice my mental query as to why Marion had not consulted her mother before leaving the school a day before she was expected in New York. Mr. Owen was smoothly answering Carolyn's insistent appeal that he be one of the dinner party which he and Helena Brixton had scheduled for the schoolgirls, together with Carolyn's brother Ronald, and a college friend. By the time he had finished I had determined to change the involuntary chiding attitude which I had taken in my surprise at seeing Marion, and leave further questioning to Lillian. Besides, I told myself, with a knowledge of schoolgirl psychology which harked back to my teaching days, if I adopted a receptive, friendly attitude, I doubtless would learn almost everything I wished from their schoolgirl chatter.

"I hope to be with you, Carolyn," Mr. Owen was saying. "But you know if word comes from your father, I must join him at once."

He turned to me deferentially. "You probably know that Sam cannot be with his family for the holidays," he said.

I stiffened warily, but my answer was prompt and my voice as casual as his own.

"Yes, I understood from Mrs. Brixton that her husband would be unable to join her for the holidays—an unavoidable business trip, I think she said."

"Indeed, it is unavoidable," he said. "Nothing but necessity could keep Sam from his family on Christmas."

"I could just weep all over the lot, when I think of it," Carolyn said dolefully. "It just won't be Christmas without dad. But, of course," she added, brightening, "it won't be so bad this time as it would have been any other year. With Ronald and three strange boys from Yale, and two more girls from school coming for all the vacation, we won't have time to miss anybody."

"The resilience of youth," Mr. Owen murmured, with a meaning smile at me which I hotly resented, though I did not dare to show my rancor.

"If you can't go, Uncle Charlie," Carolyn went on, pursuing her thoughts up the single track upon which she had started them, "it will be just horrid. One of the boys will have to see to mother—oh! I don't mean it that way," she interrupted, herself flushing. "That sounds as if I didn't want Mummy along, and I do, but—you know——"

"Yes, I comprehend your meaning perfectly, Carolyn," her uncle told her with an ironic little smile, "and you may be sure that I shall be with you, if it is a possible thing. For your reassurance I'll tell you that I don't expect a message from your father until tomorrow. But if one comes, I am sure Ronald will be equal to the task of taking care of both Marion and your mother, leaving the other young man free to devote his entire attention to you. Which youth is coming down? I've mislaid his name if I ever had it."

"You're such a tease, Uncle Charlie," Carolyn pouted. "You know very well, I've never met any of Ronald's college friends. That's the reason I'm so petrified about being a man short at the party. You know we had everything all set to go up for a football game and a dance, and then a girl came down with measles on our floor, and we were all quarantined, so we couldn't go. We weren't quarantined from study though, not that anybody could notice. Nobody else came down with it, and did the teachers put us through? They simply gloated. We wouldn't have cared though, except for our football date. I ask you, did anybody ever hear of such luck?"

She delivered this tirade in the softest of well-bred voices, inaudible to anyone but our own little group, and the contrast between those tones and her atrocious vocabulary would have been irresistibly ludicrous if I had not been so perturbed over the situation, which, indeed, would have been no problem, whatever, were it not for the deceit to Lillian which, I was sure, had been involved. I knew, as did Marion, how meticulous was her care, and how securely she rested under the assurance that her idolized child was safe under the sheltering care of the school when she herself was not with her. I knew that the homegoing girls were put on a special car of the train from Sackettstown under the chaperonage of a teacher, and then delivered to their waiting parents or guardians at Hoboken. The school authorities took no chance of a pupil's slipping out from their guardianship until they were transferred to the charge of their parents.

Marion herself voiced my troubled thought.

"I'm afraid you'll be a girl short at the party, Carolyn," she said, with a little catch in her voice. "I'm afraid Mums is going to be angry about this, don't you think so, Auntie Madge?"

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, October 31

Despite some chaotic or confusing situations of a more or less baffling or intriguing nature, this should be a very lively day and eventually one of much substantial accomplishment. While new undertakings are under this singular or sinister vibration, yet the Saturn force for stabilizing and tenacity should assist in vanquishing these hidden adverse forces.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of much stable growth and advancement, mainly through their personal application and indomitable perseverance. Precaution and diligence may be called upon to offset sinister and chaotic situations, especially in relation to new projects or alliances.

A child born on this day should be brilliant, versatile, responsible and practical, and should reach secure place in life through its own industry and efficiency.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

What Every Woman Finds Out

The only woman who has graduated in the School of Experience these days is the mother of a modern daughter.

* * *

When a man begins by declaring, "I never flatter a woman!" hold onto your heart and your head around the curves of his conversation. His line is apt to be the kind that will make you dizzy.

The old-fashioned villain was a man who was always doing his worst to force the girl to marry him; the modern "villain" is one who is always doing his level best to prevent her from marrying him.

It's a question with a little boy whether he'd rather grow up and be a great poet and get the laurel wreath or be a bootlegger and get rich or be a prize-fighter and get cheered.

Time is getting to be a woman's friend in these days of facial sculpture. At twenty she appeals only to a man's eye, but by thirty she has learned how to appeal to his imagination, his vanity and sometimes his intelligence, and has grown easier on the eyes with the aid of art.

Funny, but so often it's the woman who never regarded her husband as anything but a meal ticket and a fur-buying animal who refuses to give him up to another woman, even if he is willing to pay a high ransom.

It takes four or five cocktails for a man to reach that stage of sublime self-confidence where he feels perfectly sure that his wife won't suspect that he's had a drink.

You can't always judge a man's love by the way he kisses his wife, but you can get a pretty good line on it by the way he refrains from kissing other men's wives.

Tell It to Sally

By SALLY MARTIN

Do You Believe That It Is Only Fair to Pay for a Date With a Few Kisses?

To Pet or not to Pet—There's the argument that's been raging in this department lately.

Bonnie said that all a girl had to look at was the four walls of home, if she didn't go in for heavy necking with every boy who dated her out.

"Hooey!" snorted 47,666 boys. "We don't start it. It's the girls! They think we're saps and slow pokes if we just take 'em out for an evening of pleasant chat and a movie!"

So the war's on, with Cecelia bringing up the heavy cannon.

"Dear Sally—I've read Bonnie's letter, and so have all my girl friends, and they've elected me to write to you about these boys a girl meets nowadays.

"I'm 18, too, and full of fun, always trying to brighten a dull corner, and good in a pinch for musical or comic talent.

"But so far as dating is concerned, the boys needn't talk so innocent. I've found out the same thing Bonnie has. Only, I'm not against petting. Not any more. When I first started dating, I resented it, and resolved to avoid it.

"And did I get away with that? Huh! I soon realized that I was being avoided and hadn't had a date for weeks! When I woke up to that, I decided that if the next dater expected a petting party, he would get it. Well, the date came, and so did the petting. At first I was shy about it, but now a week rarely passes that I don't have at least three or four dates.

"I am popular, and am considered a square shooter, and a 'regular fellow.' The boys respect me . . . at least verbally. What there is inside their minds concerning my petting is immaterial to me, because what I think of them would fill a book. But I keep my thoughts to myself, and so do they.

"It's got so now that when I'm out on a date, and the petting doesn't start as soon as I expected it would, I am astonishingly disappointed. But my fears are soon quelled. It never fails to start.

"Any girl who doesn't indulge is termed a flat tire all right. She's left alone, and bitterly accuses the fate that made her detest petting. Of course there are those who will say 'Why date? Stay clean. Have no dates. We can do without them, and without fellows.' But I can tell you that to feel alone, while the others have all the fun, and to feel that no one is interested in you, certainly brings a bitter feeling around the heart.

"If you love a good time, and life in general, if you love companionship, and are miserable alone, if you want to meet life face to face and squarely, the only way to enjoy life and meet it, seems to me, is to pet.

"I know I will be meeting lots of objections, but nine out of 10 of those girls who object to petting, know down in their hearts that Bonnie, I, and thousands of other girls, are right, and that if you want to have dates and be popular you have to pet.

"I know that examples will be shown where fellows do settle down and marry, and won't choose the petting sort, but the girl who has kept herself 'clean' waiting for her Prince Charming to come for her, and all the time she was waiting, she was thinking how dull life was, and wishing she had been like other girls, and hadn't kept her hope chest in moth balls.

"If the fellow who wants to marry me doesn't like the idea that I petted before I met him, he can go to the devil. It's his brethren that attempts the petting, and not his fiance. And I will know darn well that he has sowed his wild oats, too. And I'll be glad, for I wouldn't welcome the idea of breaking him in. I wouldn't want someone that nobody else wanted. And I have heard lots of fellows say too, 'I wouldn't marry a girl who has never gone out with other men, for I would know that no one else wanted her!'

"Here's to those who pet! It's 10 to 1, and I mean I'll take the odds, that the petters are the ones who marry first! I hope you print this. I'm interested in the many objections I am sure will come back at me.

"I'd like to hear, too, the views of the girls who don't pet, and I'd like to hear if they do have dates, and are popular, any of them.

"CECELIA."

Well, you're at least frank, Sissy. And now, since you're wondering what the boys really think of you, I'm going to give them a chance to tell.

Lineup, Bill, Tom, Oswald! Line up and look her over. Would you, or wouldn't you want our popular Cecelia for a wife?

She has a perfect petting technique—she admits it herself. She's the best of good fellows. And so obliging! All of which you taught her, boys, and you wouldn't take her out unless she learned.

Well—she's learned. And now—what? You "made her what she is today" . . . are you satisfied? If not, why not?

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

When There Are Two Hostesses

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When two are hostesses at a bridge luncheon, one of whom is a stranger or an acquaintance of yours, should you entertain both or just the one you feel indebted to?

—Florence.

While strictly speaking, perhaps we are indebted in this case only to the hostess who is our special friend, and it is she to whom we think of "returning" the hospitality soon, still, it is gracious sometime, also rather soon, to make some gesture of hospitality to the other hostess. For, after all, her spirit of hospitality was also involved in the giving of the party.

It would, for example, be delightful if you would ask both hostesses some day for tea, either alone or with a few other friends.

Announcing the Step-Daughter's Marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am a widow of 39 years of age, and I am to be married soon. I want to send out wedding announcements and am in doubt as to the correct wording of them. Both my own mother and father are dead, but my stepmother is living. May I use her name on the cards, and if so, do I use the word stepdaughter, or just daughter?

2. Shall I have them engraved, printed or write them personally? G. W.

1. Apparently you are very fond of your stepmother and it would be a fine, "daughter-ly" gesture for you to make to her to ask if she would give you the privilege of making the announcement in her name.

The words stepdaughter or stepmother are so frigid and so uncompromising in sound that by all means use the word daughter.

And, by the way, since your name will not be the same as hers, you would use Mrs. before your name.

2. Formal announcements of this kind must not be printed—it is better not to have any than not to have them engraved. The invitations or announcements, if your wedding is not to be a formal one, may be written, but written in the form of notes, not imitating a formal invitation or announcement.

Christmas Cards to Business Associates

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Will you please let me know if it is proper to send Christmas cards to men in my office with whom I come in contact every day?

2. Should the cards be sent to their homes?

3. If a man is married, should it be addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. Blank" even if I do not know the lady? V. M.

1. Yes, this is correct, if you know these gentlemen well. But it is correct only if you address the envelopes to both the husband and wife. And it makes no difference that you have never met the wife. It is terribly poor taste to send a card of this kind only to a wife, if she has a husband, or to a husband, if he has a wife.

2. Yes.

3. Yes, most definitely.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Appendicitis No Longer Feared.

Many advances have been made in surgery during the past 25 years. In no other way is this better shown than in the reduced mortality rate of appendicitis.

DR. COPELAND

Appendicitis no longer excites the fear it formerly did. This is due in a large measure to the education both of the surgeon and of the lay public. We have learned to respect the disease and to make sure there is proper handling of it in every form.

It is interesting to note that appendicitis is rare in infants and in those over 60 years of age. It is common in any period beyond childhood, being more frequent in young and middle-aged people. It is more common in males than in females and occurs more frequently in the summer than in other seasons. It is a disease met often in warm countries.

Appendicitis is usually traced to a germ, called the "colon bacillus." It may be the result of other types of bacteria, but this is the common one. The colon bacilli are normal inhabitants of the appendix, and under normal conditions are harmless. It is when the appendix is bruised or injured that these germs are capable of causing an infection.

Recently it was shown by a great scientist that certain poisons which enter the circulation may have an affinity for a "specific action" on the appendix. Such poisons may come from an unsuspected focus in the body. This may be quite distant from the appendix, from the teeth for instance.

In some cases the disease begins suddenly, ushered in by sudden severe pain in the abdomen. In most cases there have been previous symptoms. Most important of these signs are constipation or diarrhoea, a general feeling of uneasiness and discomfort in the lower abdomen. Nausea is always present, with vomiting which may occur as late as four of five hours after the onset of the pain.

Appendicitis as we have spoken of it here is commonly called "Acute Appendicitis." It may require immediate surgical attention or the patient may recover under careful medical attention.

No case should be treated without the careful supervision of a physician. Remember that once a patient has had an attack of appendicitis, he is liable to suffer again if the appendix has not been removed.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Beauty must not sleep with her hand under her cheek. That habit pushes the flesh up around the eyes and produces a sharp line from eye-corner to lip-corner. Also, during sleep the chest should not be contracted, the body huddled together. Such a position interferes with respiration.

The natural impulse when powdering the face is to first slap the calcimine on the nose. Bad technique. Begin under the chin and work upward. Powder should not be frictioned into the skin, but fluffed on and patted lightly with the finger tips. Some fastidious duckies remove superfluous powder with a camel's hair brush made for that special purpose.

To whiten the arms sponge the surface with peroxide. Apply with a bit of cotton. Follow with applications of cold cream, and cover the arms with steaming towels. After removing cream, fluff on talcum powder; let it remain on over night.

After being kissed by Mister Sun all summer, the average complexion is grateful for more oily applications. Use cold cream or a liquid cream for cleansing purposes, but at night apply a heavy tissue builder with friction. Manipulations will help rid the epidermis of discolored scales; they bring forth the fresh new skin that will look better with the evening frock than the mottled one.

UTAH SEEKS GAME WITH PITT

THE DECISIVE DEFEAT suffered by Pitt at the hands of Notre Dame last Saturday has not lowered the football rating of the Panthers nor lessened their popularity as a visiting attraction in other parts of the country. Evidence that Dr. Sutherland's team is still looked upon as being well qualified to represent the East in special intersectional competition is contained in the fact that the Blue and Gold eleven is being sought by the University of Utah as an opponent in a proposed big post-season game. The suggestion probably will be laid before the Pitt athletic council when the next meeting of that body is called to order by Chairman Charles D. Wettach.

Charles D. Wettach

From Salt Lake City comes the information that Gus P. Backman, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of that place, has sent the following message to W. Don Harrison, director of athletics at Pitt: "University of Utah anxious to meet you in post-season game either at Salt Lake or at any point you designate, December 6 or 13. Utah has lost three games in five years. Won Rocky Mountain title three of last four years. Will repeat this year. Saturday defeated Denver, 59 to 0. Advise your attitude."

UTAH HAS NOT been defeated in its last 19 games, or since the latter part of the season of 1927. It was beaten that year by Northwestern, Colorado Aggies and Creighton, but has won all of its contests since, barring a tie with Utah Aggies in 1927 and two draws in 1928 with Creighton and Brigham Young. Last year it won all of its seven games, and this season has defeated Nevada, Wyoming, Brigham Young and Denver in a row, scoring 185 points against only 14 for its opponents.

The policy at Pitt, it is known, is not in favor of post-season games, excepting, of course, such occasional national championship events as the Tournament of Roses fixture at Pasadena on New Year's Day. The custom has been to close the Panther season with the regularly scheduled Thanksgiving Day game. Whether an exception will be made in the case of the request from Utah, however, will not be determined until the matter is taken up by the Athletic Council at its regular meeting next Wednesday.

THE CASH CONSIDERATION of $120,000 paid to the owners of the Braves, in addition to five players, for the release of Rogers Hornsby after the season of 1928 was the only large cash sum expended by William Wrigley, Jr., to help Joe McCarthy build the Cubs into pennant winners.

Lester Sweetland

But the Chicago magnate evidently is prepared to go a great way farther to buy a winning club for Hornsby in the latter's first season as manager of the Bruins. He is said to have parted with close to $100,000 already for pitching strength alone in obtaining Bob Smith from the Braves, Lester Sweetland from the Phillies and Jakie May from the Reds.

SOMETHING LIKE $50,000 went along with Wes Schulmerich and Bill McAfee to the Boston club in the deal for Smith and Jimmy Welsh, and the cash sums paid to Philadelphia and Cincinnati for Sweetland and May are reported to have totaled almost $50,000 more. One rumor says that May is to be sent to the Coast League in part payment for Tony Freitas, promising yong left-hander, but in any event his acquisition must be figured in as part of the off-season expenditures to help Hornsby. And the buying operations have not been completed, by any means, as it is understood that the purchase of additional material is planned during the winter.

FOR ONE THING, a deal for a new first baseman is probable. Jim Bottomley is understood to be slated to supplant Charley Grimm, and in whatever sort of dicker is made with the Cardinals for Bottomley, money is likely to play a considerable part. A third sacker also is wanted, and if Pinky Whitney cannot be bought from the Phils, steps may be taken to purchase the best minor leaguer available.

So, all around, the reconstruction of the Bruins is going to cost a tidy sum. Wrigley is quoted as saying he is willing to spend $500,000 to get a champion club. He is in a sort of defensive position, inasmuch as he is practically forced to get a winner at any cost in order to make himself as well as his club president and his manager look good and prove that he did not make a mistake in dropping McCarthy for Hornsby. The Cubs have got to win from the start next year or they may lose a lot of patronage. It has been said that money can't win a pennant, but there is no denying that it helps a lot.

Al Lassman

That number has been withdrawn from New York U.'s identification list, not only for the present season, but for all other seasons to come. The action has been taken as a mark of respect to the memory of the late Al Lassman, former star tackle and captain of the Violet eleven.

LASSMAN, WHO WAS so seriously injured in the meeting with Carnegie here on November 24, 1928, the last game played by the Tartan at Forbes Field, that it was only after a battle of many months that he recovered, was drowned last summer in heroically rescuing two boys whose canoe had capsized. In the final game of his gridiron career here, as in all other games that season, the great tackle, as captain of the team, wore No. 1 on his jersey. Out of respect to his memory, and as an enduring tribute, the athletic authorities at New York U. have decided that Lassman's number shall never again be worn by any member of a Violet team. The captain of this year's eleven, Jerry Nemecek, left end, is wearing No. 2.

FOLLOWING RECENT FOOTBALL mishaps in which Albie Booth, of Yale; Jimmy Murphy, of Fordham, and Charley Devens, of Harvard, were severely injured during games against Army, New York U. and Dartmouth, respectively, the charge has been made, with no real evidence to support it, that deliberate attempts were made to hurt the players named.

That is altogether too serious a matter to be passed over lightly. It is grossly unfair and unjust to accuse a player of trying to injure an opponent when there is no proof that he actually did so. Football is necessarily a rough game in which accidents cannot always be avoided in spite of all the protective rules and restrictions now existing.

A GRIDDER HAS got to play hard if he plays earnestly, and it does not necessarily follow that he was guilty of a willful attempt to hurt an opponent if the latter is unfortunately injured.

The rules provide penalties for unnecessary roughness, and the fact that no such penalties were imposed in the cases mentioned indicates that the officials were of the opinion that the injuries suffered were wholly accidental. They were in the best position to see what was going on and the best qualified to decide what really happened.

SCHOOLS AGREE TO RETAIN SECTIONS

February 25 has been chosen as the opening date of the annual elimination basketball series of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League, according to the complete schedule announced today by G. W. Casteler, chairman of the basketball committee. As has been the case in recent years, the tournament, involving the champions of 17 sections, will be staged in the Stadium pavilion.

With the tabulation of the votes cast by the majority of the members, the sections this year virtually are the same as those that operated last winter. Sections outside of the Greater Pittsburgh district are numbered from 1 to 16, inclusive, while the city schools are enrolled in Section XVII.

The question of referees also was taken up by the members of the organization, and it was announced that the W. P. I. A. L. does not recognize any official group of arbiters. It was decided to use any official who possesses the qualifications of handling a basketball game. There are several organizations of basketball officials operating in Western Pennsylvania. In instances where two schools cannot agree on an official, the chairman of the basketball committee will make the selection.

The dates for the elimination series at the Stadium are subject to change, depending on what dates will be chosen by the P. I. A. A. committee for the inter-district games.

BUCS PURCHASE KID INFIELDER

Sam Dreyfuss, of the Pirate baseball club, has announced the addition of Harry Geissberger, a California youth, to the infield squad of the Bucs. He will report at Paso Robles in the spring.

Although the new Pirate, who is only 18, likes to play at shortstop, he has a natural ability at the other infield positions, it is said. He was born August 7, 1912, is 5 feet 9½ inches tall, weighs 155 pounds, is a righthander in batting and tossing and his home is in San Francisco.

Dreyfuss said Geissberger was a free agent before signing a Pittsburgh contract.

22 COLLEGES IN MEET

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Twenty-two colleges, including one Middle Western institution, have entered a total of 265 athletes for the twenty-second annual varsity cross-country championship, to be run at Van Courtlandt Park here November 17, it has been announced.

VERONA HIGH OPEN

The Verona High School football team is open for a game at home or abroad on November 7, 8 or 11. School teams interested should call Oakmont 239-M and ask for Schropp.

Believe It Or Not By RIPLEY

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: HITLER—THE MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY—Adolf Hitler, who is the chief of the German Fascisti or National Socialist party of Germany, is a native of Tyrol, Austria, but he forfeited his Austrian citizenship by enlisting and serving in the ranks of the German army during the World War. On the other hand, he never has acquired German citizenship, by neglecting to be naturalized. Thus, the man who is the leader of the party controlling 107 members of the German Parliament (Reichstag) and who aspires to become the Mussolini of Germany himself is literally "a man without a country." THE ESTEY MANUFACTURING PLANT—This plant, 600 feet long and three stories high, and employing 200 men at the time it was in operation, had the distinction of being erected in the record time of 59¾ hours. On November 11, 1911, Owosso, Mich., was hit by a terrific cyclone and the Estey Company building was completely demolished in three seconds. THE BLUE BUG—The blue bug, or chicken tick, will live longer without food than with food for the reason that if it has plenty to eat it will gorge itself with blood and soon run through its life cycle. Adult blue bugs have been known to live about three years without food when confined to tight wooden boxes.

TOMORROW—THE LACONIC COMMANDER.

PITT GRIDDERS IN CHICAGO

By JESS CARVER,
Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—The Windy City was an unresponsive host to just another of the nation's football teams here today as the Pitt Panthers broke the tedium of their annual pilgrimage to Nebraska by dropping off here for a 12-hour stay.

Arriving in town early this morning, after an uneventful take-off from Pittsburgh, the Pitt squad was taxied to the Hotel Windemere for breakfast, a look at the lake and for some sophomores, of course, a peek here and there for one of Chicago's famed gunmen.

"Keep those ears of yours pinned back," some one cracked to Hoodie, or you'll get 'em shot fulla holes."

As Hoodie has been the recipient of the same crack for the past three years, the big fullback merely turned over and went back to sleep.

A workout is in prospect for Stagg Field this afternoon, where Jock Sutherland and his assistants will give the Pittites a lengthy session of signal work and will drill them against Nebraska formations.

OMAHA NEXT

The trip will be resumed this evening when the club will be bundled into its Pullmans and rolled along over the Burlington Route to Omaha, where we will spend tomorrow dashing hither and yon in the heart of the corn belt. By corn belt, I do not mean the sort that comes bottled.

If everything goes well, the Panthers enjoy an even chance of resuming their winning streak where it was so rudely interrupted by Notre Dame last week at the expense of the Cornhuskers. The Huskers are going to be tough, but they are not touted as being as strong as in years past and with the Panthers smarting under the sting of that walloping by the Irish in Pittsburgh, it looks to me as though the home boys will be in for a long and hard afternoon.

The various and sundry changes in the Pitt lineup, which were predicted following the tornado of last Sat'day, appear to have simmered down to a pair of shifts in the starting backfield. Jimmy Clark is in line to start off as fullback, and the dashing Mr. Bulldog Reider, of the New Castle Reiders, will be at the halfback spot usually decorated by Joshua Williams, the well-known farmer boy of Mars, Pa.

MAC MAY BE SHIFTED

Unless one of the regular linemen fall out of a berth or a bed between now and game time, you may expect Rip Collins and Jim MacMurdo back at the ends; Charley Tully and Jessica Quatse at the tackles, Ernie Lewis and Copper Milligan at the guards and Ralph Daugherty at center.

The weakness of the Pitt ends at Notre Dame was very, very apparent and very, very costly. Jim MacMurdo, as an end, looked like a swell tackle. He is a great tackle, too, and it looks as though

Brill, Irish Star, Eager to Shine Against Penn

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Notre Dame has a football game with Indiana Saturday, but it's not Saturday and Indiana Marty Brill, one of Knute Rockne's very best halfbacks, is thinking about. Marty's thoughts are 100 per cent on a week from Saturday and Notre Dame's engagement with Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

Brill is a Philadelphia boy, and he went to Pennsylvania for two years—without getting anywhere as a football player. Then he transferred to Notre Dame, where he has made considerable progress in football. Now he is waiting for the chance to show the boys in Philadelphia just how good a football player left Pennsylvania to go to Notre Dame.

GARDEN CARD COMPLETE

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor

The card was completed today for the Willie Davies-Archie Bell boxing show at Motor Square Garden next Monday night with the signing of Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, to box Nordi Smith, of Newark, O., in the six-round second bout. Smith, a Negro, defeated The Alabama Kid at Newark last night. The bout is at 152 pounds.

Willie Davies.

Jack Tracey and Jack Wilson, middleweights with a punch, will appear in the eight-round semi-final, and U. S. Carpentier and Tiger Joe Clark will box the six-round opener.

SEATS ELEVATED

The transforming of the Garden into an indoor bowl will be completed in time for Monday's show with the elevation of the final section of seats. Section A has been moved over to where Section D formerly was located and a new Section D has been built.

All of the seats at the Garden, including the $1 variety, now are reserved, with the exception of about 500 bleacher seats in the rear of Section C.

Davies worked out at the Homewood A. C. yesterday afternoon, but will finish up his training for the Bell bout at Charleroi, it was announced today.

Between Rounds

Gridder Breaks Back, Keeps It Secret

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Football drama that escaped the observation of 15,000 spectators at the Western Maryland-Loyola College football game in the Stadium last Saturday was revealed when Edward J. Duffy, tackle on the latter team, was admitted to Mercy Hospital suffering with a broken back.

Duffy received the injury on the opening play of the game, a kickoff by Western Maryland, but the 185-pound right tackle concealed his pain from his teammates, coach and team physician until the game was concluded. He then went to Dr. J. J. O'Connor, the team physician, and told him of the injury to his back.

Dr. O'Connor's first impression was that a muscular hurt had been sustained, but after the pain continued, an X-ray examination was ordered Tuesday at Mercy Hospital. According to Dr. O'Connor, this revealed a fracture trabverse process of the third lumbar vertebrae, and a body cast will be applied today.

Andre Routis, Leo (Kid) Roy, Sammy Finch and Joey Goodman, and also has boxed Earl Masiro. His manager is George Sheppard.

Motor Square Garden is at work on bouts for Battling Gizzy, Bucky Lawless, Buck McTiernan and Emmett Rocco and also plans to bring George Panka back in a main bout, despite his defeat by Rocco last Monday night. Gizzy's opponent may be Benny Bass, the junior-lightweight champion; Lawless will box King Tut, if the match can be closed; Rocco likely will be sent against Al Friedman and Panka may oppose K. O. Christner.

Joey Katkish, Lawrenceville featherweight, is in shape for battles and ready to box anyone his weight. Promoters may reach him by calling Fisk 2414.

Jack London has signed his Anastasio Vacquerio, the Panamanian, to box Joe Dragon, of Cincinnati, in the 10-round main bout at Wheeling next Monday night and Mose Butch to meet Tony Quinto in the six-round semi-final.

Jeff Burke, of Youngstown, a dramatic student at Carnegie Tech, and a cousin of Chilly Doyle, our baseball writer, will represent the Willow Club in the Western Pennsylvania amateur belt championship tournament at McKeesport beginning next week.

Strange as it may seem, there's a letter at this office for James (Red) Mason.

TECH TO REST UP FOR BIG N.Y.U. TILT

After two successive days of scrimmage, the Carnegie Tech football squad will stop the rough stuff this afternoon and coast through the remaining two workouts before the important game with New York University on Saturday at the Stadium.

Coach Waddell held a scrimmage on Tuesday that lasted more than an hour, and surprised his players by calling for another session of intra-squad battling yesterday. Waddell's excuse for the successive scrimmages was that the men had a week of comparative idleness before the Western Reserve game, and several of them did not appear at all in the Cleveland contest.

KAVEL MAY NOT START

It is not yet assured that Alex Ducanis, regular center, will be in shape to take up his accustomed duties. Ducanis and George Kavel, right halfback, were injured in the Notre Dame game and have taken only light workouts this week.

Kavel is not likely to start against the Violet, for he is still suffering considerably from his hurts.

Ducanis could play if it were absolutely necessary, but Red Jones, who performed at the center post against Western Reserve, played a steady game throughout, and has apparently overcome his passing weakness.

Jones and Ducanis have been alternating at the pivotal job this week, and it probably won't be definitely decided which one is to start until the day of the game. Slats Flanagan has been filling the right halfback position all week in both signal drills and scrimmage.

No choice has yet been made between Burzio and Sample for the right guard job, the two sophomores still battling for the place as they have done since fall training first started.

VIOLET LEAVES TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The New York University varsity football team held a workout yesterday afternoon in the rain on the Yankee Stadium field. The Violet outfit will hold its final drill in New York today and will depart for Pittsburgh at 7:40 this evening over the Pennsylvania Railroad.

It is expected that Coach Chick Meehan will bring 42 players. The N. Y. U. party will hold a workout at the Stadium tomorrow, and spend the night at the Chartiers Heights Country Club. The 80-piece student band and the special trains with the alumni and students will arrive Saturday morning.

F. & M. READY FOR GENEVA

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 30.—The Franklin and Marshall College football squad arrived here this afternoon for its first night game with Geneva College tomorrow night.

Twenty-four men compose the squad, which will practice under lights for the first time tonight.

Coach Poss Miller makes no predictions, but has been practicing against the freshman forward passers the past week, expecting an overhead game to be favored by Harpster's eleven.

The Possums are in good physical condition, and will strain every nerve to bring home the bacon, after the inconclusive 0-0 game with Muhlenberg last Saturday. Thus far, they have won two games, lost two and tied one.

Franklin and Marshall has a heavier backfield than Geneva, and Capt. Saltzman, Britton and Eman may do some line plunging, varying the deceptive attack. Horst probably will run the team.

This will be the first time F. & M. has played in Western Pennsylvania since its game with Carnegie Tech 21 years ago. Franklin and Marshall alumni in that section will be on hand to root for the Blue and White.

A special section has been reserved for F. & M. alumni at Reeves Field here, and all F. & M. grads and their friends who wish to be seated in this group only need ask for F. & M. section accommodations when buying tickets at the field.

Geneva Tri-State X-Country Champ

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 30.—Geneva's College cross-country team won the Tri-State Conference championship by defeating Westminster here, 25-30, yesterday afternoon. Smalley, of Westminster, was first; Douthitt, of Geneva, was second, and Hunter, of Geneva, third. The time was 30 minutes 16 seconds.

HOCKEY VET PREDICTS TITLE FOR JACKETS

LOCAL SQUAD TO BE LOOP'S HEFTIEST

By CARL W. SHATTO

"They are big and fast and they're likely to win the title," said Charles Reid of the combination of former Niagara Falls and Toronto skaters who are to represent Pittsburgh in the International Hockey League campaign, before leaving last night to join the local puckmen in Toronto.

Who's Reid? Well, last season he was manager of the Niagara Falls club in the International circuit. A month ago he was the man who was figured to lead the Niagara Falls club in the 1930-31 race. Two weeks ago, when the Niagara Falls franchise and player were purchased by Pitt Hockey Club, Inc., he was signed as trainer of the local skaters, and today he is the Pittsburgh Hockey Club coach.

Reid, who has played with and against some of the brightest stars in the ice firmament, naturally is well acquainted with his Niagara Falls stalwarts, and he has had an "eye full" of the Toronto puckmen, once his rivals, many times.

BIG BOYS TO GET CALL

The Yellow Jackets, Reid believes, will be made up largely of former Toronto skaters who startled the International loop with a 12-game winning streak late last season. Niagara Falls stars will be available to strengthen any weak spots, and the Pittsburgh team should be strong in all departments.

Although President Schooley will do the weeding out and make the final selection of players, Reid has a pretty good idea of the men who are likely to meet with his chief's approval. He predicts that big boys will get the call, and that the Jackets will be the heftiest squad in the circuit. One likely front line, he says, averages better than 175 pounds, and the defense men are big enough to both check and double check.

A long, brilliant career as a player and an intimate study of the game as a pilot qualify Reid to judge any club's possibilities, and local officials are prone to regard his prediction of a title for the Jackets as more than idle chatter. It was not until after the newcomer to Pittsburgh hockey had impressed Schooley with his knowledge of the game and its players that he was elevated to the role of coach.

STARTED IN WEST

Reid broke into hockey with the Edmonton (Alberta) club and for three seasons he was in the nets for this aggregation when it won its way to the final in the play for the Allan Cup, emblematic of the world amateur championship. He served as regular goalie for the Calgary Tigers, of the Pacific Coast Division of the National League, for six years, and in 1923 was bombarded by Les Canadians, of Montreal, in the Stanley Cup final. Later he played for Vancouver, in the Coast League, and when Detroit was admitted to the National League, he was signed as the Cougars' goal guardian. In 1928 and 1929 he was at goal for the Hamilton Tigers, and when a severe knee forced him to the sidelines he was signed as Niagara Falls pilot.

Tiny Thompson, the Boston Bruins' sensational goalie, was schooled by Reid when he was an understudy to the Jacket coach in the west. Reid regards Thompson as the best goalie in the game today.

The Jackets, held up by U. S. immigration officials, will report here as soon as the bars are lifted. Schooley was in communication with the office of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis late yesterday, and he expects to have his skaters admitted soon. Until the way is cleared, the Jackets will drill in Toronto, where they held their first workout yesterday. Reid went there to assist Teddy Oke, owner of the Toronto franchise, in directing the drills, and both will come here with the players.

CHARLES REID — ROY D. SCHOOLEY

Schooley, president of the local hockey club, indulged in a broad smile when Reid, manager of the Niagara Falls club last season, voiced the opinion that the Niagara Falls - Toronto combination which is to represent Pittsburgh in the International Hockey League's 1930-31 campaign will be a winner. Reid was signed as coach of the local skaters at a conference with Schooley.

A. A. REVIVES DRAFT FIGHT

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—The American Association has asked the minor leagues to appoint a committee to meet with it for a final conference on the draft controversy with the major leagues.

Representatives of the American Association met to consider the ultimatum of the major leagues, that unless the minors submit to the draft rule by December 1, relations between the circuits would be severed.

The invitation sent out by the American Association suggested that the meeting be held in Chicago or some other centrally located city within the next few weeks in an effort to arrive at an agreement with the majors.

GOVERNOR HITS AT BIG TEN

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Gov. Fred W. Green has issued a statement criticizing the Western Conference for its decision against moving the Notre Dame-Northwestern football game from Evanston to Soldier Field, Chicago. He renewed his former request that a Michigan-University of Detroit post-season game be played for the benefit of unemployed persons in Detroit.

The Governor said that if rules were permitted to stand in the way of the proposed game, it will be unfortunate for the unemployed, the sport, and the two institutions.

With reference to the Notre Dame-Northwestern ruling, Gov. Green elaborated on his formal statement to remark that he did not mean to infer that Michigan authorities had exerted pressure to bring about the ruling. "But if this ruling is permitted to stand, Michigan as a member of the Western Conference will suffer," he said.

Purple-Irish Game Looms as Sellout

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—The Notre Dame-Northwestern football game November 22, fast approaching the complexion of a mythical championship natural, already is a sellout.

Shepherd Calls Off Shippensburg Game

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—A football game scheduled for November 1, between the State Normal School at Shippensburg, Pa., and Shepherd College here, has been canceled because of the poor physical condition of the Shepherd players, resulting from innoculations against smallpox. The game was to have been played at Shippensburg.

The players were innoculated when several cases of smallpox were discovered two weeks ago. Shepherd's eleven met Potomac State at Keyser, W. Va., last Saturday and lost by a one-sided score. No practice was held Monday and only four regulars were able to report Wednesday because illness among the others.

The only other game on Shepherd's schedule is that against Gallaudet in Washington, November 8. College authorities said the engagement would be kept.

Miami Plans Own Heavyweight Show

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—If Bill Carey and the Madison Square Garden interests do not propose to put on a heavyweight shindig in Miami this winter, then Miami, with a sort of hankering for the big splurge attending all doings of the giants, intends to put on a show herself.

Frank J. Bruen, who has just resigned as the general manager of the Garden, was in communication with Ross Reeder, brother of Cliff Reeder, Miami's mayor, today, and Frank can run a heavyweight show if he wishes to. The Miami officials and businessmen had held a meeting and decided that Miami must not go heavyweightless in February or thereabouts.

Dates Announced For Cue Tourney

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Dates for the world championship pocket billiard tournament have been set for December 8 to 18, inclusive, at New York by the National Billiard Association.

The schedule calls for 28 games, one to be played the opening night, three daily for the next eight days, two games on the tenth day and one on the final night.

has been approached with a proposition to succeed Nibs Price as mentor at the University of California. This is only one of several reported attempts to get Hanley away from Northwestern. Last fall he was sought by Columbia, but said he preferred to remain with the university which had given him his first coaching opportunity in big-time football. When Dick first went to Northwestern from Haskell Institute, by the way, he asked for no contract, but only a chance to show what he could accomplish. The demand for his services, like Northwestern's improved record, indicates that he has accomplished a lot.

Dick Hanley

THE HANLEY FAMILY has become one of the most famous in football. Young Lee, now starring in the backfield for Northwestern and rated as one of the best two field generals in the Big Ten Conference, Harry Newman, of Michigan, being the other, is the fifth brother to shine on the gridiron.

One of Dick's assistants in coaching Northwestern is the second oldest brother, Pat. Both played for Washington State, Dick at quarterback and Pat at end. Dick was captain of the Washington State team that played in the Rose Bowl game of 1916. Myron, the third of the brothers, was a fine back and punter for University of Washington, and Hugh, the fourth, played at end for Washington State.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Tuss McLaughry, former Westminster College star and later coach and for some years now mentor of Brown University, is on record as saying that Albie Booth, of Yale, is the greatest halfback he ever has seen in action . . . Tuss never saw Red Grange play, but he can't conceive how the Illinois Ghost could have been any better than Albie, who can run, pass, kick and interfere and is the inspiration of the Blue . . . "I'd say Albie is 75 per cent of the Yale team," McLaughry said, after the Elis had beaten Brown this season. "When he's out of the lineup, Yale is just an ordinary team." . . . Tuss agrees with Knute Rockne that the proper way to tackle "runt" players like Booth is high, around the neck, in the approved Hube Wagner fashion.

Max Waxman, who piloted Joe Dundee to the welterweight title, now is gunning for the middleweigh crown with Vince Dundee, Joe's younger brother, and has succeeded in having the New Jersey State Athletic Commission name Vince as the outstanding contender for that title in the home commonwealth of Mickey Walker, holder of the bauble, who now is campaigning among the heavyweights . . . Brother Vince holds victories over Abie Bain, Pal Silvers, Bucky Lawless, Izzy Grove, Ben Jeby, Joey LaGrey, Young Ketchel, Billy Angelo, Alf Ros, Freddie Polo, My Sullivan and Baby Joe Gans, among others, and has been in Madison Square Garden, New York; Madison Square Garden, Boston; the Chicago Stadium and Coliseum; the Olympia Auditorium, in Los Angeles; the Arena, in Philadelphia; the American Legion Stadium, in Hollywood, and the Dreamland Park arena, in Newark, N. J., all big spots . . . And Ray Foutis, of East Liverpool, O., wants to know when he is going to get a real break with Ted Yarosz, his good young welterweight from Monaca, Pa., who has won 32 consecutive bouts and has beaten Tiger Joe Randall, Benny Burns and Jimmy Belmont in his last three starts, stopping Burns in four rounds.

It is estimated that a half-million gunners will be in the fields when the Pennsylvania shooting season opens Saturday and that no less than 8,000 of these will be women. . . . The Ambridge High School eleven's goal line remains uncrossed after six games and hopes are high for an undefeated season. . . . Arnold and Oliver High Schools, of Pittsburgh, are included among the victims so far and South High will be played Saturday. . . . Michigan still is getting by famously with its 38-year-old "Old 83" play, which is one of those old standbys like the Statue of Liberty play and the fake kick from placement. . . . It consists of a lineup in semi-punt formation. The quarterback takes the ball from center, fakes it to the right end, coming around behind the line, and then fakes it to the left halfback bucking through. He then feeds it to the back player, who swings wide to the right, with the defense sucked over to the left. Meanwhile the right halfback hits off tackle to further complicate matters. The success of the play lies in its deception and timing, as do all complicated plays. . . . By the way, what has become of the good, old-fashioned run from punt formation that Pitt employed so successfully in the days of Tom Davies?

* * *

With both Carnegie Tech and Pitt defeated this early in the season, by Notre Dame, anything they may do from now on will be anti-climax in nature, but that won't prevent the fans from jamming the Stadium to see them in action against each other one week from tomorrow. . . . Buck Crouse, former local middleweight boxing star, has taken a position as an investigator among the poor under the direction of Father James R. Cox, and is entering enthusiastically into the work. . . . Joe Fenton, one of the circulation supervisors of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, is the proud papa of a baby boy, born yesterday, which he says will be called Jumpin' Joe Savoldi, after the Notre Dame star. . . . Fenton is a friend of all of the baseball and football players who come to Forbes Field and the Stadium.—HARRY KECK.

LAYDEN MAY SHIFT JOE M'CARTHY

There seems to be more candidates for that vacant fullback berth of Kass Kovalcheck's at Duquesne University than there are in a primary election. It looks as if Layden is even going so far as to shift Joe McCarthy from quarterback and place Red Sullivan, Bud Devinney or Pat O'Toole in the regular signal-calling position.

Still another likely looking lad who is something of a dark horse in the fight for the line plunging honors is Joe Sepsi, of Brownsville, Pa. Joe probably will be found at the heretofore vacant position this afternoon when the Night Riders trot out on the Bluff practice grounds for another hard day. Elaborate preparations are under way for "the Dukes" thoroughly tough contest with North Dakota University under the Forbes Field lights on November 7.

It will be the first time that the North Dakota University team has played in Pittsburgh and the big Westerners will probably give local gridiron fans a treat in the line of pigskin art. Two North Central Conference championships have been won by the undefeated North Dakotaians in the last two years and they are apparently on their way to a third without having lost a game this year either. Their biggest claim to glory this season was in toppling the Senators of Davis and Elkins by the well-defined score of 16-0.

The Army is their next Eastern opponent on Saturday at West Point and the following Friday the Flickertails come here to battle with the Dukes. That is the reason for all the hurry, bustle and worry on the Duquesne campus.

Tad Jones on Air Tomorrow Night

Tad Jones, of Yale, a member of the football rules committee, will be interviewed by Christy Walsh on the Columbia-Wrigley Hour tomorrow night at 10:30 (Station WJAS). Jones and Walsh are members of the All-America Board of Football, along with Coaches Rockne, Alexander and Warner.

Members of the All-America Board of Football write exclusively for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

TOM ACCEPTS BOUT

NEW YORK, Oct. 30. — (INS.) — Joe Smith, manager of Tommy Loughran, announced yesterday he had accepted an offer for a 10-round bout between the Philadelphia fighter and Max Baer, sensational California heavyweight, at Madison Square Garden here on December 8.

FULL SCHOOL CARD SLATED FOR WEEK-END

CARRICK MEETS ALLEGHENY TODAY

GAME TODAY.
Section II.
Carrick vs. Allegheny, at Oliver Field.

GAMES TOMORROW.
Section I.
Schenley at Westinghouse.
Fifth at Allerdice.
Section II.
Perry at Oliver.

The week-end of scholastic football has its inception this afternoon as Carrick and Allegheny tie up in a Section II battle on the Oliver High Field. This game will start the scholastics off on a fine schedule, three league games being booked for tomorrow and a full card listed for the W. P. I. A. L.

Neither Carrick nor Allegheny are accounted title threats in their section, but are doped to give South Hills and Oliver, the leaders, trouble, and to finish among the upper crust. Their game today will be well worth seeing.

LAKERS PLAY SCHENLEY

Tomorrow, however, all eyes will be on Westinghouse High Stadium, as Westinghouse and Schenley, rivals of old and always in the thick of the fight for the sectional and league title, do battle. Schenley has rallied nobly since bowing to South in an early game, and with Joe Mihm fullbacking in old form, rules a strong favorite to retain the title it has held for the past three years.

Westinghouse, however, defeated South High in decisive fashion, which would indicate that the Silver Lakers have a strong combination. The eleven is certain to test Gross' machine tomorrow, and may spring an upset by serving the Bellefielders their second defeat of the season.

In other league frays tomorrow, Fifth meets Allerdice in Section I and Perry and Oliver in a North Side duel of importance in Section II.

LANGLEY-CRAFTON PLAY

The Langley-Crafton tussle tomorrow looms as a feature non-league affair. In another promising game, McKees Rocks fans will follow Miles Bryan High to Dormont. Swissvale furnishes the opposition for Scott High of North Braddock.

Saturday, the University School of Cleveland eleven puts in an appearance at Shady Side for a duel with Jimmy Robertson's Academy eleven. Peabody and Wilkinsburg have a battle carded that will be played before a whale of a crowd. South High travels down the Beaver Valley for a game with Moe Rubenstein's undefeated Ambridge High team, one of the strongest elevens in the W. P. I. A. L., and easily the best ever turned out in the Bridge town.

Jeannette will be host to Nate Lippe's Harding High warriors of Aliquippa, Beaver Falls faces a test in Butler, Braddock clashes with Norwin, Elwood City engages Monaca, Turtle Creek tackles Washington and Midland meets Freedom in other feature games in the tri-state district.

Testimony in Mara, Tunney Suit Heard

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(INS.)—Taking of testimony in the suit brought by Timothy J. Mara, sports promoter, to recover between $400,000 and $500,000 which he claims is due him from the earnings of James Joseph (Gene) Tunney, the boxer, will start today before Supreme Court Justice Hatting. Yesterday was occupied in obtaining a jury not opposed to prize fighting.

Mara contends that under a contract signed with Tunney, former world heavyweight champion, in 1926 he was to receive 10 per cent of the boxer's earnings from his bout with Jack Dempsey and 25 per cent of all subsequent earnings as champion. Tunney contends that the contract was not binding as it was stipulated that Mara was to arrange for the staging of the Tunney-Dempsey bout in New York, which, Tunney alleges, he failed to do.

McKeesport Police Defeat Firemen, 6-2

The McKeesport police department football team defeated the McKeesport Firemen last night in their annual game on the World War Memorial Field, McKeesport. The score was 6 to 2. The contest drew a crowd of more than 10,000, who enjoyed the contest played under flood lights.

The lineup:

Police—6.		Firemen—2.
O'Hara	L. E.	Berggulst
Rodkey	L. T.	Surgeon
Hough	L. G.	Donnelly
Krelling	C.	McDermott

Score by periods:

Police	0	6	0	0—6
Firemen	0	0	2	0—2

American-Owned Horse Wins Abroad

NEWMARKET, Eng., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—An American-owned horse, A. K. Macomber's Brumeux, won the Jockey Club Cup today.

Sir C. Hyde's Baytown was second by a length, 10 lengths ahead of J. B. Joel's Friendship.

Only three ran. The betting was 21-20, 9-4, 11-4.

AMATEURS BOX TONIGHT

Tom Hanson and Sam Clark, heavyweights, will box the main bout of an amateur show at Odd Fellows Hall, Turtle Creek, tonight, under the auspices of the Oakmont Boxing Club.

Coverdale at Bower Hill.
Mollinauer at Fintex Shannon
Horning at Gladden.

The biggest soccer list of the season faces followers of the sport this week-end. National amateur cup, West Penn cup and League games fill a well-balanced schedule.

Morgan at Gallatin, in the Amateur, is the real battle of the week-end, and one of the greatest crowds that ever watched soccer up the Monongahela should be at the field when the game starts.

On Saturday in the West Penn Cup, Union Switch and Signal hooks up with the Pittsburgh Rovers at Leslie field. In the same competition on Sunday, Dunlevy goes to Mather, and Herminie travels to Bridgeville.

Pierpoint Motors meet Curry at the latter's new field, and all of the players are hoping it does not rain. The new Curry field is very heavy, but a dry spell should show a fast game.

A full list of games will be staged in the Panhandle junior loop. Gladden will try to keep its slate clean by dusting off Horning, but it is going to be a tough assignment.

Ambridge Mystics

By TOM BIRKS.

Burns A. A., of New Kensington, staged another of its last minute thrills last evening, at Parnassus High School field, when Crilly caught a Halpate toss over the goal line for the only score of the game against the Ambridge Mystics and went into the leadership of the Western Pennsylvania Independent Gridiron Conference by one point.

Ambridge was outplayed throughout, and only scored one first down. Burns had nine, but these availed them little, with no ability to score when in position.

The fans had little to become enthused over in one of the deadest games of the conference season. Little life was injected into it and the players seemed to playing for time.

With one minute to go, Zaneski punted badly and gave Burns the ball on the Ambridge 16-yard line. Halpate, Crilly and Dunn were sent into the lineup, and on the second play, Halpate flashed the ball over the line of scrimmage to Crilly and the game was won.

The lineup:

Burns—6.		Ambridge—0.
Marcuzio	L. E.	Mundy
Leber	L. T.	Grebo
Meister	L. G.	Cain
Pendro	C.	McKeown
Magiano	R. G.	Smith
Graham	R. T.	Hannock
Barsino	R. E.	Goss
Hartman	Q.	Shelton
Dunn	L. H.	Jankski
Lutz	R. H.	Pickett
Sharkey	F.	Houk

Touchdowns—Crilly. Referee—Cavanaugh. Umpire—Roll. Linesman—Snyder.

Suds will find three big battles scheduled locally. Two games will be staged in the Conference, Burns will meet the Majestics in the feature battle of the day at the Bridgeville Speedway, and the East Pittsburgh club, fresh from its victory over West View, will tackle the Ambridge Mystics at the Fair Oaks Stadium.

At West View Park, a newcomer into local sandolt football will be seen, with the Wierton Merchants meeting the Muzzio aggregation. The West Virginia team copped in the conference in that neck of the woods and is rated as one of the finest combinations operating around Wheeling.

Muzzio does not want to keep his team idle with the Majestic game looming. The Majestics will have to be met twice in the near future, and these bitter rivals must meet at West View and Beaver Falls.

The Beaver Falls game will be staged Armistice Day night and Howard Harpster, former Carnegie Tech and all-America quarterback, will referee.

Air Mickey Walker's Domestic Battles

JERSEY CITY, Oct. 30.—(INS.)—Further airing of the domestic troubles of Mickey Walker, middleweight boxing champion of the world, was scheduled here today before James F. Minturn, advisory master in chancery, who is hearing Mrs. Walker's suit for divorce.

Mrs. Walker testified yesterday that the boxer broke her nose and gave her a check for $25,000, but later demanded it back at the point of a revolver. Mrs. Walker was served with an order restraining her from disposing of $180,000 in cash and securities, which her husband contends he turned over to her in 1928. The order is returnable November 10.

Carrick Booters Beat Shady Side

The Carrick High School soccer team defeated Shady Side Academy, 3-0, and Heidelberg and Bridgeville battled to a 2-2 deadlock yesterday.

DUBUQUE CLUB SOLD

MOLINE, Ill., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Announcement was made at the opening of the Mississippi Valley League annual meeting yesterday that the Dubuque club has been sold to Preston Gray, former Rock Island (Ill.) manager. Fred Laer, former owner, refused to reveal the sale price. Gray would own and operate the club, he said.

Trinity Cathedral Opens Cage Season

The basketball lid was lifted at Trinity Cathedral, Sixth avenue, last night with three intramural games following a dinner attended by about 80 boys who participate in the court game at that church.

The Cathedral team, which may be in the Institutional League this season, defeated the Royals, 32 to 22, in the big game of the night; the Royals' Reserves bumped the Triads, 22 to 8, and the Tritons toppled the Trimmers, 14 to 0.

PIRATES-CARDS DEAL IS DENIED

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Pirate officials today denied that the Pittsburgh Club had a deal on with the St. Louis Cardinals, involving Outfielder Paul Waner of the home team and Catcher Jimmy Wilson and outfielder Chick Hafey, of the National League champions.

The Buccaneer directors are very anxious to swing a deal that would bring a high-grade catcher to the Pirates and to put through such a transaction they doubtless would go far. Wilson is one of the best catchers in the game and his presence in a Pittsburgh uniform would be a big boon to the local club.

The form shown by Catcher Gus Mancuso while the Cardinals rode down the home stretch of the National League won him heavy prestige in St. Louis and it was reported that the Redbird officials would be willing to trade Wilson provided it could acquire a ranking star of the game, like P. Waner.

Only recently the Pittsburgh officials conferred with the Cincinnati owners and it is likely that an effort was made to land a catcher.

Owner Barney Dreyfuss today received a letter from Pitcher Ervin Brame which disclosed that the big star of the mound and home run hitter had recently undergone an operation for removal of his tonsils. Charley Wood and Andy Bednar also went through this operation since the season closed, while Dick Bartell underwent an operation for removal of his appendix.

Yale Loses Two Ends For Dartmouth Game

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Yale will be missing two regular ends when it faces Dartmouth Saturday. Lindenberg has been out since the Georgia game with a wrenched ankle and yesterday it was learned that Barres had an infected leg which would keep him from playing.

Fight Results

SHADY SIDE BUSY

The Shady Side Academy soccer and football teams will meet the University School of Cleveland at Shady Side this Saturday. The soccer game will be staged in the morning and the football game in the afternoon.

Ultra Violet Sun Baths

Every man likes to feel that there lies within his sinews strength to defend, to protect and, if necessary, to attack; and that he possesses abundant power to plan and execute those great intellectual and spiritual projects to which his life may be dedicated. It is the province of the Natatorium to devise ways and means for developing and preserving this power and by so doing they will contribute materially to the success of many. Progress has been made along these lines. One of the greatest advances yet made—a dominant factor in this program of keeping men and women physically fit for any struggle—is the ULTRA VIOLET SUN BATH.

CHRONIC NERVE, BLOOD AND SKIN DISEASES TREATED BY MODERN METHODS
Why Suffer and Delay When Health Is at Stake?

Come today for examination and have your case explained to you—Laboratory Tests, Blood pressure taken, Blood tested when necessary, I aim to discover the cause and remove it by scientific methods.

My methods are modern and very thorough. Electricity is used in many forms, also medicine internally and by injections.

For more than thirty years I have treated successfully Chronic and Acute Stomach Troubles, Rheumatism, Nervous Disorders, Skin Diseases, Lame Back, Ulcers, Bladder and Kidney Troubles, Swollen Glands; also Constipation, and if you have some trouble you do not understand, come to me for a plain talk today. Satisfactory terms arranged.

Mistakes and broken laws of Nature involve an awful penalty. TOXIC POISONS are robbing thousands of the full energy and strength rightfully theirs.

Low Cost per Mile IS WHAT COUNTS

MY FIFTY YEARS IN BASEBALL

By CONNIE MACK,
Manager, World Champion Philadelphia Athletics

INSTALLMENT NO. 46.

Joe Boley was not the only new face on the Athletics team when we started the 1927 season. We electrified the baseball world by signing Ty Cobb and Eddie Collins.

Collins had resigned the previous fall as manager of the White Sox and he came back to the team where he had started in 1906 and finished in 1915.

Connie Mack.

I was glad to get him back in my organization, because I always thought him to be one of the smartest players that I ever knew. While I was not sure whether he still could play second base as he had, I felt that as captain of the Athletics he would be a big help to me in coaching players.

Cobb had mysteriously resigned as manager of the Detroit club at the end of the season of 1926. It later developed that some charges had been made against him by a disgruntled player.

In due time they broke out on the sport pages and there was some short-lived scandal in baseball until Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, probed the charges in his usual thorough manner and pronounced them foolish.

So he completely exonerated Ty and also Tris Speaker, who had resigned from the Cleveland club at the same time Cobb relinquished the Detroit management.

Moreover, Judge Landis declared both stars free agents, which made them eligible to accept any offer tendered them.

CONNIE SIGNS TY COBB

My signing Cobb, who in his 22 years with Detroit, had performed so many dazzling feats that stamped him as the outstanding player of baseball, caused fans all over the country to buzz.

All wondered what Ty could do playing at the age of 41. In his last season in Detroit he had hit .339 and the previous year he had turned in an average of .378.

Well, I was willing to take a chance on him, and felt that, relieved of managerial worry, he would come back as a devastating hitter.

Nearly every club in the two leagues sought his services. I went into consultation with the Brothers Shibe, my partners, and we decided to make a try for Tyrus.

TY DEFERS ISSUE

Ty had considerabgle business to transact and was constantly jumping in and out of the car in the business district of Augusta and there was no chance for anything except casual conversation.

He finally drove me to my hotel and our first talk was up in my room.

"Ty, I want you to play with the Athletics," I said to him point blank. Then I added my terms.

The Peach thought a minute and said:

"I do not feel justified in doing business just now. I am coming north and will consider your offer after my arrival in Philadelphia."

As I went to Augusta expressly to sign Ty, and feeling I might lose him, I did not want to come away without my mission being fulfilled.

REJECTS BLANK CONTRACT

So I pulled a contract out of my pocket and handed it to him.

"That contract is blank," I said. "You write in your own figures."

The Dixie Daredevil was plainly astonished at my unusual proposal and for once he was lost for words. Finally he found himself, and, looking me straight in the eyes, he said:

"Mr. Mack, that's very decent of you, but it's something that I would never do."

Then he handed the contract back to me.

It finally was agreed that we would let the matter drop for the time being. Both of us were going to take the afternoon train north the next day, Cobb being bound for New York and I for Philadelphia.

I felt that I would have plenty of chance to talk with him on the train and I didn't lose hope that I might produce his signature on a contract when I next met my partners.

PITT GRIDDERS IN CHICAGO

he is being sacrificed at the wing position. It may develop that Eddie Hirshberg will get a chance at one of the terminals and MacMurdo either benched or returned to his spot at right tackle, with Quatse shifting either to Tully's post on the other side of the line or to the splinters as a reservist.

Despite the fact that the Panther was duly crushed last week and that Oklahoma knocked off Nebraska right at the start, Saturday's ball game is listed for a sell-out and will be played before one of those enthusiastic Cornhusker crowds of better than 40,000. Which means about that many bucks in the Pitt coffers.

Just before the team entrained last night, Der Maxie Hannum, who, until he enlisted under the colors of Carnegie Tech as a publicity purveyor, used to make this same trip, and Josh Williams, met up. This pair have passed many a niftick back and forth in the past.

"Howdy, Josh," said Maxie, "what I want to know is how did the game last Sat'day look from back on the secondary defense, if any?"

"Swell," Maxie, swell," replied Josh, as he playfully pulled Maxie's hat down over his eyes.

Other children programs will include Cornelia Ecke on hiking through Glacier Park, Andrew Lester on animals and Arthur W. Henn on fish.

FREED TO SHARE $2,000,000

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—A pardon which clears the way for a young South American to return to Venezuela to collect his share of an estate estimated at $2,000,000 has been granted by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson.

The recipient, Louis Vargas, had been in this country only a short time when he was arrested in connection with a holdup and sentenced to from one to ten years. After serving three years and eleven months at Joliet he was paroled, went into business in Chicago and was married.

Last month he received word that his father had died. An immigration law forbids ex-convicts from returning to the United States, so Vargas appealed to the parole board and the governor.

Not A Cheap Help But Safest For Deep Coughs

Creomulsion is not the cheapest help for coughs from colds. It is made to do the utmost, whatever the condition. It combines in one prescription seven of the world's best helps.

It is made to particularly for coughs from colds which hang on. There is where one dare not risk a help of lesser value. But is it wise in any cough to trust a less effective help?

Creosote is in it, blended, emulsified and tasty. In an ideal way it presents the supreme help for soothing membranes and combatting cold germs.

But there are also white pine tar, wild cherry bark, menthol, ipecac, etc. Each is best for some coughs. Here we combine all major helps to fight coughs to the limit from the start.

Because of this expensive combination, Creomulsion costs a little more than lesser helps. The price is $1.25, but your druggist guarantees it. He returns your money if you ask for it.

A three-day cough is a danger signal. There you must use Creomulsion to be sure. But is it wise to trust any cough to lesser help when the utmost is at your command? You never know where a cough may lead. Treat it with the best men know.

CAMERON, Tex., Oct. 30.—(AP.)—A Texas storekeeper opened fire on two officers investigating the theft of merchandise from a railroad and during the melee which followed three men lost their lives and a fourth was wounded.

R. B. Brady, the storekeeper, took his own life with a shotgun after slaying J. E. Donman, Temple, Tex., a Santa Fe detective, and Guy Pope, a deputy sheriff. Ray Robinson, deputy city marshal, was wounded in the hand.

Robinson said the merchant greeted the officers with rifle fire when they dismounted from an automobile in front of the store. Brady then killed himself with the approach of Gene Smith, city marshal.

Stocks Again Slip

MARKET SINKS IN LANGUID SESSION

Wall Street Inclined to Restrain Bearishness; Little Stock Offered

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—Share prices again sank lower in a languid stock market today, as Wall street was inclined to restrained bearishness.

Little stock was offered for sale, but after the meager success on the bull side earlier in the week, traders were willing to turn bearish on almost any pretext. An abrupt decline in some of the beverage stocks was attributed by financial news tickers to the belief that they would be adversely influenced should the campaign for the return of legalized beer prove successful.

Coca Cola was an outstanding soft spot, dropping 13 points, and Canada Dry and White Rock were also carried lower. It was pointed out in brokerage circles that Coca Cola had not declined proportionately with the rest of the list, and had thus been left in a vulnerable position. Eastman Kodak was again under pressure, losing more than 6. National Biscuit, Atchison, American Telephone and American and Foreign Power lost 3 or more, while issues declining 2 or more included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, International Harvester and Union Carbide. Some of the independent steels, including Crucible, Ludlum and Newton, reached new lows, as did United Aircraft, Gillette and Checker Cab. Radio sagged to its previous low at 20.

TRADERS CONFUSED

There was little in the day's news to influence the market, which seemed to be largely governed by widespread discouragement over its inability to rise for more than two successive days. The small volume of general liquidation, nevertheless, had convinced many traders that the market was thoroughly sold out, and its failure to make a sharp technical rebound has caused some confusion in the minds of traders who expect it to follow its well-known patterns. Bearishness was decidedly not aggressive. Some of the large operators recently active on the short side did not participate in the selling.

Such news as appeared, however, was none too cheerful. Weakness of the smaller steel company shares was attributable to September quarter earnings statements by Newton and Otis, showing small deficits for the period. Reduction in the quarterly dividends of Packard Motor and International Silver and omission of the Franklin preferred payment were items in the news which had been generally expected, although they served to intensify the gloom in speculative quarters.

BUILDING SAGS

The building statistics for the week ended October 24 showed a decline in volume of all classes, although residential building held up fairly well. F. W. Dodge reported total contracts of $59,724,400 for the 37 states east of the Rockies, against $83,882,900 in the previous week.

Call money was offered in the outside market as low as 1 per cent, and the demand was negligible. The official rate, however, remained pegged at 2, presumably on the theory that a lower figure would cause withdrawals from out of town.

September Motor Registrations Drop

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—New passenger car registrations in the United States during September totaled 175,236 units, a decrease of 14 per cent from August and 42.4 per cent less than year ago. For the first nine months registrations totaled 2,286,640 cars, a decline of 30 per cent from the total in the 1929 period. Ford accounted for 37.4 per cent of all cars titled in September against 38 per cent in August and 36.9 per cent year ago. Chevrolet registrations were 22.2 per cent of the aggregate against 23 per cent in August and 20 per cent a year ago.

World Production Of Lead Declines

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—World lead production amounted to 148,506 short tons in September, against 155,364 in August and 151,356 in July, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics.

Gold Mobilization Planned by Spain

MADRID, Oct. 30.—In an interview the Spanish finance minister confirmed the report that mobilization of gold by the bank of Spain will soon begin with the placing of 1,000,000 pounds gold abroad and 1,000,000 pounds with the Spanish treasury.

New York Borrows 'Cheapest' Money

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Chase National Bank has completed negotiations for a loan of $4,000,000 to the state of New York for four months at 2 per cent, the lowest rate at which the state has ever borrowed money.

Should Steel Board Exhibit More Faith?

By B. C. FORBES

THE FINANCIAL and industrial giants forming the United States Steel Corporation board of directors missed an ideal opportunity to back up lip-optimism so recently voiced by industry's foremost leaders.

The full year's dividend having been more than earned in the first nine months. It would have been business statesmanship to declare the same extra dividend, one per cent, as was declared a year ago.

Mr. Forbes

If Myron C. Taylor and James A. Farrell, heads of the corporation, feel as confident about the future as the public has been led to believe they feel, it is not easily understood why they should have refrained from demonstrating that faith by having the corporation declare the widely-expected extra disbursement—especially as the corporation has received a tax refund windfall of almost $60,000,000 from the government.

On one memorable occasion, the Bank of England astounded American bankers by digging deeply into its reserves to meet an acute emergency. The reply of the staid, well-seasoned governors of that venerable institution was, "Of what use are reserves if they cannot be employed when needed to meet emergencies?"

A good many directors of American corporations should ponder that morsel of wisdom at this time. Instead of niggardly divided action, corporations having needlessly fat surpluses should declare extra Christmas or New Year dividends this season.

Will the Steel Corporation directors please consider taking such action at their next meeting? To revive confidence the nation needs, not an endless outpouring of oral sunshine, but action — deeds — reflecting the restoration of faith at the top.

BERNARD M. BARUCH, recognized as one of the ablest students of economics in America, and who has been able to apply his knowledge so effectively that he has amassed a large fortune through far-seeing investing, has no patience with the prevailing gloom concerning this country's outlook.

Past experience has proved that whenever basic commodities sink substantially below cost of production decreases, consumption increases, and price equilibrium is restored. This curative process is now in progress. Securities have been so hammered down that it would be utterly impossible to duplicate many American organizations for anything like the total represented today by the market value of their securities. There are instances of important enterprises whose securities are actually selling at less than their quick assets, thus ignoring the value of all the years of study entering into the building-up of the business, all the good-will earned, all the manufacturing and selling experience accumulated, all the intangible but very real assets of teamwork, organization, loyalty, etc., painstakingly evolved.

In a talk with the writer yesterday, Mr. Baruch coined this apt epigram, "You can't have a panic when everybody is pessimistic." Wall Street's pessimists are hereby commended to digest that overlooked truth.

Mr. Baruch wishes he were a much younger man, for he sees greater opportunities at this moment than have ever before been available in his long career. The time has come to look forward, not backward.

SUGGESTIONS APLENTY flow in. N. D. Muller, Pittsburgh, wires:

"To help the momentum of business recovery would it not be in order to suggest to the banks that Christmas savings funds be mailed earlier than usual?"

Albert L. Marino, New York, quotes a young lady as bewailing the fact that she cannot do Christmas shopping now, when things are so cheap, because her $250 Christmas Club money will not be received until the club expires. He adds:

"A great deal of buying could be encouraged, harming no one and benefiting all, if Christmas Club members were allowed to draw out funds now."

Just as optimists over-played their hands a year ago, pessimists are over-playing their hands now. Foresight is an essential ingredient of success.

TRADE FUTURE DECIDED BY TEST TUBE

Unsung Steinmetzes Play Keyroles in Finding New Business Stimuli

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—To a greater extent than popularly realized, the business future of this country is currently being determined in the laboratories.

Unsung Steinmetzes, faithfully working over test tubes, are playing key roles in contributing to the standard of living of the future. With its vast potential resources, the country is waiting at the door-steps of inventive minds, who will bring forth new products and novel services, which will either intrigue or serve the human race. The post-war decade of prosperity was stimulated by the rush of new activities; the movement of population into better type homes in the suburbs, the popularization of the automobile, the radio and household electrical apparatus.

Mr. Rukeyser

Recognizing the importance of these newer stimuli, in bringing the country up to prosperity after the depression of 1921, Julius Rosenwald, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co., observed:

"Heavy immigration, an enormous market for automobiles and a gigantic road-building program hastened the recovery of prosperity then. Today, while many millions of automobiles will be made and sold in America, the market is not what it was 10 years ago. Immigration has been rigidly restricted and the same road building program is not in sight."

STIMULI IN SIGHT

What new stimuli are ahead?

For the long pull, the bull is the one who believes that new and unthought-of products will emerge from the laboratories, whereas the bear is he who thinks that human ingenuity has reached the saturation point.

There are of course new stimuli in sight, running all the way from the trivial to the more lasting permanent improvements, including miniature indoor and outdoor golf courses, new and revolutionary methods of quick freezing of foodstuffs, the development of natural gas and the consequent heavy laying of pipe lines, further significant advances in chemical research, in television, in air transportation and also the increasing tendency to seek through scientific research to improve the older and better established products of civilization.

Even Mr. Rosenwald, who thinks recovery will be slower than in 1921, is confident of the future. In a recent statement in New Orleans, the philanthropist said:

"I know that business recovery will come. The United States is sound fundamentally. I know that America will return to sanity. Today is a day of really great opportunities. There are young merchants operating in America today on slim capital who will make anything I have done seem small."

BRAINS NEEDED

America again needs daring, pioneering, inventive brains. It needs sound promoters, not merely wealthy men who can hang on to what they have. Incidentally, Mr. Rosenwald, the multimillionaire, debunked the mind of the millionaire, holding:

"I never could understand the popular belief that because a man makes a lot of money he has a lot of brains. Some very rich men who made their own fortunes have been among the stupidest men I have ever met in my life.

"Rich men are not smart because they got rich. They didn't get rich because they are smart. Remember, always that many poor men are smarter than the richest men in the world. Don't ever confuse wealth with brains. They are synonymous sometimes, but none too often."

Perhaps it might be argued that Mr. Rosenwald's weath does not make him an authority on the intelligence quota of millionaires. In passing, it should be said that wealth never made Mr. Rosenwald callous to the needs and hopes of his fellowmen. To a rare degree, he combines a big heart with a fine mind.

Van Sweringens Close Option On C. & E. I.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The Van Sweringens, of Cleveland, have exercised their option to purchase a controlling interest in the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad from the estate of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, according to the New York Herald Tribune.

The option was obtained last March. Details concerning the amount for which the stock changed hands were unavailable.

The Herald Tribune says the Chicago & East Illinois will be used as a connection between the St. Louis terminus of the Missouri Pacific & Chicago and the proposed Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate Terminal in Chicago.

Dismiss Complaint On Furniture Rates

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Examiners of the Interstate Commerce Commission have recommended that the complaint of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, charging that present packing rules governing the transportation of upholstered furniture, in carloads, to various sections of the country are unreasonable, be dismissed.

They said the railroads' refusal to provide a new rule for packing, stowing and bracing upholstered furniture, such as davenports and chairs, should be found justified.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that Ordinance, Bill No. 2048, as the same was introduced in the Council of the City of Pittsburgh, October 27, 1930, amending an Ordinance entitled:

"An Ordinance regulating and restricting the location of trades and industries and establishing the location of buildings designed for specified uses and regulating and limiting the height and bulk of buildings hereafter erected or altered, and regulating the area of yards, courts and other open spaces in connection with buildings hereafter erected or altered, and establishing the boundaries of districts for the said purposes; conferring certain powers upon the Superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection; providing for a Board of Appeals, and imposing penalties," approved August 9, 1923, by changing the Zone Map, Sheet Z-0-E30, so as to change from a "B" Residence Use District to a Commercial Use District all that certain property at the northeast corner of Shady avenue and Forbes street, having a frontage of 141.06 feet on Shady avenue and 80.06 feet on Forbes street.

And this public hearing will be held by the Council of the City of Pittsburgh to consider said Ordinance at the Council chamber, fifth floor, City-County Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., at 2:00 p. m. on Wednesday, November 12, 1930.

ROBT. CLARK, City Clerk.

NO. 499

AN ORDINANCE—Granting unto John Ruhl the right to construct, maintain and use four special cast iron pole street lighting standards on the sidewalk at the curb line of Murray avenue in front of building of John Ruhl, situated at the northeast corner of Murray avenue and Bartlett street, for the purpose of flood lighting the building of John Ruhl, No. 1831 Murray avenue, situated in the Fourteenth Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the right and position of the northerly sidewalk of John Ruhl, its successors and assigns, be and are hereby given the right and authority at his own cost, risk and expense, to construct, maintain and use four special cast iron pole street lighting standards on the sidewalk at the curb line of Murray avenue in front of the building of John Ruhl, being situated at the northeast corner of Murray avenue and Bartlett street for the purpose of flood lighting the front of the building of John Ruhl, 1831 Murray avenue, situated in the Fourteenth Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa.

THE SAID special cast iron pole street lighting standards to be constructed in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance and in accordance with the plan hereto attached and identified as Accession Number 365, Folder B in the files of the Division of Public Utilities, Bureau of Highways and Sewers, Department of Public Works, entitled "Special Cast Iron Pole Street Lighting Standards for flood lighting the building of John Ruhl, No. 1831 Murray avenue, Fourteenth Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa."

SECTION 2. The said John Ruhl, prior to the beginning of the construction of the said four special cast iron pole street lighting standards, shall submit to the Director of the Department of Public Works of the said City, a complete set of plans in triplicate, showing location and all details of the construction of said four special cast iron pole street lighting standards for flood lighting the front of the building of said John Ruhl, and said plans of the proposed construction shall be subject to the approval and supervision of the said Director.

SECTION 3. The right and privileges herein granted shall be subject and subordinate to the rights of the City of Pittsburgh, and its powers over City Streets and to the ordinances of the City of Pittsburgh regulating thereto, and to the provisions of all ordinances which may hereafter be passed relating to the construction, maintenance and use of pole street lighting standards and providing penalties for violations thereof.

SECTION 4. The said grantee shall bear the entire cost and expense of the repairing of the said pavement and sidewalk of the said Murray avenue and Bartlett street, made necessary or occasioned by the construction, maintenance and use of the said special cast iron pole lighting standards, and shall restore the said pavement and sidewalk to as good condition as before the same were disturbed, and shall indemnify and save harmless the City of Pittsburgh from all loss, damage or expense which may be occasioned by the said work of construction, maintenance and use, and shall, whenever any cut is made in the said pavement or sidewalk for the purpose of repairing any part of the said special cast iron pole lighting standards, immediately refill the same and restore the pavement and sidewalk to a condition as good as before the said cut was made, and in default of any or all of the conditions of this section, the said grantee, its successors and assigns, shall forfeit all rights and privileges granted by this ordinance, and in the event of the failure of the said grantee, its successors and assigns, to comply with the conditions of this section, the Director of the Department of Public Works shall have the right to remove the said special cast iron pole lighting standards, and restore the said pavement and sidewalk to a condition as good as before the same were disturbed, and the cost and expense of the same shall be paid by the said grantee, its successors and assigns, and in default of payment thereof, the same may be collected by suit in assumpsit or otherwise, in the name of the City of Pittsburgh, for the use of the City of Pittsburgh.

SECTION 5. That for the purpose of this Ordinance, an article of food shall be deemed to be adulterated, if it has been rendered injurious to the public health as declared by the Food Law of the State of Pennsylvania, and amendments thereto, and/or to the United States Food and Drugs Act of June 30, 1906, and amendments thereto, and/or to the requirements of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the State of Pennsylvania, and/or to the requirements of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture.

SECTION 6. That for the purpose of this Ordinance, an article of food shall be deemed misbranded, if it does not comply with the requirements as laid down in the General Food Law of the State of Pennsylvania, and amendments thereto, and/or to the United States Food and Drugs Act of June 30, 1906, and amendments thereto, and/or to the requirements of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the State of Pennsylvania, and/or to the requirements of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture.

SECTION 7. The Director of the Department of Public Health, shall be and he is hereby empowered to make such rules and regulations as shall be necessary for the proper enforcement of this Ordinance, together with such additional rules and regulations as may be necessary from time to time for the protection of the public health, and for the prevention, abatement and suppression of nuisances in connection with the handling of food and food products.

SECTION 8. The Superintendent of the Bureau of Food Inspection of the Department of Public Health of the City of Pittsburgh, or his agents, shall have the right to enter, in the performance of their duties, at all reasonable hours, all premises occupied for the purpose of selling, preparing, storing and exposed for sale, offered for sale or possessed with intent to sell, and any person who shall, after proper identification of such person or persons, engaged in the performance of his or their duties, be refused admission to premises, or who shall hinder or obstruct him in the performance of his or their duties shall be liable to the penalties provided in the 7th Section hereof.

SECTION 9. Any persons violating any of the prohibitions or requirements of this Ordinance, shall upon conviction before any police magistrate or alderman of the City of Pittsburgh, be subject to the payment of a penalty not exceeding One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars for each and every violation thereof, and in default of payment of same shall undergo an imprisonment in the Allegheny County Jail or Workhouse of not more than thirty (30) days.

SECTION 10. It shall be the duty of the Superintendent of the Bureau of Food Inspection of the Department of Public Health of the City of Pittsburgh, or his agents, to enforce the provisions of this Ordinance.

SECTION 11. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

Passed in Council October 20, 1930.

DAILY TRUE STORY

New Version

"She's proud," Thelma Sawyer said.

"And on what?" Mrs. Connors asked.

"Nothing—not a thing in the world. You've heard the expression, 'All is lost save honor.' Well, with poor Mrs. Larkin, all is lost save pride."

"She never did have much," Mrs. Connors added.

"Now, I really wouldn't say that," put in Lucy Goodwin.

Thelma Sawyer and Mrs. Connors exchanged amused glances. Lucy Goodwin was a sort of joke to them, because she seemed to be a mild-mannered, meek little thing who taught in the district school and boarded with her aunt, the minister's wife.

"Lucy's pretty enough," the envious young women of Gordon's Cove would say, "but she'll never amount to anything—just a meek, insipid little thing who will grow into a vinegary old maid school teacher."

"Why wouldn't you say that poor old Mrs. Larkin had lost everything except her silly pride?" Mrs. Connors demanded, cruelly.

"Because she hasn't lost her kindness of heart, her sunny disposition, her faith in God," Lucy answered.

"I can't see it. There's that son of hers—Will. He hasn't amounted to a thing—went off to the city and I suppose he's in the bread line by now—he never sent his mother a cent," Mrs. Connors asserted.

Lucy Has Plan

"Oh, fiddlesticks, Lucy. You know darn well we are right. We've all been brought up here together, we know all about each other. You never pretended to be anything other than a poor girl, glad to get the chance to teach the village brats. And we all know that you used to be awfully sweet on Will Larkin," Thelma said, briskly. "No need to get sore or beat about the bush. When he went away it sort of left you high and dry, didn't it, now?"

"That's just it, Lucy, you haven't changed any—you didn't have the chance to change from Lucy Goodwin to Lucy Larkin. I say Mrs. Larkin has no right to be proud. She's poorer than a church mouse and she's got to go to an old lady's home or something—the bank's going to take her house away from her."

"I hope not. I had an idea we could all help her. My uncle, the minister, doesn't make much, but he is willing to put in $100. I've got $700 I am going to put in, and it seems as though the rest of you good folks here could make up the other $200."

"What do you mean?" Mrs. Connors demanded.

"Why, pay up the back interest on the mortgage and the interest for the next two years. By that time something will happen. Will may make good—and anyway, dear old Mrs. Larkin won't be turned out."

To Buy Mansion

"We give up $200? Where would we get it back?"

"Cast your bread upon the waters," Lucy reminded Mrs. Connors.

"I'm not responsible for others," Thelma said, crossly.

"And furthermore, Lucy, I'll tell you something I haven't told a soul before. I'm planning to buy the old Boyd mansion and have it fixed up for a home, so I can't spare any charity."

"That would be lovely, Thelma. The Boyd place is wonderful, the most handsome mansion in these parts, and the 10 acres of grounds, the grove and artificial lake — why, with a few thousand put in it, it will make a marvelous place and be worth a fortune," Lucy cried.

"I don't think she will be thrown out of her home," Lucy insisted.

"You read too much trash," Mrs. Connors said. "I suppose you expect that good-for-nothing son of hers to come galloping home just as the auctioneer is selling the place, pay off the mortgage and save his mother and the old home?"

"Why, no, I wasn't expecting anything as drastic as that, but there are new versions."

"Other nice things could happen."

"Well, some of the people here will help out—even if you won't. If I can put in $700 you can afford 20 times that, and all you need is to put in $50 or $100 and others will help us make it up."

"You have your version of the old yarn about the prodigal son rushing up at the eleventh hour—what will happen?"

"I don't know," Lucy said, "but I haven't lost faith."

Lucy went on to the bank to have a talk about the situation. Mr. Graves at the bank seemed interested.

"You go and see who wants to chip in a little, Miss Goodwin," he said. "I'll add fifty. Let me know what the others say. I really can't carry Mrs. Larkin any longer, for if I did I would have to carry others who are on the verge of losing their homes. Tell me what everyone says."

Lucy told him what Thelma and Mrs. Connors said.

Meanwhile Mrs. Larkin went serenely her quiet way.

At the community club meeting there was quite a lot of talk about poor Mrs. Larkin. Some said she had no right to be so proud all the time. Others defended her and said her pride wasn't the sort that made her snobbish, it hurt no one and she never gossiped.

"When I buy the big old Boyd mansion and have it all fixed up, we'll have our Community Club meetings in my big drawing room," Thelma promised.

A little later workmen flocked over the grounds and house of the big Boyd place. The house with its Southern colonial pillars was painted and refinished inside. Great vans of new furniture arrived.

Landscape gardeners made the grounds beautiful, trimming old shrubs, putting in new, making lovely walks and graded lawns.

Auction Sale

"Well, Thelma," Mrs. Connors said, "you are certainly going to have a handsome place there."

Thelma nodded sourly. Mrs. Connors stared at her.

"You needn't go to getting snobbish and snooty already," she said.

Thelma hurried away without a word.

Mr. Graves, at the bank, notified Lucy and the others who had advanced money to save Mrs. Larkin's home that she wouldn't accept it.

"We cannot go ahead. She refuses to accept your help," he said, "and next Thursday forenoon the house will be sold by an auctioneer on the premises."

Lucy cried about it at first and then went to Mrs. Larkin. Whatever Mrs. Larkin said to Lucy about her faith that the Lord would provide cheered her.

Almost everyone was at the auction.

Mrs. Larkin wasn't there.

Not a thing was left in the house as to furnishings.

Also, Lucy Goodwin wasn't at the sale. Mr. Graves was there. He bought the house himself.

"I'm buying it for young Mr. Larkin, who wants to make a sort of servants' cottage of it," Mr. Graves said. "I suppose you have heard the news. He bought the Boyd place and had it fixed up. He's up there with his mother now—and his wife."

"Wife?" Mrs. Connors asked.

"Yes, he married Lucy Goodwin over in Salem yesterday afternoon. Young Mr. Larkin had had several hundred thousand dollars on deposit at our bank for a couple of years."

"Well, well," Mrs. Connors said to Thelma. "Lucy was right, there was a brand new version to the selling of the Larkin homestead episode, wasn't there!"

"I don't believe a word of it," Thelma cried, angrily.

But it was all quite true.

Milestone—

MOSCOW.—Prof. Alex. Maltsev, of Omsk, Siberia, has cultured a microbe which preys on mosquitos, rendering the female mosquito sterile. Science hopes to thus bring about the self-extermination of mosquitos by preventing reproduction.

* * *

Radicals, however, declare that it is a simple matter to determine whether or not a mosquito is a female. Merely herd the mosquitos together. Then eliminate the males. The remainder will be females.

* * *

But they may underestimate the influence of mosquitos with the United States Chamber of Commerce and the Fish committee.

Men of the Hour—
No. 9,386-A

This is a Mr. Witzel, who tip-toed all the way from Chicago Heights to Washington in his stocking feet to urge legislation making it a felony for a chairman to change the subject by inquiring of the bewildered seeker for truth: "Does that answer your question?"

THIS IS BULLY!
(Magazine Article.)

"I have travelled from Portland, Oregon, to the Atlantic Coast, up the coast from Washington to New York, motored along the Hudson, drove along Lakes George and Champlain to and through Quebec, stayed in Montreal, visited Ottawa, Canada's proud capital, rode through rural sections to Toronto and Hamilton and recrossed the border at Niagara Falls and have yet to see the first intoxicated man in either country or the first suggestion of liquor drinking."

SALUTE!

Our Fearless Journalism salute goes this week to a paper called the Coachella Valley (California) Submarine. The Submarine does not hesitate to battle for what it believes to be right, and prints the following bigger and better poem in its campaign against Pink-eye—

YOU ARE NOT GOING TO STAY

Ding-dong the school bell is ringing,
Play-time is over again;
Children are going thither,
Ready for knowledge to gain.

Playing out under the palm trees,
Danger is not hiding there;
Gathered in school rooms by fifty,
You must be cautious there.

Children beware of the pink-eye,
Dangerous foe of the young;
It causes much pain and anguish,
Pleasures from you are wrung.

Below from the unseen rivers,
Bright sparkling water flows;
Bathe in the morning so early,
With pure cold water that glows.

Pink-eye, you are lurking yonder,
Do not come by my way;
With our clean faces and bodies,
You are not going to stay.

—E. R. Waknitz.

He'll Save You Money

Pinchot, and Pinchot Alone, Offers Chance for Relief from the Extortionate Charges of the Public Utilities.

Of many good reasons for voting for Gifford Pinchot for governor next Tuesday there are two which are specially compelling:

1. Pinchot, and Pinchot alone, offers hope for relief from the outrageous rates with which some of the public utilities are gouging the people.

2. Pinchot proved, during his administration as governor, that he is an excellent business manager, who will save money for the taxpayers.

Here is one example of the way in which the public utilities are gouging the people: The Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, a subsidiary of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, charges 25 cents for a ride, while in other cities such a ride costs only 10 cents. For a Pittsburgher who uses the bus to ride to and from work the overcharge amounts in a year to one and a half times the average city tax.

The next administration will spend $800,000,000. Pinchot knows how to economize and get the taxpayers their money's worth. When he became governor in 1923 the state was $32,000,000 in debt. He paid off the debt and left his successor a comfortable treasury balance.

No Slackness Here

The H. J. Heinz Company Is Employing More Men and Women Than In Any Preceding Month This Year.

The campaign for the relief of the unemployed should not be allowed to convey the impression that business is slack everywhere. We offer as proof that it is not the following from The 57 News, house organ of the H. J. Heinz Company:

"More copies of THE 57 NEWS will be distributed this month than at any previous time in 1930. This statement may not be considered important as a business indicator, but it is significant because it shows that H. J. Heinz Company is now employing more men and women than in any preceding month this year."

Let us guard against looking at the business situation from a false perspective. It is not so bad as some people think it is. The Heinz Company has business because it goes after business aggressively.

Howard Heinz and the company which bears his name are to be congratulated, by the way, on the completion of "61 years of friendly industrial relationship between the company and its employes." That is a magnificent record.

Bad Water

Contamination of Supply On Which South Side Depends Is Merely an Exaggeration of a Chronic Condition.

Forty thousand families on the South Side and in the South Hills, who get their water from the South Pittsburgh Water Company, have been told to lay in a three days' supply because of the large amount of benzol and phenol that have escaped into the Monongahela River from an industrial plant nine miles above the company's intake pipes.

The present contamination is merely an exaggeration of a chronic condition. The Monongahela is always polluted with industrial waste. Fish cannot live in the poisoned water, and lately boiler tubes and other metal objects coming in contact with the water have soon been damaged by the corrosive effect of the acid in it.

Stream pollution is a serious problem throughout Pennsylvania. Gifford Pinchot has long recognized this. His platform calls for purification of the streams.

Pinchot's chief opponent, seemingly less familiar with Pennsylvania's needs, has ignored the subject.

Exodus of Amish

They Avoid Civic Duties, but They Have Many Admirable Qualities.

A dispatch from Lewistown reports that Amish families, discouraged by high taxes and poor crops for three years, are leaving that county for Mississippi, and it looks like the beginning of a wholesale migration.

The Amish (followers of Jacob Amen) are a branch of the Mennonites, and there are more of them in Pennsylvania than in any other state. They are a reminder of the principles on which Pennsylvania was founded, for they came here as early as 1683, at the invitation of William Penn, to escape religious persecution.

The Amish are frequently confused with another peculiar religious sect with many colonies in Pennsylvania—the German Baptist Brethren, also called "Dunkers," from a German word meaning to dip or baptize.

The Amish and Dunkers are opposed to military service, to testifying in court, and some to voting or serving on the jury. So they can hardly be regarded as good citizens. Yet they are industrious, law-abiding, moral and inoffensive. The departure of a large number of Amish farmers will be regrettable.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You may hold a menial position and you'd like to be a big, important man.

When you expand yourself to full capacity you want to have an objective of big results.

But how can you expect to be successful in a more important position than you have now if you won't develop your present position to the limit?

Saving yourself for a larger opening makes you less able to meet requirements of the larger opportunity when it presents itself.

There must be stiff and exacting training to fill a position with requirements beyond a previous experience.

The mind must be drilled and exercised to a point where concentration on new projects may be commanded.

Saving it from such demands weakens it and it does not store up the additional energy which may be called for in quick action.

It becomes easier to concentrate if your mind has had years of such training and you cannot afford to pass up this seemingly insignificant chance to improve.

Prepare yourself for the big chance in order that you may fulfill its demands when you get it.

Now, Pull Together

By Nelson Harding

The lifeboat has at last been launched
And headed for the wreck,
Where many perilously cling
And crowd the shattered deck.

The boat's crew soon can reach the hulk
In spite of wind and weather,
And make a skillful rescue there
If all will pull together.

When You Buy—

A Chair.

THE LUMBERJACK | THE MILL HAND

Wise Americans with a few dollars saved up are benefiting from the "business depression," so-called.

They are furnishing their houses with necessities or even luxuries, are outfitting themselves and their families with shoes, hats, clothes; are buying many things they have wanted, but previously couldn't afford.

You have heard that it is an ill wind that blows nobody good.

The ill wind of depression has been bad for many, but a boon to some.

Those who benefit by it are those who buy at the present low prices.

THE JOINER | THE UPHOLSTERER

Buying now, you help yourself, and, though possibly you don't realize it, you help many others.

It is pleasant to be able to help others.

It is especially pleasant when such help does not take the form of giving alms, but is merely good business.

Suppose you buy an arm chair for your living room.

These little sketches show you who are helped by that purchase.

The lumberjack, the millhand, the joiner and fitter, the upholsterer, the salesman at the department store—and most important of all, YOURSELF.

IN THE STORE | IN THE HOME

We can't show here ALL the people who benefit by each single purchase. Modern industry is too vast, its processes are too complicated, it employs too many people. Suffice it to say that your money and that of other buyers is distributed among thousands of millions of workers in every corner of the land.

And these, in turn, use it to buy from others—eventually, in fact, from YOU.

There are times to buy and times to sell.

The wise man buys when prices are down. Thus he profits. And—believe it or not—he does more to relieve unemployment than all the breadlines and soup kitchens in his city.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Weekly News Reel

Tin Can Island—Cameras show eclipse of the sun lasted 93 seconds. Not long enough for a feature picture. Hollywood will stretch it to six reels.

Yaleburgh—This university has 11,000 football players and no students.

Moscow—Gloria doesn't want to be queen. You cannot divorce the king.

Boston—Visitor to town tells police he was robbed of his watch and chain with Austin car attached.

Genoa—Germany doesn't want to pay those war debts. The League of Nations should postpone its next birthday because of bad weather.

South America—We have laid in our new fall line of Presidents.

Isn't It So?

It is better to face a danger once than be always in fear.

The most anyone can hope for is to be a successful pedestrian.

A stone wall or a telephone pole can stop a car quicker than four-wheeled brakes.

THE POPULARITY OF SCIENCE

By Archibald Henderson

One of the most impressive and extraordinary of contemporary social phenomena is the popularity of science. This phenomena has made its appearance during the past half century, and has become pronounced only within the present century.

It marks a definite advance in the intellectual alertness of the great masses of the people, in civilized countries. The public has become inquisitive. The people are not content to permit the scientists to keep to themselves, in their meetings where technical papers are presented, the fascinating results of their new discoveries. The man in the street wants to know what the new discovery is, and to have it explained to him in a lucid manner.

Signs are multiplying around us, all the time, of the fascination which the latest scientific discoveries exert on the popular mind. The press has discovered the interest now displayed by the "general reader" in scientific subjects; and has endeavored in the most active and efficient way, to qualify that interest. The latest discoveries of science—a planet X, a new theory of Einstein, a pronouncement of Millikan, an experiment of Michelson, a lecture of Eddington—these are given as much space, in many great newspapers, as a marriage of crowned heads, the latest Balkan storm cloud, the war waging between two South American countries.

Through series of syndicated articles, reaching millions of people, science is presented in a popular and readable way, and made genuinely understandable for the newspaper reader. Hundreds, even thousands, of books have been written, in the effort to give a simple explanation of Einstein's theories. The announcement of a popular lecture on Relativity produces a mob eager to storm the doors of the lecture hall.

A publisher, nowadays, cannot rest content until his list is rendered complete by the addition of one, and often a number of books, each season, dealing with science, intelligently treated and popularly presented.

Science is the great interest, the most absorbing prepossession of the age. Even sport holds second place to it. The late Arthur J. Balfour said: "Science is the great instrument of social change, all the greater because its object is not change but knowledge, and its silent appropriation of this dominant function, amid the din of political and religious strife, is the most vital of all the revolutions which have marked the development of modern civilization." People are beginning to agree with Balfour that science is seriously to be ranked today with religion and patriotism as an important force for raising men's lives above what is small, personal and self-centered.

There is not a single practical branch of human thought which has not been altered, and often to its very foundations, by the progress of science. It is a mighty octopus which reaches out its tentacles and takes everything within its grasp. At times, when businesses grow immense and the magnitude of the operations has become appalling, it becomes imperative to mark time, while a stocktaking is inaugurated. The business gets the operative in its clutches. The machine drives the man. The typewriter controls the typist.

A moment in the cultural history of modern times has arrived, which serious thinkers regard as being in the nature of a crisis. The greatest of all machines which now dominate and influence mankind is the mighty machine of modern science. Must this mighty Juggernaut roll on relentlessly, crushing humanity beneath it? Must sociology, philosophy, ethics, religion be relegated to a position universally recognized as secondary to science?

Surely no harm can come from a stock-taking, a general inventory of the present stock-in-trade. The wheels of industry must turn; and better machines will continue to discover new wonders and disclose new aspects of nature. But it is certainly the part of wisdom for the race to consolidate its advance, to see what science has done for our benefit, and likewise to discover if science has done anything to our detriment. From the human, the social point of view, such a stock-taking is indispensable, both for our peace of mind, our welfare, and our happiness.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Broadway's numberless tiny specialty shops devoted to millinery, lingerie, perfume and other luxuries offer a study in commercial sagacity and bravado. That they survive the more formidable competition about them is due to an uncanny flair for sales psychology.

For such two-by-twice space the rentals in the more desirable locations run as high as $20,000 a year, although the average is around $6,000. In a single block stretching between Forty-second and Fiftieth streets are 26 of these cubicle sales rooms. None would hold a dozen customers comfortably.

They depend solely on the lure of window displays to draw customers, for they rarely advertise. Once inside you face the cunning of a spider spinning its web. The gushing proprietress is known to the sales girls as "Modom." She is in the background until the sales punch is needed.

Then she whirls zooming out of her seclusion, ample-bosomed, double-chinned and fiercely convincing. She has acquired a musical comedy foreign accent and her stock phrases are "tres chic" and "tres bon." She carries a customer away with the sheer force of her honeyed guile.

Often goods are shoddy and cannot be exchanged. Yet it is only fair to chronicle many diminutive establishments are reliable and have been in existence for years. The patronage is chiefly among crepe de Chine ladies, chorus and manicure girls and cashiers.

They open before 9 in the morning and a large percentage remain open until midnight and after. Hosiery shops do an especially large business after theater. Gentlemen on the way home with mademoiselles of the moment are piloted by window displays. And diggety-dig-dig! How they dig!

Another subtle and almost sure-fire appeal to idolatrous Broadway is an autographed array of photographs. If a shop keeper can offer self-signed soulful poses inscribed "To Madam Claire from Lenore Ulric!" she finds the sheep will come tumbling in.

Yesterday I passed the site of the old "Aligator" on the Bowery. In opulent days it hived the blowziest bums around Brooklyn Bridge. A nickel beer would be served with two straws and if you spent a quarter you fell heir to a free ticket to the "flop room" in the rear. The proprietor had the euphonius name of Percival Paraway Potts. Today an electrical store occupies the space.

* * *

The Bowery's electric third-rail booze has been supplanted by a milky white mixture known as "smoke." Those who partake stagger for a few blocks and fall into a semiconscious heap—the Bowery way of forgetting for a little while.

* * *

At least there is something different in the alibi of a Broadway actor returning from Hollywood who, Mickey Neilan reports, did not remain because there were not enough directors to go around.

* * *

And there is a chuckle in a pleasantly anonymous correspondent today who signs off with: "From one who is not too frightfully all there."

This is a true incident in the life of a wealthy New York bachelor. After years of incompetency he acquired an almost perfect Japanese valet, save he speaks little English. So the bachelor is studying the language of Japan. And if that isn't valet loyalty I promise never to run another valet item, so help me.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Remember the classic story of the young lady who plucked at a stray string and raveled out her whole union suit? Often, watching people, watching myself, I think of that ridiculous, tragic story. For lives ravel out like that—ravel out for no seeming reason . . . . go to pieces so senselessly yet so inevitably under our foolish fumbling.

Dishonor—a terrible word, but how easily and simply it starts. One little fib—what did it matter? A bit of pretense—one HAS to do things like that sometimes, doesn't one? What was there wrong in it? Who did it hurt? . . . So it started. Almost unconsciously. And presently the barriers are down, the barriers that rose so strong and tight between Wrong and Right. Why is a splendid gentleman like Jim Blank in the pen for forgery? That's why. He didn't start out to be a forger. But he fumbled—took chances with the stray ends of his character—and raveled himself into the pen.

Courage—remember what a tall and shining thing courage seemed at 17? Others might desert and surrender, make ignoble compromises—not you! You were going to face life!

You were going to stick to your guns! Well. . . dare you look back? Dare you think of the changes that have come between that time and this? I daren't! How did it happen? What great evil thing forced us to abandon our high standards — forced us to cringe and surrender and duck and dodge? No great evil thing. Just our own foolish fumbling with our code . . . trivial side-stepping and evasions that "didn't matter"—Like the thread that raveled out in that union suit "didn't matter."

Decency — Pretty easy for decency to ravel out these days! "No one wants to be a prude." So down come the bars and in come the trashy friends and the questionable amusements — and after a while, just where DO you stand? Just what IS "your limit?"

Love raveling out — that's the cruelest sight of all. Love raveling out until there's nothing left but emptiness and hate—what excuses we make when it happens! What complicated reasons we give! But nine times out of ten there's nothing complicated about it. No great blow breaks us—no secret, sinister barrier divides us. We're undone by our own petty plucking at the precious fabric of love. Trivial squabbles. Small, mean grudges. Childish jealousies. Nagging that starts in a pin-prick of irritation and spreads into a cancerous habit—

I'm thinking of two I know. They'd been devoted, married comrades for 15 years. Last year they lost all their savings in the market crash. A nasty shock that crashed through all their decencies and reserves. Suddenly they found themselves quarreling—she blaming him for their predicament, he blaming her. I doubt if there was any real malice behind it at first . . . the quarrel was simply a release for overstrained nerves. But, having once started, they kept it up. It was easier the second time . . . almost inevitable the third. Presently they had a score of reasons for resentment against each other. Today they're in the divorce court, and there isn't a real reason for it. They're as suited to each other as they ever were. They could have saved their love under any amount of hardship if they hadn't started that tragic plucking and pinching of each other's hearts. But—they didn't realize. They pulled the string. Today love has raveled away. The pity of it!
